40,000 Russians May Still Be in Cuba, Probers Say

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate investigators said today the official estimate of 17,500 Russians still in Cuba is "perhaps a minimum figure" and "strategic weapons may or may not be now in Cuba."

An interim report of the Senate Preparedness subcommittee on its investigation of the Soviet military buildup in Cuba and last October's missile crisis said, "The continued presence of the Soviet expedition in Cuba can now be seen to be a most effective shield against either internal revolt by native insurgents, or invasion by external forces from any source."

The 34-page report of the subcommittee, headed by Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., also warned that the presence of the Soviets in Cuba "affects adversely our nation's image and prestige."

"Our friends abroad will understandably doubt our ability to meet and defeat the forces of communism thousands of miles across the ocean if we prove unable to cope with the communist threat at our very doorstep," the subcommittee said.

The report said:

"Assuming without deciding that all strategic weapons have been withdrawn, there is the ever-present possibility of the stealthy reintroduction of strategic missiles and other offensive weapons, using the Soviet forces still in Cuba as camouflage and security for the activity."

The subcommittee said intelligence chiefs, on the basis of their judgment that all strategic and offensive weapons have been removed, "Do not believe that the Communist forces in Cuba now present a direct agressive military threat to the United States or Latin America.

"Strategic weapons may or may not be now in Cuba. We can reach no conclusion on this because of the lack of conclusive evidence."

As to the number of Soviet personnel in Cuba, the subcommittee said some sources—primarily refugee and exile groups—estimate the number may be as high as 40,000.

"Bearing in mind the lack of hard evidence on the question and the substantial underestimation of last fall, we conclude that no one in official United States circles can tell, with any real degree of confidence, how many Russians are now in Cuba and we are of the opinion that the official 17,500 estimate is perhaps a minimum figure."

School Safety Patrols Get Gold Medals From JFK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seven boys and a girl, ranging in age from 11 to 15, received gold medals from President Kennedy today for saving fellow school children from injury or death.

Kennedy pinned American Automobile Association gold Lifesaver medals on the youngsters at a ceremony in the rose garden outside his office.

All the award winners are members of school safety patrols. In most cases, they rushed into the paths of oncoming cars to push other children to safety.

Kennedy congratulated the AAA for organizing the awards program and for giving young people "positions of responsibility and leadership which they have responded to."

Two youngsters from Trumbull School, Chicago, received medals for pulling an adult school crossing guard and three girls out of the path of a speeding car. The medal winners are Alvin Cynova, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Cynova and Randy Newnum, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Jenkins.

Another award went to John Mingle, 11, of the O. S. Knapp School, Somerville, Mass., for saving five children from injury when a car with defective brakes and steering jumped a curb and crashed into a house.

John pushed two children behind a pole, then raced across the path of the runaway auto and shoved three boys to safety. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Mingle.

Andrew S. Roberts, 12, of Public School 214 in Flushing, N.Y., son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Roberts, was honored for pulling two children and two women out of the path of a speeding auto.

William F. Shady Jr., 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Shady, Halesite, N.Y., a student at St.

Most Merchants Say One Way Streets Not Harmful

City Traffic Engineer Don L. Smith said today that only eight of 45 businessmen along existing one-way streets in Colorado Springs reported that such a one-way setup had "harmed" their business.

Merchants contacted in the survey made Tuesday are doing business on Bijou and Kiowa Streets between Nevada and Cascade Avenues.

The survey further showed that 14 felt the one-way street operation had "improved" their business while the other 23 said the traffic pattern had "no effect" on business.

Smith said the survey was made for information purposes since there is another plan now under study that would make one-way streets of the following:

Tejon Street one-way south bound from Bijou to Cucharras Street (there is no plan to install parallel parking along this stretch).

The City Downtown Traffic Committee was briefed on the proposal last Thursday, but did not view it favorably in the initial presentation. The plan is still under study, however.

"Business increased somewhat, but do not feel that one-way had anything to do with it."

"Very good — much better."

"Business off, but can't say

Architects Are Selected for School Projects

Initial steps toward construction of two elementary schools in District 11 costing an estimated $1 million were taken Wednesday with the selection of architects for the project.

The schools, which are scheduled to be opened in September of next year, were the major item of business on the agenda for the reorganized school board.

William S. Marshall was re-elected president and Maurice G. Baker was renamed to serve for two more years as vice president of the board. Other officers named were A. C. Erickson, secretary for another two years.

Ownership Of Cows Cut By Russians

MOSCOW (AP) — The Russian Soviet Republic sharply limited today the amount of livestock which private citizens may own.

Effective July 1, the decree said, "citizens who are not members of collective farms may have included in their personal property one cow and a calf not older than four months, one goat and kids not older than a year and one pig or three sheep with off spring not older than a year."

Surveillance Of Cuba Is Curtailed

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—U.S. surveillance of Soviet military activity in Cuba has been curtailed and an intelligence gap is developing, the Miami Herald said today.

In a dispatch from Washington, the Herald cited three instances of decreased intelligence-gathering:

1. Low-level reconnaissance flights have been suspended since Feb. 9.

2. High-level U2 reconnaissance flights are being kept at a minimum.

3. Anti-Castro guerrilla reports are being stifled by the U.S. crack down on American-based raids against Cuba.

Military leaders in Washington were described as upset over three developments in Cuba about which they feel they have insufficient information:

1. The appearance of a large number of Russian tents, some of them big enough to enclose a missile and its launcher.

2. Heavy transport traffic to and from areas where large caves are known to be. Cuba exiles have long maintained that the Russians are hiding missiles in Cuba's numerous caves.

3. Construction of a rail line to a major Soviet camp area.

"These showed up in recent high-level photos, but beyond bringing the disturbing discoveries to light no detailed information has been obtained—due to the lack of low-level reconnaissance flights, the drastic curbs on raiders and the adverse effect that has had on contacts with, and the operations of, the underground," said the Herald article.

The newspaper said the slowdown in intelligence gathering is the result of what it called President Kennedy's determination that nothing be done to rock the boat in Cuba.

Congressional leaders have been told that the President believes his conciliatory course will lead to the withdrawal of more Russian troops from Cuba, the paper said.

Pope Ill With Cancer, Says Newspaper

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — The Baltimore Sun says today, "It is generally accepted in Vatican circles that the Pope has cancer, that he knows it, and that he does not expect to live a long time."

The Sun, in a Rome dispatch by Weldon Wallace, says this summary of Pope John XXIII's condition came from an official in a position to know the situation.

"Reportedly the malignancy involves the stomach," the dispatch adds.

"Recently, he has been troubled by pains that have awakened him at night and required him to take sedatives. Also he is reported to have had a 'crisis' several days ago. The nature of this emergency was not described.

"His general condition is complicated by a prostate tumor and by debilities of age—he is 81."

The Pope's doctor has in the past denied that he had cancer

Race Leader Threatens 'War' if Talks Collapse

Threat of Dominican-Haiti War Is Reported Reduced

NEW YORK (AP)—The Committee of the Organization of American States delayed its return to Haiti and the Dominican Republic today, apparently convinced that the threat of war between the two Caribbean neighbors is no longer serious.

The main concern appeared to be whether the threat of revolt in Haiti would prompt Dictator-President Francois Duvalier to launch sweeping, bloody reprisals against foreigners, particularly Americans, and suspected opponents.

The anti-Duvalier underground has threatened an uprising by May 15. Meanwhile the OAS is without authority to intervene in what is essentially a domestic Haitian affair.

Gonzalo Facio of Costa Rica, head of the OAS council, told newsmen in New York Wednesday night that it may be 10 days before the committee goes back to the troubled island of Hispaniola.

"The committee almost certainly will return," Facio said. "But just when and what their agenda

'Disaster' Aid Is Requested for El Paso County

A request for federal aid to drought-plagued El Paso County has been filed with the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Specific need is for livestock feed and emergency grazing. The request was filed by the county committee of the Agriculture Stabilization Conservation Service.

Severe lack of livestock feed and requests by county farmers for sources of feed have been made in sufficient number to force the county committee of ASCS to ask that El Paso be classified as a federal disaster area.

El Paso County is the third Colorado county to file for relief, according to an announcement today from Dewey Carnahan, chairman of U.S. Department of Agriculture's Colorado Disaster Committee.

Carnahan said, "It's real seri-

Henderson May Give Decision on Free Press Post

Former Colorado Springs Mayor William C. Henderson said today he will probably have an answer Friday on the question of whether or not he will become publisher of the Free Press.

Henderson will meet tonight at 7 with the board of directors of the Pikes Peak National Bank, an organization he helped found, to "take a reading" on his future obligations to the bank.

As executive vice president of the bank, Henderson said he is "deeply involved," particularly in view of the institution's expansion program.

Henderson was offered the publishership of the Free Press by officials of the International Typographical Union, the newspaper's owners. The offer was made publicly April 10 at a dinner in Henderson's honor held at the Union Printers Home, shortly before he retired as mayor of the city.

At the time it was reported that the ITU offered Henderson 51 per cent or controlling interest in the morning newspaper.

Room Needed For Women Criminals

CANON CITY (UPI)— Warden Harry Tinsley of Colorado State Prison said today he planned to ask county officials in the state to provide room for additional women prisoners.

Tinsley said there are now 38 women housed at the penitentiary, and one more would fill the cell-house.

He said 12 young women sentenced to the penitentiary are serving their terms at the Denver County Jail.

Military Pay Hike Bill Goes To U.S. Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $1.2-billion military pay raise bill, cleared by the House on a lopsided vote, now goes to the Senate with more fuss likely over a hotly disputed retirement provision.

The bill won House approval Wednesday on a standing vote of 293-10 after the legislators twice overruled their Armed Services Committee and wrote back into the legislation sections increasing the pensions of some 108,000 retired servicemen and providing special pay for cold war combat duty.

An amendment granting $30.5 million worth of extra pension boosts to servicemen who retired before June 1, 1958, was adopted on a 152-126 teller vote despite a finger-wagging warning from Armed Services Committee Chairman Carl Vinson, D-Ga.

"You're sowing the seed that's going to destroy the retirement system. You can't have these retirement costs going up by billions of dollars year after year," Vinson said.

At issue was an amendment to let the retired personnel involved refigure their pensions on the basis of pay scales now in effect, before tacking on the 5 per cent general pension increase provided by the bill.

Another Atomic Sub Swept By Flash Fire

VALLEJO, Calif. (AP)—A spectacular but minor flash fire injured three workmen Wednesday on the $45-million Polaris submarine Woodrow Wilson at a Navy construction yard.

Only the day before at Groton, Conn., another flash fire killed three workmen on the nuclear submarine Flasher, of the same attack type as the Thresher which disappeared April 10 in the Atlantic with 129 men aboard.

The Wilson fire, which caused little damage, was the result of a workman accidentally swinging a cable into contact with a live switchboard.

By DONALD F. MARTIN

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — "If we catch the white folks in a lie, then we will hit. And hit hard!"

This was the theme of an emotional mass meeting of the 6th Avenue Baptist Church Wednesday night. More than 1,500 Negroes clapped and stomped to "freedom songs" while their leaders demanded unity in the drive to tear down the color curtain in this Deep South city.

The Rev. James Bevel, wearing a blue denim jumper and a weirdly designed skull cap, told the rally to take a wait-and-see attitude on the negotiations between leading Negro and white citizens in the racially-torn Steel City.

But, the Negro minister said, if negotiations break down "This is war.

"The law means nothing to the Negro who is enslaved. What does a jail cell mean to me. I've been in jail ever since I was born with kinky hair, a flat nose and flat feet and big lips. As I told the judge, I've been enjoined since I was born.

"And don't let the white folks trick you. They let you think you are a 'good nigger" and once you think that they give you a chicken dinner and a car.

Bevel's speech was accompanied by cries of "amen" and thunderous applause.

The sparsely furnished church seats about 600. Every nook and cranny was filled, the overflow spilling out into the street. The heat was overbearing. One Negro woman fainted as the mercury rose to near 90.

Dr. William Coffin, chaplain at Yale University urged the Negroes to register to vote.

Coffin said "Negroes are partially responsible for the mess in Cuba because we have senators like Stennis and Eastland. If you are going to fight for democracy, you must vote."

Nineteen rabbis, representing every section of the nation, were guests at the rally.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)— This southern industrial city may know today whether month-long desegregation demonstrations finally have come to an end.

Negro leaders voiced hopes that a settlement of racial differences might be reached soon.

The truce almost collapsed a few hours after it started when

Astronaut Cooper Gets Ready for Big Flight

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Astronaut Leroy Gordon Cooper Jr. has his "ditty bag" packed and the Mercury travel agency has ticketed him for the most extensive round-the-world tour ever planned for an American.

Next Tuesday, if the present schedule holds, Cooper will rocket into space on an intended 22-orbit mission lasting 34 hours 19 minutes. His only luggage will be a lunch box of bite-size tidbits and dehydrated food and the ditty bag —a packet for storing cameras and miscellaneous items.

A glance at the flight plan reveals these highlights:

Cooper's "Faith 7" spacecraft will travel nearly 600,000 miles and cover more than one million square miles of the earth's surface—at altitudes ranging from 100 to 170 miles.

As Cooper circles the globe, he will traverse all areas between 32.5 degrees north and 32.5 degrees south latitudes, which in the Western Hemisphere extends roughly from Charleston, S.C., to Santiago, Chile, and in the Eastern Hemisphere from Shanghai, China, to Sydney, Australia.

He will pass over parts of five continents, North and South America, Asia, Africa and Australia. Africa and South America will be crossed frequently.

Cooper will be the first U.S. astronaut to fly over Red China, spending a total of about 45 minutes over the Communist nation on passes lasting from four to eight minutes during orbits No. 7, 8, 9, 10, 11 and 22. Should an emergency force a landing in China, America could be faced with a diplomatic headache.

If it's a clear day, Cooper will be the first American space pilot to peek behind the Iron Curtain. As he crosses above Afghanistan on the 10th and 11th orbits he briefly will be within a couple hundred miles of the southern Soviet border—within easy viewing distance from his sky-high vantage point.

Cooper's crossings of the United States will be confined to the

Soviets Lost Two Men on Space Flights, Stapp Says

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI)— One of the nation's leading space researchers said today it is his private opinion that the Soviet Union lost at least two men on missions before their first manned success.

Col. John P. Stapp of the U.S. Air Force said a conversation he had with the top Russian physician in that nation's space program led him to believe the failures came as a result of re-entry problems.

Stapp, speaking at a seminar being held in connection with the National Science Fair-International, said one Russian cosmonaut probably was lost in 1956 in a suborbital flight before the first Sputnik, which was launched Nov. 4, 1957.

The other unsuccessful space mission probably came before the success of the first manned orbital flight, Stapp said.

Stapp said he believes the Russians had re-entry problems because of the design of their space capsules.

"Because of persistent questions Dr. Yazdovsky asked me about the design of our Mercury capsules to eliminate irregular movements of the capsules," Stapp said. "I believe they lost the first cosmonaut in 1956 during experiments in vertical ascent and descent."

School Safety Patrols Get Gold Medals From JFK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seven boys and a girl, ranging in age from 11 to 15, received gold medals from President Kennedy today for saving fellow school children from injury or death.

Kennedy pinned American Automobile Association gold Lifesaver medals on the youngsters at a ceremony in the rose garden outside his office.

All the award winners are members of school safety patrols. In most cases, they rushed into the paths of oncoming cars to push other children to safety.

Kennedy congratulated the AAA for organizing the awards program and for giving young people "positions of responsibility and leadership which they have responded to."

Two youngsters from Trumbull School, Chicago, received medals for pulling an adult school crossing guard and three girls out of the path of a speeding car. The medal winners are Alvin Cynova, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Cynova and Randy Newnum, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Jenkins.

Another award went to John Mingle, 11, of the O. S. Knapp School, Somerville, Mass., for saving five children from injury when a car with defective brakes and steering jumped a curb and crashed into a house.

John pushed two children behind a pole, then raced across the path of the runaway auto and shoved three boys to safety. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Mingle.

Andrew S. Roberts, 12, of Public School 214 in Flushing, N.Y., son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Roberts, was honored for pulling two children and two women out of the path of a speeding auto.

William F. Shady Jr., 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Shady, Halesite, N.Y., a student at St.

Most Merchants Say One Way Streets Not Harmful

City Traffic Engineer Don L. Smith said today that only eight of 45 businessmen along existing one-way streets in Colorado Springs reported that such a one-way setup had "harmed" their business.

Merchants contacted in the survey made Tuesday are doing business on Bijou and Kiowa Streets between Nevada and Cascade Avenues.

The survey further showed that 14 felt the one-way street operation had "improved" their business while the other 23 said the traffic pattern had "no effect" on business.

Smith said the survey was made for information purposes since there is another plan now under study that would make one-way streets of the following:

Tejon Street one-way southbound from Bijou to Cucharras Street (there is no plan to install parallel parking along this stretch).

The City Downtown Traffic Committee was briefed on the proposal last Thursday, but did not view it favorably in the initial presentation. The plan is still under study, however.

Some typical remarks made by businessmen during the survey, Smith said, included the following:

"Business increased somewhat, but do not feel that one-way had anything to do with it.

"Very good — much better.

"Business off, but can't say

Architects Are Selected for School Projects

Initial steps toward construction of two elementary schools in District 11 costing an estimated $1 million were taken Wednesday with the selection of architects for the project.

The schools, which are scheduled to be opened in September of next year, were the major item of business on the agenda for the reorganized school board.

William S. Marshall was re-elected president and Maurice G. Baker was renamed to serve for two more years as vice president of the board. Other officers named were A. C. Erickson, secretary for another two years,

Ownership Of Cows Cut By Russians

MOSCOW (AP) — The Russian Soviet Republic sharply limited today the amount of livestock which private citizens may own.

Effective July 1, the decree said, "citizens who are not members of collective farms may have included in their personal property one cow and a calf not older than four months, one goat and kids not older than a year, and one pig or three sheep with offspring not older than a year."

Surveillance Of Cuba Is Curtailed

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—U.S. surveillance of Soviet military activity in Cuba has been curtailed and an intelligence gap is developing, the Miami, Herald said today.

In a dispatch from Washington, the Herald cited three instances of decreased intelligence-gathering:

1. Low-level reconnaissance flights have been suspended since Feb. 9.

2. High-level U2 reconnaissance flights are being kept at a minimum.

3. Anti-Castro guerrilla reports are being stifled by the U.S. crack down on American-based raids against Cuba.

Military leaders in Washington were described as upset over three developments in Cuba about which they feel they have insufficient information:

1. The appearance of a large number of Russian tents, some of them big enough to enclose a missile and its launcher.

2. Heavy transport traffic to and from areas where large caves are known to be. Cuba exiles have long maintained that the Russians are hiding missiles in Cuba's numerous caves.

3. Construction of a rail line to a major Soviet camp area.

"These showed up in recent high-level photos, but beyond bringing the disturbing discoveries to light no detailed information has been obtained—due to the lack of low-level reconnaissance flights, the drastic curbs on raiders and the adverse effect that has had on contacts with, and the operations of, the underground," said the Herald article.

The newspaper said the slowdown in intelligence gathering is the result of what it called President Kennedy's determination that nothing be done to rock the boat in Cuba.

Congressional leaders have been told that the President believes his concillatory course will lead to the withdrawal of more Russian troops from Cuba, the paper said.

Pope Ill With Cancer, Says Newspaper

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — The Baltimore Sun says today, "It is generally accepted in Vatican circles that the Pope has cancer, that he knows it, and that he does not expect to live a long time."

The Sun, in a Rome dispatch by Weldon Wallace, says this summary of Pope John XXIII's condition came from an official in a position to know the situation.

"Reportedly the malignancy involves the stomach," the dispatch adds.

"Recently, he has been troubled by pains that have awakened him at night and required him to take sedatives. Also he is reported to have had a 'crisis' several days ago. The nature of this emergency was not described.

"His general condition is complicated by a prostate tumor and by debilities of age—he is 81."

The Pope's doctor has in the past denied that he had cancer.

Race Leader Threatens 'War' if Talks Collapse

Threat of Dominican-Haiti War Is Reported Reduced

NEW YORK (AP)—The Committee of the Organization of American States delayed its return to Haiti and the Dominican Republic today, apparently convinced that the threat of war between the two Caribbean neighbors is no longer serious.

The main concern appeared to be whether the threat of revolt in Haiti would prompt Dictator-President Francois Duvalier to launch sweeping, bloody reprisals against foreigners, particularly Americans, and suspected opponents.

The anti-Duvalier underground has threatened an uprising by May 15. Meanwhile the OAS is without authority to intervene in what is essentially a domestic Haitian affair.

Gonzalo Facio of Costa Rica, head of the OAS council, told newsmen in New York Wednesday night that it may be 10 days before the committee goes back to the troubled island of Hispaniola.

"The committee almost certainly will return," Facio said. "But just when and what their agenda

'Disaster' Aid Is Requested for El Paso County

A request for federal aid to drought-plagued El Paso County has been filed with the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Specific need is for livestock feed and emergency grazing. The request was filed by the county committee of the Agriculture Stabilization Conservation Service.

Severe lack of livestock feed and requests by county farmers for sources of feed have been made in sufficient number to force the county committee of ASCS to ask that El Paso be classified as a federal disaster area.

El Paso County is the third Colorado county to file for relief, according to an announcement today from Dewey Carnahan, chairman of U.S. Department of Agriculture's Colorado Disaster Committee.

Carnahan said, "It's real seri-

Henderson May Give Decision on Free Press Post

Former Colorado Springs Mayor William C. Henderson said today he will probably have an answer Friday on the question of whether or not he will become publisher of the Free Press.

Henderson will meet tonight at 7 with the board of directors of the Pikes Peak National Bank, an organization he helped found, to "take a reading" on his future obligations to the bank.

As executive vice president of the bank, Henderson said he is "deeply involved," particularly in view of the institution's expansion program.

Henderson was offered the publishership of the Free Press by officials of the International Typographical Union, the newspaper's owners. The offer was made publicly April 10 at a dinner in Henderson's honor held at the Union Printers Home, shortly before he retired as mayor of the city.

At the time it was reported that the ITU offered Henderson 51 per cent or controlling interest in the morning newspaper.

Room Needed For Women Criminals

CANON CITY (UPI)— Warden Harry Tinsley of Colorado State Prison said today he planned to ask county officials in the state to provide room for additional women prisoners.

Tinsley said there are now 38 women housed at the penitentiary, and one more would fill the cellhouse.

He said 12 young women sentenced to the penitentiary are serving their terms at the Denver County Jail.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $1.2-billion military pay raise bill, cleared by the House on a lopsided vote, now goes to the Senate with more fuss likely over a hotly disputed retirement provision.

The bill won House approval Wednesday on a standing vote of 293-10 after the legislators twice overruled their Armed Services Committee and wrote back into the legislation sections increasing the pensions of some 108,000 retired servicemen and providing special pay for cold war combat duty.

An amendment granting $30.5 million worth of extra pension boosts to servicemen who retired before June 1, 1958, was adopted on a 152-126 teller vote despite a finger-wagging warning from Armed Services Committee Chairman Carl Vinson, D-Ga.

"You're sowing the seed that's going to destroy the retirement system. You can't have these retirement costs going up by billions of dollars year after year," Vinson said.

At issue was an amendment to let the retired personnel involved refigure their pensions on the basis of pay scales now in effect, before tacking on the 5 per cent general pension increase provided by the bill.

Another Atomic Sub Swept By Flash Fire

VALLEJO, Calif. (AP)—A spectacular but minor flash fire injured three workmen Wednesday on the $45-million Polaris submarine Woodrow Wilson at a Navy construction yard.

Only the day before at Groton, Conn., another flash fire killed three workmen on the nuclear submarine Flasher, of the same attack type as the Thresher which disappeared April 10 in the Atlantic with 129 men aboard.

The Wilson fire, which caused little damage, was the result of a workman accidentally swinging a cable into contact with a live switchboard.

By DONALD F. MARTIN

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — "If we catch the white folks in a lie, then we will hit. And hit hard!"

This was the theme of an emotional mass meeting of the 6th Avenue Baptist Church Wednesday night. More than 1,500 Negroes clapped and stomped to "freedom songs" while their leaders demanded unity in the drive to tear down the color curtain in this Deep South city.

The Rev. James Bevel, wearing a blue denim jumper and a weirdly designed skull cap, told the rally to take a wait-and-see attitude on the negotiations between leading Negro and white citizens in the racially-torn Steel City.

But, the Negro minister said, if negotiations break down "This is war.

"The law means nothing to the Negro who is enslaved. What does a jail cell mean to me. I've been in jail ever since I was born with kinky hair, a flat nose and flat feet and big lips. As I told the judge, I've been enjoined since I was born.

"And don't let the white folks trick you. They let you think you are a 'good nigger' and once you think that they give you a chicken dinner and a car.

Bevel's speech was accompanied by cries of "amen" and thunderous applause.

The sparsely furnished church seats about 600. Every nook and cranny was filled, the overflow spilling out into the street. The heat was overbearing. One Negro woman fainted as the mercury rose to near 90.

Dr. William Coffin, chaplain at Yale University urged the Negroes to register to vote.

Coffin said "Negroes are partially responsible for the mess in Cuba because we have senators like Stennis and Eastland. If you are going to fight for democracy, you must vote."

Nineteen rabbis, representing every section of the nation, were guests at the rally.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—This southern industrial city may know today whether month-long desegregation demonstrations finally have come to an end.

Negro leaders voiced hopes that a settlement of racial differences might be reached soon.

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Astronaut Leroy Gordon Cooper Jr. has his "ditty bag" packed and the Mercury travel agency has ticketed him for the most extensive round-the-world tour ever planned for an American.

Next Tuesday, if the present schedule holds, Cooper will rocket into space on an intended 22-orbit mission lasting 34 hours 19 minutes. His only luggage will be a lunch box of bite-size tidbits and dehydrated food and the ditty bag—a packet for storing cameras and miscellaneous items.

A glance at the flight plan reveals these highlights:

Cooper's "Faith 7" spacecraft will travel nearly 600,000 miles and cover more than one million square miles of the earth's surface—at altitudes ranging from 100 to 170 miles.

As Cooper circles the globe, he will traverse all areas between 32.5 degrees north and 32.5 degrees south latitudes, which in the Western Hemisphere extends roughly from Charleston, S.C., to Santiago, Chile, and in the Eastern Hemisphere from Shanghai, China, to Sydney, Australia.

He will pass over parts of five continents, North and South America, Asia, Africa and Australia Africa and South America will be crossed frequently.

Cooper will be the first U.S. astronaut to fly over Red China, spending a total of about 45 minutes over the Communist nation on passes lasting from four to eight minutes during orbits No. 7, 8, 9, 10, 11 and 22. Should an emergency force a landing in China, America could be faced with a diplomatic headache.

If it's a clear day, Cooper will be the first American space pilot to peek behind the Iron Curtain. As he crosses above Afghanistan on the 10th and 11th orbits he briefly will be within a couple hundred miles of the southern Soviet border—within easy viewing distance from his sky-high vantage point.

Cooper's crossings of the United States will be confined to the

Soviets Lost Two Men on Space Flights, Stapp Says

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI)—One of the nation's leading space researchers said today it is his private opinion that the Soviet Union lost at least two men on missions before their first manned success.

Col. John P. Stapp of the U.S. Air Force said a conversation he had with the top Russian physician in that nation's space program led him to believe the failures came as a result of re-entry problems.

Stapp, speaking at a seminar being held in connection with the National Science Fair-International, said one Russian cosmonaut probably was lost in 1956 in a sub-orbital flight before the first Sputnik, which was launched Nov. 4, 1957.

The other unsuccessful space mission probably came before the success of the first manned orbital flight, Stapp said.

Stapp said he believes the Russians had re-entry problems because of the design of their space capsules.

"Because of persistent questions Dr. Yazdovsky asked me about the design of our Mercury capsules to eliminate irregular movements of the capsules," Stapp said, "I believe they lost the first cosmonaut in 1956 during experiments in vertical ascent and descent."

A list of six proposals to remedy the future operation of Television reception with a ballot for voting on same was included. The committee favorably proposed that a reliable corporation come into the area and install a cable system to cover the communities of Cascade, Chipita Park and Green Mountain Falls for good strong signal reception on channels ABC, CBS and NBC.

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—A folksinger failed to show for a concert here Wednesday night and the 3,000 folks in the audience took it as a joke at first, and then gloomily filed out the Loyola Field House.

The performer, Joan Baez, said she was ill and unable to attend.

Her manager, Manny Greenhill, told the audience the artist was upset over the racial situation in Alabama.

Miss Baez said: "Birmingham has nothing to do with it. I have a virus and a cold, and I don't want to give a second-rate performance."

SWALLOWED EVIDENCE

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Police seeking to crack a ring that was looting parking meters discovered vital evidence in the stomach of suspect Ildefoso V. Delgado.

ALCATRAZ QUESTIONS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Monday voted to set up a five-man commission to consider such questions as whether a plaque should be affixed to a cell at Alcatraz reading "Al Capone slept here."

San Francisco area House members, flooded with suggestions on what to do with the abandoned federal prison, said the proposals range from sensible to ridiculous. The only way out is to let a distinguished, disinterested group sit down and sift through the lot, they decided.

Folk Singer Fans Are Disappointed

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—A folksinger failed to show for a concert here Wednesday night and the 3,000 folks in the audience took it as a joke at first, and then gloomily filed out the Loyola Field House.

The performer, Joan Baez, said she was ill and unable to attend.

Her manager, Manny Greenhill, told the audience the artist was upset over the racial situation in Alabama.

Miss Baez said: "Birmingham has nothing to do with it. I have a virus and a cold, and I don't want to give a second-rate performance."

SWALLOWED EVIDENCE

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Police seeking to crack a ring that was looting parking meters discovered vital evidence in the stomach of suspect Ildefoso V. Delgado.

An X-ray revealed a stolen parking meter key inside Delgado's stomach. Officers said he swallowed it when discovered loitering suspiciously near a row of meters.

ALCATRAZ QUESTIONS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Monday voted to set up a five-man commission to consider such questions as whether a plaque should be affixed to a cell at Alcatraz reading "Al Capone slept here."

San Francisco area House members, flooded with suggestions on what to do with the abandoned federal prison, said the proposals range from sensible to ridiculous. The only way out is to let a distinguished, disinterested group sit down and sift through the lot, they decided.

Haiti Dictator Finds He Has Few Friends

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Haiti's dictator-President Francois Duvalier was a little like the weather this week—everyone was talking about him but there seemed little that anyone could do about him.

After two weeks of crisis, the threat of war on the little island of Hispaniola, shared by Haiti and the Dominican Republic, seemed to be receding.

Interestingly, the very democratic forces which Duvalier effectively had destroyed among Haiti's 4.2 million wretched people, were among those helping him to remain in office.

One of these was the peace team dispatched by the Organization of American States to Port au Prince and to Santo Domingo to attempt to mediate the quarrel which had led Dominican President Juan Bosch to threaten to send his troops plunging across the Haitian border.

The other was the United Nations to which Duvalier had appealed on the charge that the Dominican Republic threatened Haiti's "democratic institutions."

Among African nations there was a sentiment that Duvalier's U. N. charges should be debated.

But both OAS and the possible U. N. action simply consisted of delaying tactics.

For, while Bosch agreed to hold off military action pending OAS findings and Haiti agreed to release "little by little" an estimated 100 refugees in asylum in foreign embassies, the underlying causes for violence remained within Haiti itself.

From his presidential palace Duvalier shouted defiantly that he had been given power and that "God is the only one who will take it from me."

But forces had been set in motion that would be difficult to stop.

The U. S. long since had indicated its distaste for Duvalier and in proof of the expectation of further violence began removing its citizens from Haiti.

Even if he desisted from direct military action, Bosch himself could be expected to continue to work for Duvalier's downfall with the strong moral support of such as President Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela and Gov. Luis Munoz Marin of Puerto Rico.

In fact in the whole of the Caribbean area, Duvalier could look for help to no one.

Duvalier's own claim to a second term clearly was fraudulent, both by the terms on which he claimed it and by the Haitian constitution.

The policy of non-intervention bound both the United States and the OAS but plight of events had been placed on Haiti and now OAS might consider negotiations inside Haiti itself a threat to hemispheric peace.

Inside Haiti, Duvalier's enemies are legion and active. Even his own private 10,000 "bogeyman" militia could not be wholly trusted.

When it comes, it seems the end of Duvalier must be violent. The tragedy is for the added sufferings it must bring to the people of Haiti.

Deposits Lower Rate, Utilities Firm Declares

By STEPHEN M. AUG

DENVER (AP) — If you rent a house or apartment, or own a new business, chances are you're among 65,000 Coloradoans who have an "investment" of nearly $2 million in the Public Service Co. of Colorado.

The investment—totaling $1,800,000—is the amount being held by Pueblo Service as customers' deposits.

"We don't like to take these deposits," Ralph Gude, PSC secretary, says, "but we've got to protect ourselves. Deposits are taken for the benefit of all of our customers."

The deposits, he says, are taken to protect the company from having a large number of uncollectable accounts. If a customer doesn't pay his electric bill—or leaves town and gives no forwarding address—Public Service generally has a deposit to cover the bill.

Last year PSC lost about $400,000 from uncollectable accounts—far less than had there been no deposits. This is about one-third of one per cent of PSC's total revenue of nearly $132.8 million.

"These deposits are taken," he says, "to make the rates as low as possible—otherwise all our customers would have to share in higher rates for gas and electricity due to greater revenue loss from unpaid bills."

The deposits are collected in accordance with a Colorado Public Utilities Commission regulation—Rule 11. This provides that deposits may be taken to guarantee payment of bills.

The deposits, the PUC rule says, shall not exceed the amount of an estimated 90 days' bill. PSC generally bases its deposits on a 60-day estimate.

The rule also provides that the company must pay 5 per cent interest a year. This interest may be paid annually if the customer requests—but the company is allowed to decide whether to pay the interest in cash or credit on forthcoming gas and electric bills.

Gude explains that he's had many customers ask to deposit more than the required amount because he says, the 5 per cent interest rate is more than that paid by most savings institutions. However, no excess deposits are accepted by the company.

The list of depositors with good credit is examined periodically and these deposits for residential service on hand three years are returned—with interest.

Leo Beem, director of customer relations, says that nearly every new customer pays a deposit—and these range from $10 for a small apartment to more than $1,000 in the case of businesses. House renters pay deposits by the room—up to $50.

Homeowners, Beem says, pay no deposits. "We feel that since they're buying their home they have a stake in the community and are likely to be good credit risks."

State Hospital Sued In Case of Pregnancy

DENVER (AP) — A Denver man who claims his wife became pregnant while she was a patient at the state hospital in Pueblo has filed a $693,474 lawsuit in Denver District Court.

Norman J. Larson said his wife, Darlene, Helen Larson, 26, became pregnant by an unknown person because the hospital failed to properly supervise and care for her.

Named as defendants were the state of Colorado and James Galvin, former institutions director.

Larson said his wife was committed to the hospital as a mental incompetent July 3, 1961. He said that when he visited her May 23, 1962, he was told by a staff member that she was about eight weeks pregnant.

The woman gave birth to a baby girl last Nov. 22, and the child has since been sent to a foster home, said Dr. Floyde Karcher, acting assistant hospital superintendent.

Larson asks damages for himself, his wife and the child.

Deposits Lower Rate, Utilities Firm Declares

By STEPHEN M. AUG

DENVER (AP) — If you rent a house or apartment, or own a new business, chances are you're among 65,000 Coloradoans who have an "investment" of nearly $2 million in the Public Service Co. of Colorado.

The investment—totaling $1,800,000—is the amount being held by Pueblo Service as customers' deposits.

"We don't like to take these deposits," Ralph Gude, PSC secretary, says, "but we've got to protect ourselves. Deposits are taken for the benefit of all of our customers."

The deposits, he says, are taken to protect the company from having a large number of uncollectable accounts. If a customer doesn't pay his electric bill—or leaves town and gives no forwarding address—Public Service generally has a deposit to cover the bill.

Last year PSC lost about $400,000 from uncollectable accounts—far less than had there been no deposits. This is about one-third of one per cent of PSC's total revenue of nearly $132.8 million.

"These deposits are taken," he says, "to make the rates as low as possible—otherwise all our customers would have to share in higher rates for gas and electricity due to greater revenue loss from unpaid bills."

The deposits are collected in accordance with a Colorado Public Utilities Commission regulation—Rule 11. This provides that deposits may be taken to guarantee payment of bills.

The deposits, the PUC rule says, shall not exceed the amount of an estimated 90 days' bill. PSC generally bases its deposits on a 60-day estimate.

The rule also provides that the company must pay 5 per cent interest a year. This interest may be paid annually if the customer requests—but the company is allowed to decide whether to pay the interest in cash or credit on forthcoming gas and electric bills.

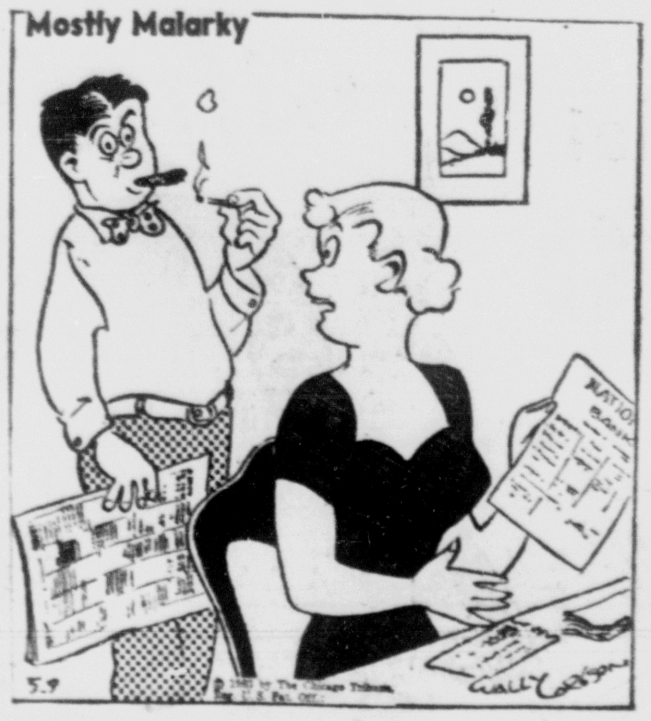
Gude explains that he's had many customers ask to deposit more than the required amount because he says, the 5 per cent interest rate is more than that paid by most savings institutions. However, no excess deposits are accepted by the company.

The list of depositors with good credit is examined periodically and these deposits for residential service on hand three years are returned—with interest.

Leo Beem, director of customer relations, says that nearly every new customer pays a deposit—and these range from $10 for a small apartment to more than $1,000 in the case of businesses. House renters pay deposits by the room—up to $50.

Homeowners, Beem says, pay no deposits. "We feel that since they're buying their home they have a stake in the community and are likely to be good credit risks."

Mostly Malarky



"Well, it has come to pass, dear—remember how you used to kid about our blank account?"

State Hospital Sued In Case of Pregnancy

DENVER (AP) — A Denver man who claims his wife became pregnant while she was a patient at the state hospital in Pueblo has filed a $693,474 lawsuit in Denver District Court.

Norman J. Larson said his wife, Darlene Helen Larson, 26, became pregnant by an unknown person because the hospital failed to properly supervise and care for her.

Named as defendants were the state of Colorado and James Galvin, former institutions director.

Larson said his wife was committed to the hospital as a mental incompetent July 3, 1961. He said that when he visited her May 23, 1962, he was told by a staff member that she was about eight weeks pregnant.

The woman gave birth to a baby girl last Nov. 22, and the child has since been sent to a foster home, said Dr. Floyde Karcher, acting assistant hospital superintendent.

Larson asks damages for himself, his wife and the child.

2.5 Million May Be Eligible for Vote on Wheat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department officials estimate that upward of 2.5 million persons could become eligible to vote in the May 21 farmer referendum on a wheat control program.

Although no exact figures are available, officials point out that there are close to 1,800,000 farms in the United States that grow wheat. Of this number, an estimated 1,200,000 grow less than 15 acres and 600,000 more than 15 acres.

Operators of the farms with more than 15 acres are automatically eligible to vote. But those with less than 15 acres must make themselves eligible by signing papers signifying the intention to participate in the program if farmers approve it. This eligibility must be established before May 14.

No one knows yet how many of the small farm operators will become eligible. But there are estimates that perhaps upward of one million will do so.

But the number of votes eligible to be cast per farm averages close to two. In all community property states both the husband and wife may vote.

Also, in all states any person having a financial interest in the wheat crop may vote. For example, a farm operated by a tenant sharing returns with a landlord would have at least two votes—the tenant as well as the landlord. Likewise, a farm operated on a partnership basis would have as many votes as there were partners.

In some cases, farms are operated on a father and son basis. Both could vote. Wives who shared in a farm's wheat crop proceeds will be eligible to vote. But landlords who rent for cash will not be eligible.

Foreign Travel Boom Forecast For Americans

By MURRAY J. BROWN

NEW YORK (UPI) — Americans will go to more places and spend more money in 1963 than ever before.

This prediction of a foreign travel boom comes from Joel M. Abels, editor of the authoritative Travel Trade magazine.

His forecast is based on survey reports from travel industry sources—agencies, tour operators, air, sea and land carries, foeign government tourist offices and the U.S. Department of Commerce.

More than two million Americans went overseas last year on fun and business and spent more than $2.5 million.

"The travel industry consensus is that 1963 will show an overall 10 per cent rise in American tourism abroad," Abels said.

"An extraordinarily wide variety of tours, itineraries and rate schedules have been developed and are ready for the travelers along with helpful facts, tips and information, by the thousands of local travel agencies throughout the United States," Abels said.

The No. 1 travel attraction will again be Europe.

More than one million Americans, the most ever, are expected to visit the continent. The majority will make what is known as the Great Circuit tour—London, Paris, Rome and other famed capitals.

But others, particularly those on their second visit will be seeking new travel thrills in countries like Greece and Scandinavia. Greece expects 130,000 American visitors, up 20,000 from last year. Scandinavia looks for a 10 per cent gain over the 240,000 tourists in 1962.

To meet the anticipated demand, transatlantic airlines have scheduled, during the June-September peak period, about 475 flights weekly from U.S. and Canadian gateways with total seat availability of about 61,000. This compares with 395 flights weekly and a seat capacity of 48,000 last year.

Opening in May will be Knott's 25-story Westbury Hotel in Brussels. Hilton is opening hotels in London, Athens and Rome. The Intercontinental Hotel Corp. will have six new hotels—in Dublin, Cork and Limerick in Ireland, and in Geneva, Vienna and Frankfurt.

The Caribbean also has seen a tremendous boom in luxury hotel construction and accommodations are expected to be fairly plentiful during the summer and fall seasons. Puerto Rico has the new Riviera at Dorado and the soon-to-be opened Puerto Rico Sheraton. Jamaica, Antigua, Nassau, Bermuda and the out islands of the Bahamas also are pressing hotel building.

Lower summer rates will be in effect at many of the islands.

Mexico is rapidly climbing higher on the tourist scale. Increased promotional activities and the development of many new tourist attractions as well as hotels and improved air service has helped.

Canada also has expanded promotional efforts and with the opening of several new hotels and the very favorable dollar exchange now in effect, is expected to see its tourist totals climb substantially.

South America has long been somewhat the "stepchild" of American tourists but a slight increase is expected.

The Pacific is expected to enjoy the biggest jump with more and more Americans heading toward the "mysterious east" and the romantic South Sea islands.

Transpacific steamship facilities will remain the same as last year but jet airliners will provide 120,000 more seats than last year to Hawaii and beyond.

Hotels are mushrooming everywhere, especially Hong Kong, Ja-

An overall gain of 15 to 18 per cent in tourism is anticipated throughout the Pacific area.

Israel and the Middle East also will attract a larger share of American tourists. Here, too, are new hotels and special air fares, plus the introduction of Mediterranean air-sea tours.

Africa, long neglected by Americans, is due for tourist gains this year. Improved facilities and growing political stability are contributing factors.

Around-the-world travel is providing increasingly popular and will probably show a 15 per cent increase in 1963.

On the domestic scene, 65 million travelers are expected to make 120 million vacation and pleasure trips, spending more than $25 billion in the process. Advance signs indicate the [illegible] will be the big draw in 1963.

Old Heritage Emphasized in New England

BOSTON (UPI) — New England probably has more historical, scenic and cultural points of interest within its relatively small area than any other similar section of the nation.

To combine over a thousand of New England's best features into one continuous route which a vacationing family could enjoy in two or three weeks is the object of the Heritage Trail Foundation, a non-profit organization promoting historic New England.

There is no official starting or ending place for Heritage Trail. It is roughly circular in shape as it winds its way through the New England states. As it avoids turnpikes like the plague, there is a minimum of heavy traffic congestion to mar the enjoyment of the area's famed sea shore, mountains, rolling hills, and famed quaintness.

The main trail is approximately 2,000 miles long but there are many side, or secondary, trails by which visitors can shorten or lengthen this trip depending on the time available. Tourists would do well to have a road map of the trail (write The Heritage Trail Foundation, 131 Clarendon Street, Boston, Mass.).

It would, and does, take several history books to list the historical and scenic morsels to be seen and savored along the Trail, but even the mention of a few will serve to whet the appetite of any tourist:

Bunker Hill, Old Ironsides, Paul Revere's house, the Old North Church, Harvard, M.I.T., and others are within five minutes of each other in Boston. A few miles south is Plymouth, which is stepped in Pilgrim lore. Lexington and Concord are a few minutes drive west of Boston. From here, Heritage Trail runs north along the shore to the fishing Gloucester and Marblehead and into New Hampshire to Portsmouth, the birthplace of the American Navy.

A side trail leads west and north from Portsmouth through the White Mountains and Lakes region and rejoins the main Trail later. The main route hugs the rock-bound coast of Maine to Bar-Harbor and its summer playground of Acadia National Park.

Going west from here, tourists delight at Maine's interior beauty and fantastic fishing spots, the rugged beauty of Northern New Hampshire, and the pastoral scenery of the Connecticut River Valley, which separates the Granite State from Vermont.

Ski centers abound along the Trail in Vermont; and of particular interest is Mt. Mansfield and Smugglers' Notch in Stowe, which calls itself "Ski Capital of the East." The marble quarries at Barre and the Bennington battle scene can be seen heading south before entering the Berkshire Hills of Massachusetts and the summer-long music festival there. Then comes beautiful Western Connecticut, the shore beauty of Long Island Sound and Rhode Island's Narragansett Bay area.

After crossing back into Massachusetts, Heritage Trail travels the length of Cape Cod's north and south shore and even goes to sea on a ferry to the story-book islands of Nantucket and Martha's Vineyard.

Prince Philip Ignores Demand for Jokes

LONDON (AP) — Prince Philip rose to make an after-dinner speech Tuesday night and for the first time on record got the bird.

"Liven it up," shouted actor Tom Bell, sitting a few feet away. "Tell us a funny story."

The queen's husband, presenting awards at the annual British Film Academy dinner, ignored the interruption. Bell returned to the attack.

"Gon on," he said. "Tell us a funny story."

The prince was not amused.

"If you want a funny story," he said, "I suggest you engage a professional comic."

Film stars Brian Forbes and Richard Attenborough smothered any further contribution from Bell.

Later Leslie Caron, chosen as British actress of the year for her performance in "The L-Shaped Room," apologized to the prince and explained that Bell was feeling a trifle boisterous.

"That's all right," said the prince, "I took it in the right spirit."

Bell was unrepentant.

He told newsmen later: "I'm not at all sorry. It's about time somebody told him. He should liven himself up."

Architects Are Selected for School Projects

and James J. McCaffery, treasurer and Frank J. Wind, assistant treasurer.

Baker was sworn in for another six-year term on the board and Dr. William T. Greer took his seat on the board for the first time.

The schools, to be built at North Glen and Park Hill Subdivision No. 4, will both be adaptations of present schools, officials said.

The North Glen School plans will be adapted from the specifications for the Longfellow School. The firm of Lusk and Wallace, architects on the Longfellow project, were selected to prepare plans for the new school.

Bunts and Kelsey, who prepared the plans for the Mark Twain School, will adapt these specifications to meet the requirements for the Park Hill school.

Officials said that by using the same architects on these projects, the district will save both money and time.

Ordinarily at least five months is required to prepare plans for schools such as these. The adaptations by the same architects will reduce this time by about two months which means that bids can be asked in September or October.

The Park Hill School is designed to handle about 700 students with the North Glen school designed to accomodate approximately the same number.

Each of the schools will cost approximately $500,000. Architects fees on the schools will be approximately $25,000 each.

Progress reports on schools under construction show that the the new John Adams elementary school is 45 per cent complete and that electrical work is 35 per cent complete. The work here is on schedule.

Officials said that work on all the schools and additions is proceeding on schedule or—ahead of schedule with the exception of the Garfield and Lowell Schools additions where delay in shipment of a metal roof deck has placed construction behind schedule.

Boundaries for the new John Adams School were also announced at the meeting. The southern boundary is the district boundary line; on the west, the boundary has been set from the intersection of Hancock Avenue and the district boundary line, north to Pikes Peak Avenue.

The northern boundary will extend from Hancock Avenue to Pikes Peak Avenue to Union Boulevard to Airport Road, east on Airport Road to South Circle Drive and south to the district boundary.

Approximately 288 students from Will Rogers school, 100 from the Helen Hunt School and 77 from the Franklin School will now attend the John Adams School which is expected to have an enrollment of 456 students in September. The school has a capacity of 555.

Officials said that to date, the district has contracted for 118 new teachers and that all told they will need about 197 in September. At present, there are are openings for 15 secondary school teachers and 16 elementary teachers.

extreme southern area on orbits No. 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17 and 18. Near the end of 1, 3, 16, and 18 he will be practically over his present home in Houston, Tex. If it were possible, he probably would wave to his wife Trudy and two teen-age daughters, waiting anxiously below.

Faith 7 will be out of communications range of the Mercury tracking network for periods up to an hour during orbits 4, 5, 6, 19, 20 and 21.

Cooper's Atlas booster is scheduled to blast off between 8 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. Eastern Standard Time. If the flight goes the full distance he will land in the Pacific Ocean southeast of Midway Island between 6:19 p.m. and 8:49 p.m. Eastern Standard Time the next day.

Primary recovery areas, which will have greatest concentration of ships and planes, will be southeast of Midway and east of Bermuda in the Atlantic. Each spot covers several orbital paths.

If there is trouble, an effort will be made to keep the astronaut aloft until he can land in a designated area to expedite recovery. If the emergency is so great he has to be brought down where no planned recovery force is stationed, contingency recovery measures would be initiated.

Such a situation—in which Cooper might have to wait hours to pickup—would involve use of civilian and military planes and ships of the United States and many other nations not specifically assigned to the mission. A total of 28 U.S. pararescue teams will be stationed around the world to fly wherever needed.

The assigned recovery force includes 27 ships, 125 aircraft and more than 19,000 persons, most of them shipboard personnel.

Woman Patient Taken From State Hospital

Corey, and an unidentified lawyer pushed aside a male attendant, took Mrs. Corey and fled the hospital grounds in a pickup truck.

According to information here, Mrs. Corey was first committed May 31, 1961, by El Paso County Judge Charles Simon who was acting under medical advice.

She was to be released Wednesday but this was stopped by what it commonly know as a peace officer's hold order as county court here wanted Mrs. Corey to have another medical hearing. The hold order was for 24 hours, awaiting an order from Judge Simon who is in Denver.

Earlier Wednesday, Pueblo Judge Matt J. Kikel ordered the release of Mrs. Corey on the grounds that her commitment hearing was not conducted by proper persons before a jury. He said the woman was being held illegally.

It was reported that Judge Simon had informed the hospital that Mrs. Corey had made threats against him.

On a court order here, Mrs. Corey's attorney was listed as Thomas E. Jagger, Pueblo.

Corey's address on the order was listed as Post Office Box 25 and his address in the local telephone directory was listed as south of Colorado Springs.

Forest Fires Are Raging in Trinidad Area

TRINIDAD (UPI)— Two dormant forest fires in heavily-timbered country southeast of here flared to sizeable proportions Wednesday.

Volunteer firefighters contained one fire, in Snyder Canyon, but still faced another, in rugged Sweetwater Canyon.

Las Animas County Sheriff Filbert Garcia, in charge of the operation, called off the efforts of volunteer workers Wednesday night because of the ruggedness of the country.

Officials believe the fires may have been started by lightning Sunday, and smouldered until winds whipped them to life Wednesday.

They had covered 200 acres by Wednesday night.

Full Round of Activities To Mark Realtors Week

A full round of activities, including two breakfasts, a golf tournament, open house, and announcement of special awards will highlight National Realtors Week here to be observed starting Sunday.

Monday, officials of the local board got things rolling by presenting the first of approximately 20 display stands to one of its associate members, the Colorado Springs National Bank.

The wood and plastic display stands, which hold six different pamphlets designed to give advice to home owners and prospective home owners, will be on permanent display in all of the associate member banks and mortgage houses, officials said.

Actual observance of the week will begin Saturday with a district conference to be held at Boulder. Twenty members of the local board are expected to attend the conference, spokesmen said.

On Wednesday, a breakfast for "multiple listing" dealers will be held starting at 7:30 a.m. at the Embers.

Elmo Lewis of the Federal Housing Administration office in Denver will be guest speaker. He is scheduled to discuss qualifications for home loans under FHA.

Thursday and Friday, open house will be held at the Board of Realtors office at 421 N. Tejon St. from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Refreshments will be served and officials will be on hand to answer questions from home owners and prospective home owners.

The Traders Club of the board will hold a breakfast at 7:30 a.m. Friday at Ruth's Oven.

The second annual Realtors golf tournament will be held May 18 at the Kissing Camels Country Club to wind up the week's activities. Tee-off time is between 9 and 10 a.m.

A total of 35 members have entered the tournament so far and will vie for the traveling trophy donated by Padgett Realty and won last year by Maurice T. Baker. The trophy and other prizes will be awarded immediately after the tournament. Virgil Procter is chairman of the tournament committee with Robert Padgett and Jack Stanton as members.

Meanwhile officials announced that starting this year, sterling silver pins made in the shape of money bags will be awarded to "traders" on the board who make three trades during the year.

Officials also announced that a new traveling trophy will be awarded each year to the outstanding trader of the year. The award, which will be presented at the board's annual meeting in the fall, will be presented on the basis of the number of trades made, cooperation, ethics, community activities and realtor board activity.

The board of Realtors in Colorado Springs has approximately 250 members.

AFA, CC to Hold Joint Exhibition With Arts Center

The Colorado Springs Fine Arts Center will hold a reception at 8:30 p.m. Friday to open the joint student exhibition of Colorado College, the Fine Arts Center, and the U.S. Air Force Academy.

Attending will be exhibitors, members and guests of the Fine Arts Center, Academy cadets, faculty and officers and students and faculty of Colorado College.

The unique exhibition, featuring the art works of some 150 students from the three institutions, will be open to the public Saturday thru June 9. Most of the gallery space of the Fine Arts Center will be utilized in this extensive show of collegiate art. There will be paintings, sculpture, drawings, prints and design work.

The Fine Arts Center is presenting this exhibition not only as the first showing of work being done by cdaets in their fine arts program but to further promote cultural exchange between the Air Force Academy and the Colorado Springs community.

Last year, the Fine Arts Center dedicated one of its major circulating exhibitions, on Brazilian contemporary art, to the academy and its personnel.

Altho this exhibition will provide the public with an opportunity to see the best of what is being done in the fine arts field on the college level, it is not meant to be a comparison between the two institutions.

The Academy maintains no prescribed curriculum in art, but includes instruction and studio work as part of its humanities program in the cadet's general education program.

The Fine Arts Center school, which several years ago joined Colorado College to offer credit courses, covers all phases of art theory and practice.

The exhibition will hang thru the Academy's June week, June 2-8, to allow parents and visitors to visit the Fine Arts Center.

A 13-year old girl told police that four boys raped her in a trailer house not too far from her home.

Police said the girl told them she had been at a party with the boys April 28 at a friend's home and that on the way to her own home, one of the boys grabbed her and took her into the trailer and forced her to have relations with him.

She said three other boys followed the first boy.

Police picked up the boys, ages 14, 15 and two 16 years old, and turned them over to juvenile authorities for investigation. The boys allegedly admitted having relations with the girl, but denied they forced her.

The incident was not reported to police immediately, reports said, because the girl did not tell anyone. Reports said the girl's younger sister told her father that the 13-year old had gone into a trailer with some boys last week and when questioned, the girl told her father what happened.

Today's Weather

(Reports furnished by U. S. Weather Bureau Station at Peterson Field as of 5:30 a.m. today)

The month of May opened on a record breaking chilly note across the eastern half of the country but Wednesday portions of this region were undergoing a complete reversal and what amounts to a heatwave.

St. Louis, Mo., and Flint, Mich., reported record lows on May 1 but came back with record highs Wednesday. St. Louis recorded 90 and Flint, 83.

A warm southerly flow found the mercury in the upper 60s and low 70s as far north as Pennsylvania, southern Michigan, Iowa and Kansas.

A dry mass of air over the southeast is somewhat reluctant to move. North of this warm air and separated by a cold front which ran roughly from southern New England to a disturbance in western Kansas, temperatures tapered to the 50s. The mercury fell even lower along the northern border areas from North Dakota to Maine as another cool front crossed the boundary with some locales registering the upper 30s and low 40s.

Cooler air and general cloudiness found the west recording 30s and 40s from the northern Rockies to the Pacific northwest, 40s and 50s over California and the 50s and 60s in the warmer air from Utah and Colorado southward.

Precipitation was of little consequence across the eastern half of the nation with only an occasional shower breaking out in southern New York, Wisconsin and the Dakotas.

General low pressure governed the weather pattern from the Rockies westward with rain, showers and an occasional thundershower developing over Oregon and a good portion of the Plateau and Rocky Mountain regions.

Race Leader Threatens 'War' if Talks Fail

two of the integrationist leaders were jailed briefly, but it weathered that crisis.

Negro leaders announced the 24-hour truce Wednesday as heavily reinforced police patrolled the streets, quiet in sharp contrast to the crowd scenes of recent days.

The word came shortly before President Kennedy's news conference in Washington. The President said he was gratified by progress in what he described as "an ugly situation."

Alabama Gov. George Wallace called the President's remarks "unjust and unfair" and said the demonstrations had been carried on by "lawless mobs in conflict with lawfully constituted authority." Wallace said he would have no part in conferences "to compromise on the issues of segregation."

Along with a biracial committee, two aides of Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy have been working behind the scenes to bring both sides together. The No. 1 negotiator is Asst. Atty. Gen. Burke Marshall.

There was no indication of what actually brought the truce.

It was a quiet lull in an explosive situation in which more than 2,400 Negroes have been arrested since the protest demonstrations began April 3. More than 2,000—most of them teen-agers—were arrested in the past week after the demonstrations expanded.

Goals of the Negro movement are desegregation of downtown lunch counters, restrooms and other public facilities; better job opportunities for Negroes; formation of a biracial committee with authority to solve racial problems; and dismissal of charges against all demonstrators who were jailed.

There were reactions to the Birmingham situation in other countries as well as in many parts of the United States:

The Soviet government news agency Tass described the Birmingham racial situation as "part and parcel of the American way of life," adding: "The cruel police actions in Birmingham again draw attention to arbitrariness and lawlessness, which are broadly practiced in the United States."

In Birmingham, England, about 150 persons demonstrated Wednesday night in behalf of Negroes in Birmingham, Ala. They rallied at a statue of Queen Victoria in the City Center, singing "We Shall Overcome," song of Negroes protesting segregation.

In Nashville, Tenn., hundreds of Negro students skipped school and staged a massive, all-day protest in downtown Nashville against segregation and in support of the Birmingham demonstrations.

In New York, there were five demonstrations. In one, an estimated 1,500 white and Negro pickets marched outside City Hall protesting segregation in Birmingham.

In Washington, Sen. Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J., introduced a bill to empower the attorney general to seek injunctions against any actions that deprive a person of his constitutional rights. He expressed concern about the Birmingham situation.

The "Women Strike for Peace" organization in Washington sent $575 to Mrs. King, a member of the organization.

A group of 19 rabbis and two college chaplains visited Negroes at a mass meeting in Birmingham. The chaplains, William Coffin of Yale University and John Eusden of Williams College, said students from Yale and several other schools were ready to take part in the Birmingham demonstrations if requested.

About 1,000 B'Nai B'Rith delegates attending a convention at Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., called on President Kennedy to protect the rights of Negroes in Birmingham.

The truce in Birmingham faltered when Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and the Rev. Ralph Abernathy, two Negro leaders, were convicted and jailed for parading without a permit.

They and 34 other demonstrators were given maximum sentences of 180 days and $100 fines.

Before the conviction, King told a news conference:

"We are hopeful that the possibility looms that we may be able to make some sort of settlement within the next 24 hours. We are very near a settlement."

As news of the convictions spread, some Negro leaders said they felt the city had broken faith. They said the truce would be called off.

But other leaders said it would stand. King himself stepped out of jail three hours later on $2,500 bond and said he hoped the truce would not be broken. Abernathy also was freed on bond.

But there were murmurings.

In recent days, demonstrations have meant seething crowds, harried police and firemen, high-velocity fire hoses, police dogs and wholesale arrests—but no conflict between white spectators and Negroes.

Working quietly in the background in efforts to reach agreement is a biracial committee of some of the city's most prominent business, religious and professional leaders. Its members are not identified, it makes no announcements, and it works without the sanction of the city of Birmingham.

There was no immediate reaction from city officials to the truce or to the President's comments.

The governor, however, said:

"The matter of law enforcement must and shall be left in the hands of constituted authority of the city of Birmingham and the state of Alabama, and upon this we shall insist and demand."

Cleaning Needed After Cleaner Cleans Room

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Cram of 132 Rainbow Place, hired a cleaning woman Wednesday and now they will have to hire another cleaning woman to clean up after the first cleaning woman.

It all started when the Crams called a local employment agency and asked for help to clean their house, the sheriff's office reported.

The couple went off to work as usual and when they returned they found the cleaning woman had gone but there was ample evidence that she had been there.

Re-constructing the scene Deputy Sheriffs Lee Quein and Al Moore decided she stood on a desk chair to clean the wall. Apparently she fell off for the back of the chair was broken and in turn the chair had smashed a vase and a large lamp. There was also a big spot of wall cleaner on the living room rug and a broken glass in the trash. Damage is estimated at $75.

Threat of War Said Reduced For Dominicans

will be hasn't been decided yet."

The special committee was set up last week after Duvalier's police invaded the Dominican Embassy in Port au Prince in search of Duvalier opponents who had taken refuge there.

Dominican President Juan Bosch moved troops to the border and threatened military action, but a visit by the OAS committee calmed the situation.

Facio said the OAS will study a report from Alberto Zuleta of Colombia, a committee member who stayed behind and was expected back from Santo Domingo today.

"We're also evaluating other information before deciding when the committee will return," Facio said. "We're getting reports on the situation of those in aslyum in Port au Prince and on the Haitian internal situation."

Haitian Foreign Minister Rene Chalmers conferred ith Facio and members of the OAS committee Wednesday night in New York and told them he will try to end his government's hostile acts against 22 political refugees still in the Dominican Embassy.

He also promised the committee to press Duvalier to give safe conduct out of the country to the refugees, who were put under protection of the Colombian Embassy after Haiti broke relations with the Dominican Republic last week.

At the height of the crisis, Duvalier pledged to let 15 of the 22 refugees go and to allow the other seven to transfer to the Colombian Embassy. Instead he ringed the Dominican Embassy with troops, and Bosch has demanded that all 22 be allowed to leave the country.

Famed Impersonator Dies in London

have hoodwinked the Germans into thinking the D-Day invasion had been postponed.

Coincidentally, James' death, at 65, came on the 18th anniversary of V-E day.

"He did a very good job, and fooled the Germans at a very critical time of the war," Montgomery said Wednesday. "I am very sorry to hear of his death."

At the time of his great impersonation, the Australian-born James was a pay corps lieutenant in the British Army and Montgomery was commander of the 21st Army. An intelligence major spotted the likeness between the two men.

A few days before D-Day, June 6, 1944, James was seen off in style to the Mediterranean by senior members of the imperial general staff. None of his own officers realized he was not Montgomery as he flew to North Africa, ostensibly for a tour.

Back in Britain, Montgomery continued preparations for the D-Day landing in Normandy. But German intelligence agents are known to have informed their headquarters that Montgomery was in North Africa and no Normandy invasion could therefore be imminent.

On June 6, the Allies attacked and the Germans were caught off guard.

To impersonate "Monty," James studied the field marshal's voice, speech, gestures, walk and salute. After the war he went on the stage.

'Disaster' Aid Is Requested for El Paso County

ous. Hay is getting real short. Pastures are just about gone and very little of the grass has had a chance to start."

Carnahan said his committee will postpone making recommendations for federal aid for a few days to see if any other counties apply in addition to El Paso, Baca and Fremont.

"We assume the counties surrounding these will have to apply, also, since their situation is similar," said Carnahan.

Fremont County has asked for aid covering livestock feed, emergency grazing and emergency tillage to control dust.

Earlier this year, Baca along with Prowers, Las Animas and part of Kiowa County applied for tillage aid. These applications are still pending in Washington.

First American Everest Climber Is Identified

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP)—The American who got to the top of Mt. Everest May 1 was James W. Whitaker, 32, Redmond, Wash., the expedition disclosed today. He was accompanied to the top by Sherpa Nwang Gombu, nephew of 1953 Everest hero, Tensing Norgay.

Whitaker is a climber and equipment officer. He is a Mt. Ranier National Park mountain guide who has been climbing since he began as a Boy Scout in 1943.

All were believed to be resting at the base camp today.

Bishop and Jerstad had been scheduled to follow Whitaker and Gombu if they failed in the May 1 attempt, the spokesman said.

Expedition leader Norman G. Dyhrenfurth and his longtime personal guide, Ang Dawa IV, were not trying for the top but were in support of Whitaker and Gombu in case they got in trouble, the spokesman added.

Dyhrenfurth, 45, climbed to 28,100 feet behind Whitaker and Gombu. He said today from the base camp that the May 1 climb was a miracle because the climbers did it in high winds and extreme cold.

$2,000 Damages Awarded in $30,000 Suit

In District Court this morning $2,000 was awarded to Marjory N. Inman of the Air Force Academy in the $30,000 damage suit she brought against Francis S. Giberson of 1815 N. El Paso St.

The suit stemmed from an automobile accident which happened Sept. 18, 1960. The plaintiff claimed she was driving her car on North Nevada Avenue and had stopped for traffic when Giberson drove into her vehicle. The complaint said Mrs. Inman was seriously injured.

The plaintiff was represented by the law firm Murray Baker and Wendelken and the defendant by Gerald Bennett.

Mrs. Inman's husband, J. J. Inman has also filed a suit against Giberson which has not yet come before the court. Inman is claiming $20,000 and alleges that since the accident his wife has been unable to carry out her household duties and that outside help must be hired.

School Safety Patrols Get Medals From JFK

Patrick School, Huntington, N.Y., was decorated for jumping out of a school bus and pulling a 6-year-old girl out of the path of a car that failed to stop for the bus.

Medal winner Larry R. Williams, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Williams, a safety patrolman at Centerville (Ind.) Junior High School, also ran into the street to push a group of children out of the path of a car that ignored a red light.

Kennedy presented a medal to Richard D. Roark, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. Roark of Southwest School, Jefferson City, Mo., who darted between two girls and a moving school bus and pulled them to the widewalk.

The only girl honored was Drucie S. Wetterauer, 11, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Damon Wetterauer of Evening Street Elementary School, Worthington, Ohio. Drucie grabbed a kindergarten boy by the collar and pulled him to safety when a car made a turn without regard for children crossing the street. The car brushed against Drucie but she held onto the boy and neither was injured.

Architects Are Selected for School Projects

and James J. McCaffery, treasurer and Frank J. Wind, assistant treasurer.

Baker was sworn in for another six-year term on the board and Dr. William T. Greer took his seat on the board for the first time.

The schools, to be built at North Glen and Park Hill Subdivision No. 4, will both be adaptations of present schools, officials said.

The North Glen School plans will be adapted from the specifications for the Longfellow School. The firm of Lusk and Wallace, architects on the Longfellow project, were selected to prepare plans for the new school.

Bunts and Kelsey, who prepared the plans for the Mark Twain School, will adapt these specifications to meet the requirements for the Park Hill school.

Officials said that by using the same architects on these projects, the district will save both money and time.

Ordinarily at least five months is required to prepare plans for schools such as these. The adaptations by the same architects will reduce this time by about two months which means that bids can be asked in September or October.

The Park Hill School is designed to handle about 700 students with the North Glen school designed to accomodate approximately the same number.

Each of the schools will cost approximately $500,000. Architects fees on the schools will be approximately $25,000 each.

Progress reports on schools under construction show that the the new John Adams elementary school is 45 per cent complete and that electrical work is 35 per cent complete. The work here is on schedule.

Officials said that work on all the schools and additions is proceeding on schedule or ahead of schedule with the exception of the Garfield and Lowell Schools additions where delay in shipment of a metal roof deck has placed construction behind schedule.

Boundaries for the new John Adams School were also announced at the meeting. The southern boundary is the district boundary line; on the west, the boundary has been set from the intersection of Hancock Avenue and the district boundary line, north to Pikes Peak Avenue.

The northern boundary will extend from Hancock Avenue to Pikes Peak Avenue to Union Boulevard to Airport Road, east on Airport Road to South Circle Drive and south to the district boundary.

Approximately 300 students from Will Rogers school, 100 from the Helen Hunt School and 77 from the Franklin School will now attend the John Adams School which is expected to have an enrollment of 456 students in September. The school has a capacity of 555.

Officials said that to date, the district has contracted for 118 new teachers and that all told they will need about 197 in September. At present, there are are openings for 15 secondary school teachers and 16 elementary teachers.

To date, 73 teachers have resigned and the school district expects another 47 to hand in their resignations for various reasons before the start of school in the fall.

Astronaut Cooper Gets Ready for Big Flight

extreme southern area on orbits No. 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17 and 18. Near the end of 1, 3, 16, and 18 he will be practically over his present home in Houston, Tex. If it were possible, he probably would wave to his wife Trudy and two teen-age daughters, waiting anxiously below.

Faith 7 will be out of communications range of the Mercury tracking network for periods up to an hour during orbits 4, 5, 6, 19, 20 and 21.

Cooper's Atlas booster is scheduled to blast off between 8 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. Eastern Standard Time. If the flight goes the full distance he will land in the Pacific Ocean southeast of Midway Island between 6:19 p.m. and 8:49 p.m. Eastern Standard Time the next day.

Primary recovery areas, which will have greatest concentration of ships and planes, will be southeast of Midway and east of Bermuda in the Atlantic. Each spot covers several orbital paths.

If there is trouble, an effort will be made to keep the astronaut aloft until he can land in a designated area to expedite recovery. If the emergency is so great he has to be brought down where no planned recovery force is stationed, contingency recovery measures would be initiated.

Such a situation—in which Cooper might have to wait hours to pickup—would involve use of civilian and military planes and ships of the United States and many other nations not specifically assigned to the mission. A total of 28 U.S. pararescue teams will be stationed around the world to fly wherever needed.

The assigned recovery force includes 27 ships, 125 aircraft and more than 19,000 persons, most of them shipboard personnel.

Woman Patient Taken From State Hospital

Corey, and an unidentified lawyer pushed aside a male attendant, took Mrs. Corey and fled the hospital grounds in a pickup truck.

According to information here, Mrs. Corey was first committed May 31, 1961, by El Paso County Judge Charles Simon who was acting under medical advice.

She was to be released Wednesday but this was stopped by what it commonly know as a peace officer's hold order as county court here wanted Mrs. Corey to have another medical hearing. The hold order was for 34 hours, awaiting an order from Judge Simon who is in Denver.

Earlier Wednesday, Pueblo Judge Matt J. Kikel ordered the release of Mrs. Corey on the grounds that her commitment hearing was not conducted by proper persons before a jury. He said the woman was being held illegally.

It was reported that Judge Simon had informed the hospital that Mrs. Corey had made threats against him.

On a court order here, Mrs. Corey's attorney was listed as Thomas E. Jagger, Pueblo.

Corey's address on the order was listed as Post Office Box 25 and his address in the local telephone directory was listed as south of Colorado Springs.

Forest Fires Are Raging in Trinidad Area

TRINIDAD (UPI)— Two dormant forest fires in heavily-timbered country southeast of here flared to sizeable proportions Wednesday.

Volunteer firefighters contained one fire, in Snyder Canyon, but still faced another, in rugged Sweetwater Canyon.

Las Animas County Sheriff Filbert Garcia, in charge of the operation, called off the efforts of volunteer workers Wednesday night because of the ruggedness of the country.

Officials believe the fires may have been started by lightning Sunday, and smouldered until winds whipped them to life Wednesday.

They had covered 300 acres by Wednesday night.

AFA, CC to Hold Joint Exhibition With Arts Center

The Colorado Springs Fine Arts Center will hold a reception at 8:30 p.m. Friday to open the joint student exhibition of Colorado College, the Fine Arts Center, and the U.S. Air Force Academy.

Attending will be exhibitors, members and guests of the Fine Arts Center, Academy cadets, faculty and officers and students and faculty of Colorado College.

The unique exhibition, featuring the art works of some 150 students from the three institutions, will be open to the public Saturday thru June 9. Most of the gallery space of the Fine Arts Center will be utilized in this extensive show of collegiate art. There will be paintings, sculpture, drawings, prints and design work.

The Fine Arts Center is presenting this exhibition not only as the first showing of work being done by cdaets in their fine arts program but to further promote cultural exchange between the Air Force Academy and the Colorado Springs community.

Last year, the Fine Arts Center dedicated one of its major circulating exhibitions, on Brazilian contemporary art, to the academy and its personnel.

Altho this exhibition will provide the public with an opportunity to see the best of what is being done in the fine arts field on the college level, it is not meant to be a comparison between the two institutions.

The Academy maintains no prescribed curriculum in art, but includes instruction and studio work as part of its humanities program in the cadet's general education program.

The Fine Arts Center school, which several years ago joined Colorado College to offer credit courses, covers all phases of art theory and practice.

The exhibition will hang thru the Academy's June week, June 3-8, to allow parents and visitors to visit the Fine Arts Center.

A 13-year old girl told police that four boys raped her in a trailer house not too far from her home.

Police said the girl told them she had been at a party with the boys April 30 at a friend's home and that on the way to her own home, one of the boys grabbed her and took her into the trailer and forced her to have relations with him.

She said three other boys followed the first boy.

Police picked up the boys, ages 14, 15 and two 16 years old, and turned them over to juvenile authorities for investigation. The boys allegedly admitted having relations with the girl, but denied they forced her.

The incident was not reported to police immediately, reports said, because the girl did not tell anyone. Reports said the girl's younger sister told her father that the 13-year old had gone into a trailer with some boys last week and when questioned, the girl told her father what happened.

Today's Weather

(Reports furnished by U. S. Weather Bureau Station at Peterson Field as of 5:30 a.m. today)

The month of May opened on a record breaking chilly note across the eastern half of the country but Wednesday portions of this region were undergoing a complete reversal and what amounts to a heatwave.

St. Louis, Mo., and Flint, Mich., reported record lows on May 1 but came back with record highs Wednesday. St. Louis recorded 90 and Flint, 83.

A warm southerly flow found the mercury in the upper 60s and low 70s as far north as Pennsylvania, southern Michigan, Iowa and Kansas.

A dry mass of air over the southeast is somewhat reluctant to move. North of this warm air and separated by a cold front which ran roughly from southern New England to a disturbance in western Kansas, temperatures tapered to the 50s. The mercury fell even lower along the northern border areas from North Dakota to Maine as another cool front crossed the boundary with some locales registering the upper 30s and low 40s.

Cooler air and general cloudiness found the west recording 30s and 40s from the northern Rockies to the Pacific northwest, 40s and 50s over California and the 50s and 60s in the warmer air from Utah and Colorado southward.

Precipitation was of little consequence across the eastern half of the nation with only an occasional shower breaking out in southern New York, Wisconsin and the Dakotas.

General low pressure governed the weather pattern from the Rockies westward with rain showers and an occasional thundershower developing over Oregon and a good portion of the Plateau and Rocky Mountain regions.

two of the integrationist leaders were jailed briefly, but it weathered that crisis.

Negro leaders announced the 24-hour truce Wednesday as heavily reinforced police patrolled the streets, quiet in sharp contrast to the crowd scenes of recent days.

The word came shortly before President Kennedy's news conference in Washington. The President said he was gratified by progress in what he described as "an ugly situation."

Alabama Gov. George Wallace called the President's remarks "unjust and unfair" and said the demonstrations had been carried on by "lawless mobs in conflict with lawfully constituted authority." Wallace said he would have no part in conferences "to compromise on the issues of segregation."

Along with a biracial committee, two aides of Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy have been working behind the scenes to bring both sides together. The No. 1 negotiator is Asst. Atty. Gen. Burke Marshall.

There was no indication of what actually brought the truce.

It was a quiet lull in an explosive situation in which more than 2,400 Negroes have been arrested since the protest demonstrations began April 3. More than 2,000—most of them teen-agers—were arrested in the past week after the demonstrations expanded.

Goals of the Negro movement are desegregation of downtown lunch counters, restrooms and other public facilities; better job opportunities for Negroes; formation of a biracial committee with authority to solve racial problems; and dismissal of charges against all demonstrators who were jailed.

There were reactions to the Birmingham situation in other countries as well as in many parts of the United States:

The Soviet government news agency Tass described the Birmingham racial situation as "part and parcel of the American way of life," adding: "The cruel police actions in Birmingham again draw attention to arbitrariness and lawlessness, which are broadly practiced in the United States."

In Birmingham, England, about 150 persons demonstrated Wednesday night in behalf of Negroes in Birmingham, Ala. They rallied at a statue of Queen Victoria in the City Center, singing "We Shall Overcome," song of Negroes protesting segregation.

In Nashville, Tenn., hundreds of Negro students skipped school and staged a massive, all-day protest in downtown Nashville against segregation and in support of the Birmingham demonstrations.

In New York, there were five demonstrations. In one, an estimated 1,500 white and Negro pickets marched outside City Hall protesting segregation in Birmingham.

In Washington, Sen. Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J., introduced a bill to empower the attorney general to seek injunctions against any actions that deprive a person of his constitutional rights. He expressed concern about the Birmingham situation.

The "Women Strike for Peace" organization in Washington sent $525 to Mrs. King, a member of the organization.

A group of 19 rabbis and two college chaplains visited Negroes at a mass meeting in Birmingham. The chaplains, William Coffin of Yale University and John Easden of Williams College, said students from Yale and several other schools were ready to take part in the Birmingham demonstrations if requested.

About 1,800 B'nai B'rith delegates attending a convention at Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., called on President Kennedy to protect the rights of Negroes in Birmingham.

The truce in Birmingham faltered when Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and the Rev. Ralph Abernathy, two Negro leaders, were convicted and jailed for parading without a permit.

They and 34 other demonstrators were given maximum sentences of 180 days and $100 fines.

Before the conviction, King told a news conference:

"We are hopeful that the possibility looms that we may be able to make some sort of settlement within the next 24 hours. We are very near a settlement."

As news of the convictions spread, some Negro leaders said they felt the city had broken faith. They said the truce would be called off.

But other leaders said it would stand. King himself stepped out of jail three hours later on $2,500 bond and said he hoped the truce would not be broken. Abernathy also was freed on bond.

But there were murmurings.

In recent days, demonstrations have meant seething crowds, harried police and firemen, high-velocity fire hoses, police dogs and wholesale arrests—but no conflict between white spectators and Negroes.

Working quietly in the background in efforts to reach agreement is a biracial committee of some of the city's most prominent business, religious and professional leaders. Its members are not identified, it makes no announcements, and it works without the sanction of the city of Birmingham.

There was no immediate reaction from city officials to the truce or to the President's comments.

The governor, however, said:

"The matter of law enforcement must and shall be left in the hands of constituted authority of the city of Birmingham and the state of Alabama, and upon this we shall insist and demand."

Cleaning Needed After Cleaner Cleans Room

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Cram of 132 Rainbow Place, hired a cleaning woman Wednesday and now they will have to hire another cleaning woman to clean up after the first cleaning woman.

It all started when the Crams called a local employment agency and asked for help to clean their house, the sheriff's office reported.

The couple went off to work as usual and when they returned they found the cleaning woman had gone but there was ample evidence that she had been there.

Re-constructing the scene Deputy Sheriffs Lee Quein and Al Moore decided she stood on a desk chair to clean the wall. Apparently she fell off for the back of the chair was broken and in turn the chair had smashed a vase and a large lamp. There was also a big spot of wall cleaner on the living room rug and a broken glass in the trash. Damage is estimated at $75.

will be hasn't been decided yet."

The special committee was set up last week after Duvalier's police invaded the Dominican Embassy in Port au Prince in search of Duvalier opponents who had taken refuge there.

Dominican President Juan Bosch moved troops to the border and threatened military action, but a visit by the OAS committee calmed the situation.

Facio said the OAS will study a report from Alberto Zuleta of Colombia, a committee member who stayed behind and was expected back from Santo Domingo today.

"We're also evaluating other information before deciding when the committee will return," Facio said. "We're getting reports on the situation of those in aslyum in Port au Prince and on the Haitian internal situation."

Haitian Foreign Minister Rene Chalmers conferred ith Facio and members of the OAS committee Wednesday night in New York and told them he will try to end his government's hostile acts against 22 political refugees still in the Dominican Embassy.

He also promised the committee to press Duvalier to give safe conduct out of the country to the refugees, who were put under protection of the Colombian Embassy after Haiti broke relations with the Dominican Republic last week.

At the height of the crisis, Duvalier pledged to let 15 of the 22 refugees go and to allow the other seven to transfer to the Colombian Embassy. Instead he ringed the Dominican Embassy with troops, and Bosch has demanded that all 22 be allowed to leave the country.

Famed Impersonator Dies in London

have hoodwinked the Germans into thinking the D-Day invasion had been postponed.

Coincidentally, James' death, at 65, came on the 18th anniversary of V-E day.

"He did a very good job, and fooled the Germans at a very critical time of the war," Montgomery said Wednesday. "I am very sorry to hear of his death."

At the time of his great impersonation, the Australian-born James was a pay corps lieutenant in the British Army and Montgomery was commander of the 21st Army. An intelligence major spotted the likeness between the two men.

A few days before D-Day, June 6, 1944, James was seen off in style to the Mediterranean by senior members of the imperial general staff. None of his own officers realized he was not Montgomery as he flew to North Africa, ostensibly for a tour.

Back in Britain, Montgomery continued preparations for the D-Day landing in Normandy. But German intelligence agents are known to have informed their headquarters that Montgomery was in North Africa and no Normandy invasion could therefore be imminent.

On June 6, the Allies attacked and the Germans were caught off guard.

To impersonate "Monty," James studied the field marshal's voice, speech, gestures, walk and salute. After the war he went on the stage.

'Disaster' Aid Is Requested for El Paso County

ous. Hay is getting real short. Pastures are just about gone and very little of the grass has had a chance to start."

Carnahan said his committee will postpone making recommendations for federal aid for a few days to see if any other counties apply in addition to El Paso, Baca and Fremont.

"We assume the counties surrounding these will have to apply, also, since their situation is similar," said Carnahan.

Fremont County has asked for aid covering livestock feed, emergency grazing and emergency tillage to control dust.

Earlier this year, Baca along with Prowers, Las Animas and part of Kiowa County applied for tillage aid. These applications are still pending in Washington.

First American Everest Climber Is Identified

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP)—The American who got to the top of Mt. Everest May 1 was James W. Whitaker, 32, Redmond, Wash., the expedition disclosed today. He was accompanied to the top by Sherpa Nwang Gombu, nephew of 1953 Everest hero, Tensing Norgay.

Whitaker is a climber and equipment officer. He is a Mt. Ranier National Park mountain guide who has been climbing since he began as a Boy Scout in 1943.

All were believed to be resting at the base camp today.

Bishop and Jerstad had been scheduled to follow Whitaker and Gombu if they failed in the May 1 attempt, the spokesman said.

Expedition leader Norman G. Dyhrenfurth and his longtime personal guide, Ang Dawa IV, were not trying for the top but were in support of Whitaker and Gombu in case they got in trouble, the spokesman added.

Dyhrenfurth, 45, climbed to 28,100 feet behind Whitaker and Gombu. He said today from the base camp that the May 1 climb was a miracle because the climbers did it in high winds and extreme cold.

In District Court this morning $2,000 was awarded to Marjory N. Inman of the Air Force Academy in the $30,000 damage suit she brought against Francis S. Giberson of 1815 N. El Paso St.

The suit stemmed from an automobile accident which happened Sept. 18, 1960. The plaintiff claimed she was driving her car on North Nevada Avenue and had stopped for traffic when Giberson drove into her vehicle. The complaint said Mrs. Inman was seriously injured.

The plaintiff was represented by the law firm Murray Baker and Wendelken and the defendant by Gerald Bennett.

Mrs. Inman's husband, J. J. Inman has also filed a suit against Giberson which has not yet come before the court. Inman is claiming $20,000 and alleges that since the accident his wife has been unable to carry out her household duties and that outside help must be hired.

Patrick School, Huntington, N.Y., was decorated for jumping out of a school bus and pulling a 6-year-old girl out of the path of a car that failed to stop for the bus.

Medal winner Larry R. Williams, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Williams, a safety patrolman at Centerville (Ind.) Junior High School, also ran into the street to push a group of children out of the path of a car that ignored a red light.

Kennedy presented a medal to Richard D. Roark, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. Roark of Southwest School, Jefferson City, Mo., who darted between two girls and a moving school bus and pulled them to the sidewalk.

The only girl honored was Dracie S. Wetterauer, 11, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Damon Wetterauer of Evening Street Elementary School, Worthington, Ohio. Dracie grabbed a kindergarten boy by the collar and pulled him to safety when a car made a turn without regard for children crossing the street. The car brushed against Dracie but she held onto the boy and neither was injured.

Indonesia Reds Reported Under Peking Influence

By SPENCER DAVIS

WASHINGTON (AP) — High American officials are now counting Indonesia's Communist party—the largest outside of the Iron Curtain countries—in Peking's camp in the leadership dispute between the Soviet Union and Communist China.

Authoritative sources said that the switch of Indonesian Reds to the Chinese hard line must be considered one of the major Soviet disappointments of the past year and a cause for a serious reappraisal inside the Kremlin.

The Russians invested up to $2 billion arms and economic aid for Indonesia in a strong effort to retain influence there.

The development was no source of particular satisfaction to Washington and other non-Communist capitals. Indonesian President Sukarno appears to have veered increasingly away from the neutral foreign policy he had long proclaimed.

U.S. officials were particularly unhappy about a recent Afro-Asian journalists conference which opened with a keynote address by Sukarno. The conference appeared to be under the control of the PKI and ended with a volley of resolutions denouncing the United States in a virtual carbon copy of Peking's sharpest anti-American propaganda charges.

The conference was similar to the Chinese Communist-engineered meeting in Moshi, Tanganyika. For a second time, the Soviet Union was frozen out on the grounds that it was not an Asian power and could not be represented at an Afro-Asian meeting.

The United States has tried, apparently without dramatic success, to coax Indonesia away from the Communist camp.

Last fall it approved a $17-million emergency loan to Indonesia as a means of encouraging pro-Western elements there.

Frank M. Coffin, deputy administrator of the Agency for International Development told them House Foreign Affairs subcommittee Tuesday that the administration decided that a loan to finance imports from the United States of spare parts and raw materials would enable part of Indonesia's industry to resume operations.

But, he said, no further substantial aid will be given unless Sukarno's government stabilizes the economy.

Paper Products From Grain Is Being Proposed

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Each morning when I sit down at the breakfast table, I eat a bowl of wheat flakes and read a newspaper.

In all the years I have been doing this, it never once occurred to me that I might some day be reading the wheat flakes and eating the newspaper.

My mind simply doesn't run in those channels, particularly at such an early hour. But the mind of a congressman does.

I call your attention to a recent exchange of letters between Rep. John H. Dent, D-Pa., and Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman.

"I have been saving, for the past three weeks, all of the printed material coming from the various departments . . . as well as the volumes of reports from the government agencies of all kinds," Dent told Freeman.

More reports are printed than anyone could possibly leaf through, let alone read, he noted. In addition, Congress consumes a great deal of paper, as do the daily newspapers, he said.

The contemplation of all that paper gave Dent an idea. He suggested to Freeman that the vast amount of printed material might hold the key to solution of the surplus grain problem.

Since the Japanese make paper from rice, and Latin Americans make paper from sugar cane, it might be feasible for us to make paper from wheat and other grains, Dent said.

In other words, the surplus reports would be printed on the surplus grain. Or, as Dent puts it, "if we can't eat our surplus food grains, we may be able to read them."

He offered to introduce legislation setting up a study program if Freeman thought the proposal had merit.

In reply, the secretary informed Dent that the department already was doing research along those lines and was "making good progress in several directions."

"This country uses around 35 million tons of paper products each year, and to supply even a part of this market would provide a substantial outlet for grain," Freeman said.

Maybe so, but I fear such a program would cause complications of the sort that Dent and Freeman apparently have overlooked.

Most newsprint and paper stock used in this country is made from woodpulp. If we started using paper made from grain, what would that do to the timber industry?

I'll tell you what it would do. It likely would create a surplus of woodpulp.

Then, the next local step would be for the timber industry to undertake a research program to find a way to use woodpulp for a breakfast cereal.

That, in turn, would create another grain surplus, and a lot more government reports.

Gum Diseases Cause Most Dental Trouble

DENVER (UPI)— Gum disease is by far the greatest cause of the loss of teeth, the American Society of Periodontists was told in Denver Tuesday.

Dr. John Goldman, professor of dentistry at Boston University, and earlier installed as president of the society, also said the disease is the most serious problem in dentistry today.

"The problem of tooth decay becomes less and less each year," Dr. Goldman said, "but periodontitus, or pyorrhea, is showing no appreciable decrease."

"Almost 80 per cent of people in the U.S. suffer from periodontitus," the doctor said.

Deluxe Buses Are Built in Russia

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union is now making deluxe sleeper buses for long distance runs which can travel 160 kilometers (100 miles) an hour.

The coaches, a Tass announcement said, have double and four-berth compartments, luminescent lighting, air conditioning and showers.

The United States has 32,000 sawmills, with 15,000 of them being in the southern states.

Reds Show Good Faith Was Not Sought in Laos

By PHIL NEWSOM

Enough of the pieces have fallen into place now to remove any lingering doubts there may have been over Communist good faith in Laos.

What events in that sorry little kingdom do add up to is simply the early approach of a new moment of truth for the United States in South Vietnam and perhaps in Thailand as well.

Communist objectives are both political and military and are unlikely objectives are both political and military and are unlikely to be changed by talks, whether they be held in Moscow, Washington or the Plain of Jars.

The United States accepted neutrality for Laos for the very good reason that U.S.-trained and equipped Royal Lao forces turned out to be miserble fighters, although probably as good as their opposite numbers in the Pathet Lao were — the latter not beefed up by hard-core Communist troops from neighboring North Vietnam.

With the military stance abandoned, neutrality became the only thing left unless the United States were willing to commit its own forces on a scale far larger than anything yet attempted in Southeast Asia, including South Vietnam.

Current events in Laos recall vividly to this correspondent interviews in 1962 with two individuals who continue to play important roles in the Southeast Asia drama, one of whom proved correct and the other incorrect.

In his interview in the street from Bangkok's Temple of the Emerald Buddha, Thailand Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman said that neutraltiy for Laos would work only if guaranteed by Washington and Moscow. Moscow, he said, would have to guarantee withdrawal of Communist Viet Minh forces back to North Vietnam.

Because of the strained relations between Moscow and Red China, he did not believe the Russians could do it.

On a steamy night in Vientiane, the capital of Laos, long-time Indian diplomat Avtar Singh also was considering Laotian neutrality. As chairman of the International Control Commission, it would be up to him to see it enforced.

The United States, he conceded, was taking a calculated risk but he believed it a good one.

Laos, he believed, would remain neutral rather than lose U. S. aid. The commission, he believed, could prevent transport of Communist reinforcements through Laos over the Ho Chi Minh trail to South Vietnam.

Events proved Avtar Singh somewhat less than realistic.

A glance at the map illustrates the military point. One area of recent fighting in Laos was the market town Nang. It is near the eastern boundary with South Viet Nam, directly between the key towns of Tchepone and Saravane. Tchepone once served as a Russian air base for ferrying supplies to the Pathet Lao and Viet Minh. Saravane marks the beginning of the last leg of the Ho Chi Minh trail through mountainous jungles into Cambodia and South Vietnam. This trail, the Communists mean to preserve and they will fight for it.

Residents of the Richland-Benton City, Wash., area have welcomed 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized) troops from Ft. Carson with hot war enthusiasm.

Women of the area baked cookies for distribution May 4 before Exrcise "Coulee Crest" opened on Sunday, May 5.

Showers were in great demand and 5th Division medics were allowed to use a local fire station to wash off the dust. One lieutenant rented a motel room and his entire platoon used the shower.

Cafes reported a boom business as the Red Devils from Carson moved in for a final meal from dishes instead of mess kits.

Mrs. Laura Stratton of Richland imporvised a USO Club there when she noticed so many troops roaming the central Washington community. She made a few phone calls to open the Richland Community Center. Others donated coffee, cake and towels. Water for showers was provided courtesy of the city.

This instant hospitality was accomplished within 25 minutes.

Farmer in Japan Loses to Railroad

TOKYO (AP)—For years farmer Shimpei Higashiizumi and his wife have lived with trains running right past their front door.

The farmer wouldn't sell his land for what the railroad offered years ago. Each day 120 trains pass by a few feet away, jarring the house and scattering cinders at the farm 50 miles north of Tokyo.

But Wednesday Higashiizumi, 1, is ready to call it quits. The railroad is going to double track the line and double the number of trains.

World's Shortest River Runs Into Suwanee

ELLAVILLE (AP) — In the Suwannee River State Park which nestles in the corner of Madison, Hamilton and Suwannee counties in north Florida, lies what is called the world's shortest river.

It's near this old logging community on U. S. 90 between Madison and Live Oak, but few persons besides the natives have ever heard of the stream sometimes called the Falmouth River.

G. E. Collins, the park superintendent, can give directions to the secluded stream.

"It's a swimming hole for youngsters," he said. "It's down a little dirt road leading south from the highway and back into the woods."

The road leads past a house, then a half mile or so into the forest where it ends abruptly.

There is the river — a crystal clear stream which rises from a deep hole and spurts into the Suwannee River, made famous by Stephen Collins Foster in his song, "'Way Down Upon de S'Wanee Ribber.'"

Sam Boulmetis, a leading rider at Maryland tracks, is president of the Jockeys' Guild.

Arabie Name Plate Is Bad Turkish Word

By HAL McCLURE

ANKARA (AP) — Americans have stirred a tempest in a Turkish coffee cup in this Western-oriented land by publicly displaying their names translated into Arabic script.

"Ugly Americans," "insolence," "bad manners," cried the Turkish press.

The culprits also were denounced in Parliament and investigated by a group called the Turkish Revolutionary Association.

What's all the fuss about?

Arabic writings and signs have been banned by law for more than 30 years after the great Turkish hero and reformer, the late Kemal Ataturk, westernized Turkish with a Latin alphabet.

But to several enterprising Ankara brassware dealers the ban meant very little. They are—or were — doing a brisk business engraving nameplates for foreigners, primarily American servicemen and businessmen. The nameplates are affixed to front doors and carry the tenant's name both in English and the Arabic equivalent.

The dealers told the Americans, most of whom were unaware of the ban or the deep feelings of the Turks:

"These signs will help people find you a lot easier."

Americans also were unaware that few modern Turks can read Arabic.

An Istanbul newspaper discovered the numberous Arabic nameplates and the hunt was on.

"We are friendly toward the United States and her people," said one editorial writer. "But not with the savages who come to the civilized world from the deserts of Arizona and Colorado."

He apparently referred to the home states of several unnamed offenders.

The politicians, seeing a good campaign issue, took up the cry. All major political parties criticized the Americans and one suggested they either shape up or ship out.

Stunned by the onslaught, the Americans quickly retreated, removing the name plates or covering the Arabic.

One serviceman told a newspaper that he understood the Turks' feeling on the matter, but wondered why the dealers who sold them the signs were not equally sensitive.

Another serviceman, Air Force M. Sgt. Charles Creighton, who told newsmen he was from "Little Egypt, New Jersey," (not Colorado or Arizona), had the last word before he removed his offending name plate. Sandwiched between his name in English and Arabic were these words in Turkish:

"The dog barks, but the caravan moves on."

Crosses Are Burned At Alexandria, La.

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP) — At least 11 crosses were burned Wednesday night in the Alexandria area, where there have been no racial incidents recently.

One cross was burned at the Rapides Parish (County) Courthouse.

The crosses, constructed of 2 x 4-inch timber, soaked with fuel, were about five feet high, and were stuck in the ground.

Officers, still investigating, said they were unable to say yet who did it.

KEY TO CRIME

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — "It's the Caddy out in front," the restaurateur said as he handed a friend his car keys.

The friend got in the borrowed car to run an errand but minutes later he found himself surrounded by police cruisers and accused of driving a "stolen" car.

Returning to the scene of the "crime," police discovered that three Cadillacs had been parked in front of the restaurant. The right key had fit the wrong car.

"It's a swimming hole for youngsters," he said. "It's down a little dirt road leading south from the highway and back into the woods."

The road leads past a house, then a half mile or so into the forest where it ends abruptly.

There is the river — a crystal clear stream which rises from a deep hole and spurts into the Suwannee River, made famous by Stephen Collins Foster in his song, "'Way Down Upon de S'Wanee Ribber.'"

Arabie Name Plate Is Bad Turkish Word

By HAL McCLURE

ANKARA (AP) — Americans have stirred a tempest in a Turkish coffee cup in this Western-oriented land by publicly displaying their names translated into Arabic script.

"Ugly Americans," "insolence," "bad manners," cried the Turkish press.

The culprits also were denounced in Parliament and investigated by a group called the Turkish Revolutionary Association.

What's all the fuss about?

Arabic writings and signs have been banned by law for more than 30 years after the great Turkish hero and reformer, the late Kemal Ataturk, westernized Turkish with a Latin alphabet.

But to several enterprising Ankara brassware dealers the ban meant very little. They are— or were — doing a brisk business engraving nameplates for foreigners, primarily American servicemen and businessmen. The nameplates are affixed to front doors and carry the tenant's name both in English and the Arabic equivalent.

The dealers told the Americans, most of whom were unaware of the ban or the deep feelings of the Turks:

"These signs will help people find you a lot easier."

Americans also were unaware that few modern Turks can read Arabic.

An Istanbul newspaper discovered the numberous Arabic nameplates and the hunt was on.

"We are friendly toward the United States and her people," said one editorial writer. "But not with the savages who come to the civilized world from the deserts of Arizona and Colorado."

He apparently referred to the home states of several unnamed offenders.

The politicians, seeing a good campaign issue, took up the cry. All major political parties criticized the Americans and one suggested they either shape up or ship out.

Stunned by the onslaught, the Americans quickly retreated, removing the name plates or covering the Arabic.

One serviceman told a newspaper that he understood the Turks' feeling on the matter, but wondered why the dealers who sold them the signs were not equally sensitive.

Another serviceman, Air Force M. Sgt. Charles Creighton, who told newsmen he was from "Little Egypt, New Jersey," (not Colorado or Arizona), had the last word before he removed his offending name plate. Sandwiched between his name in English and Arabic were these words in Turkish:

"The dog barks, but the caravan moves on."

Crosses Are Burned At Alexandria, La.

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP) — At least 11 crosses were burned Wednesday night in the Alexandria area, where there have been no racial incidents recently.

One cross was burned at the Rapides Parish (County) Courthouse.

The crosses, constructed of 2 x 4-inch timber, soaked with fuel, were about five feet high, and were stuck in the ground.

Officers, still investigating, said they were unable to say yet who did it.

KEY TO CRIME

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — "It's the Caddy out in front," the restaurateur said as he handed a friend his car keys.

The friend got in the borrowed car to run an errand but minutes later he found himself surrounded by police cruisers and accused of driving a "stolen" car.

Returning to the scene of the "crime," police discovered that three Cadillacs had been parked in front of the restaurant. The right key had fit the wrong car.

Koshares Will Stage Indian Rain Dance

LA JUNTA (UPI)—If they make it rain Monday, the dancing Koshare Indians, a group of La Junta scouts, might be in widespread demand.

The Koshares, widely known for their colorful performances of Indian dances throughout the nation, said they would attempt to break the current drought in south eastern Colorado by performing a special rain dance at 8 p.m. Sunday.

If the dance is effective, rain should fall in the La Junta area within 24 hours.

The dancers are asking for 10 to 15 large bullsnakes, which they say they need for their performance Sunday night. After the dance, the snakes will be released in four directions from La Junta.

Horticulturist May Decide African Destiny

By WARD CANNEL

IBADAN, Nigeria (NEA) Somehow it always turns out that destiny comes finally to rest in the hands of fellows like Fred Gowen.

Dr. Gowen is a horticulturist from Stratham, N. H. He looks like a horticulturist. His specialty is plant genetics. He talks like a geneticist, even to the New England accent. One can almost see him peering nervously at these words and hear him say a little breathlessly, "Good gracious, no. I work with legumes, not destiny."

But what Gowen does in breeding new strains of legumes—and what other agriculture specialists can accomplish under the $240 million U.S. AID program in Nigeria—may in the distant future save the Western world a foothold in the chaos building here.

For while industrialization in Nigeria struggles to grow out of the jungle of political payola and regional double dealing, a potential army of educated, unemployed, hungry young people grows, looking for a leader and a voice with which to cry out against its discontents.

It is in part Fred Gowen's responsibility to help stay that tide with, of all things, peas and beans. Working against him is the West African birth rate, highest on the continent and held back only temporarily by an exorbitant 1-in-3 infant mortality. The rate will soon fall before a public health campaign.

In the meantime, more and more youngsters are finishing their sixth grade education and going on to secondary school in preparation for the massive unemployment that plagues Nigeria.

The dusty roads of Ibadan and the teeming gutters of Lagos are choked today with young, strong, literate Africans who have left their fathers' farms for rootlessness, idleness and starvation with a school diploma that under British colonialism was the ticket to a steady job and a secure future.

It is not the least of the U.S. AID program—our largest commitment in sub-Sahara Africa — that it seeks a way to make African agriculture a respectable, profitable calling and an industry with a future for the new generations of Nigerians.

Today it is neither. According to Dr. Gowen and other AID agriculture experts in this country's western region, the West African farmer faces four immense obstacles—his soil, his geography, his tradition and his society.

The land is usually overworked and poorly managed. It is kept under cultivation year round in the mistaken belief that it yields more that way. It is cleared by burning, a quick method on a continent where even the plow is often unknown, but a technique that destroys the organic top-layer of the soil.

Even the blazing sun works against the tropical African farmer. On the equator, the hours of daylight are almost constant throughout the year, with no seasons of long days. Intense heat does not mean a large accumulation of daylight growing time.

The farmer defeats himself again with his traditional ways of planting and harvesting. Peanuts, for example, are sown too far apart, cotton too close together. In either case the soil is wasted. In tapping a rubber tree, the cut is often too deep. It produces a maximum yield but cuts the plant's life by 10 years.

As to the farmer himself and farming, changing Africa has come to look on both a spoor things. In tribal Africa, farming was the major occupation; the farmer was the bulwark against extinction. "Today," Dr. Gowen says, "the farmer is considered an illiterate and a failure who has no alternative but to farm. And the farmer all too often agrees with the diagnosis."

The result of all this is a stagnant farm community unwilling to change and unable to learn. The basic food grown is the yam—high in calories and low in everything else. Meat (a pound costs a day's wages) is rich man's fare. So is rice.

Dr. Gowen's peas and beans are, of course, not the whole answer to the problems of nutrition, farming and unemployment. But they are a big step.

The legumes in development contain 12 per cent protein, compared with the yam's 1 per cent. In addition, other AID programs are working on new cold-storage methods for the shipping of meat from the grazing land in the north to the more populous east and west, and the creation of a stable poultry and egg market.

In the meantime, under AID guidance, an agriculture extension service is growing to teach—and more important, follow up—new farming methods with new strains of seed. And equally important, each European and American technician is training an African counterpart to take over the job eventually.

It is a slow business and it has to fight centuries of tradition. But it is one of the very few voices being raised in Nigeria today in answer to the strident call of the hungry radical, demanding an end of commitment to the Western world and an opening of doctrinaire neutralist relations with Russia and the Soviet bloc nations.

Such a move is no answer, as Guinea and Ghana have discovered. But to the hungry and disappointed, any change is better than what they've got in Nigeria today.

Kidney Transplant Fails in Boston

BOSTON (UPI)— A 15-year-old California boy who received a kidney from a dead man five days ago died Tuesday night at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital.

A hospital spokesman said the cause of the death of Kenneth Dovie of Cupertino, Calif., was not determined immediately.

Dovie had been in poor condition since an operation in which he received a healthy kidney from an unrelated person who died at the hospital shortly before the actual transplant took place.

Dovie underwent three major operations after April 11, when a healthy kidney was transplanted in him from his 39-year-old father John.

The boy suffered from Bright's disease, a usually fatal kidney ailment. A successful transplant was his only hope for survival.

On April 19 doctors determined that the kidney transplanted from the father was not functioning properly and removed it. Until Friday he was kept alive through dialysis treatment which substituted for the functions of the kidney.

The transplant from a dead person was not the first such surgery performed at the hospital. A greater Boston man underwent such an operation two years ago and it apparently has been successful. Others have been performed at Denver.

Woodland Park to Vote On $395,000 Bond Issue

Woodland Park residents will vote on a $395,000 bond issue, Monday. The money would be used for the construction of a new junior-senior high school on a 42½ acre tract of land that the community already owns.

There would be 16 teaching stations, a library, a cafeteria, a nursing room and an office of administration included in the new building.

According to Kenneth I. Perry, Woodland Park superintendent of schools, "the main reason why we need this new facility is the increased enrollment of students. We are enrolling 420 students this year as opposed to 355 last spring. The number of students has been increasing steadily and we already have three temporary classrooms.

"Our facilities are packed beyond capacity and ventilation is terrible. There is a general overcrowding in all areas. It is imperative that this bond issue be passed.

"If the bond issue is not passed, and the new building built, we can expect a warning on our accreditation from the State Department of Education. I would say that if our facilities are not expanded, we can expect to lose our accreditation."

Poppy Sale Slated for Saturday

Mayor Harry Hoth issued a proclamation in observance of the sale of Buddy Poppies by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, on Saturday.

The proclamation read in part, "I, Harry Hoth, mayor of the City of Colorado Springs, do hereby urge the citizens of this community to recognize the merits of this cause by contributing generously to its support thru the purchase of Buddy Poppies on May 11, 1963, the day set aside for the distribution of these symbols of loyalty."

Of the money received from the sale of Buddy Poppies each year, 45 per cent is retained by the local VFW posts for relief and hospital work in the local area.

The remaining 55 per cent of the money goes to such organizations as the VFW National Rehabilitation Fund, the VFW National Orphans Home and to disabled veterans for assembling the poppies.

Most of the money spent on the local level is for books and gifts that are given to patients in the local military hospital and the veterans hospital at Ft. Lyons during visits by the members of the VFW posts.

Civil Rights Public Meet Scheduled

The Colorado Advisory Committee to the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights will hold a public meeting beginning at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, May 16 at the YWCA.

Purpose of the meeting is to permit individuals with special knowledge of the housing and accommodations industries in Colorado Springs to give their views as to the existence of discrimination against Negro servicemen stationed in the area.

Representatives of the housing industry have stated that they believe the problem as described by the Advisory Committee in an April report no longer exists.

'Rampart College: Do We Need It? Local TV Announcer Says We Don't

John Bartholomew, news commentator on KKTV, addressed the Civitan Club at the Chicken Shack Wednesday noon on the subject, "Rampart College: Do We Need It?" He concluded that we don't.

He feared that it would turn the city into a "crackpot haven like Los Angeles."

Referring to the proposed institution as "a cult, not a college," Bartholomew said, "Education to me is semi-sacred. It is not brainwashing, not just a two-week course on ideas you think to be right."

He was evidently referring to the two-week sessions at the Freedom School, directed by Gazette Telegraph Editor Robert LeFevre, who is also one of the backers of Rampart College.

Education consists of "all sorts of viewpoints, center, left and right," Bartholomew continued. "It isn't fed to you by some great man who thinks he knows all the answers."

Noting the presence of a Gazette Telegraph reporter, Bartholomew charged that at a recent talk given by LeFevre at another club, a Free Press reporter was barred from the room.

Though he felt that Rampart College would only be an "extension of the Freedom School," Bartholomew conceded that "what I think it will be if it becomes a reality is pretty well based on guesswork."

The speaker believed that the school would be started. "If R.C. Hoiles (publisher of the Freedom Newspapers) and LeFevre want to start it, they have the necessary money and nobody can stop it," he said.

One of the "weaknesses" of the Freedom School, R.C. Hoiles, Rampart College and the philosophy of libertarianism, Bartholomew charged — he tied them all together — is an attitude of "negativism."

The Gazette Telegraph "isn't just another newspaper and just another policy," he continued. "You have to read it over a long period of time before you become aware of the negativism," which he claimed "permeates the town."

Read the Gazette every day, said Bartholomew, "and you begin to wonder whether (police Chief Cecil J.) McKissick has his hand in the till, or whether (ex-Mayor William C.) Henderson is just a drunken bum."

Bartholomew also charged the Gazette with allowing its editorial policies to creep into its news columns. It "chips away, day in and day out, at most institutions.

"I maintain that R. C. Hoiles does not reflect this community, and I resent the fact that many from outside think that he does," the speaker said.

There is an implied longing for anarchy, he said, "a return to the law of the jungle — called the market place by Mr. LeFevre."

Bartholomew claimed that "some very important companies" turn away because of the "image" of the town in the rest of the nation.

Praising the public schools and mass education of the U. S., Bartholomew said that these are "looked upon by the rest of the world as one of the miracles of this country.

"Elsewhere, if you are not of the elite you drop by the wayside early," he said. "Here we have more people who are fairly bright. It is important that we keep them going to school since they may develop late."

Bartholomew also criticized an editorial in the Gazette which he claimed stated that a drafted military man leaves something to be desired.

"The drafted men won two world wars," he continued. "The brass are usually professionals, but you all know that the footslogger who took the hill was a drafted fellow."

During a recent trip to Washington for a small newspaper policy briefing, Bartholomew said, he was singled out by government officials because he was from Colorado Springs. He felt this was because it is "one of the most important cities in the world," seat of NORAD and the Air Force Academy.

"It used to be provincial," he said. "People could and did isolate themselves from most of the problems of the world." He felt that if you mentioned "Haiti" here a few years ago, many would have thought it was some kind of a new dance.

The speaker cited the Gazette's opposition to foreign aid as an example of its "outmoded ideas" and "19th century" philosophy.

"We are a tall and strong lighthouse and it is our moral responsibility to go out into the world," said Bartholomew.

In conclusion, Bartholomew claimed that "Rampart College and (anti-communist revivalist) Billy Hargis have brought Colorado Springs the kind of national publicity we can do very well without. We don't want to be a crackpot haven like Los Angeles. We have a lot of 'class' " — he noted Colorado College, the Air Force Academy, the symphony orchestra and the Civic Players —"and it is sad that we should be the home of political Arthur Murray schools."

Editor Says 'Reporter Not Barred' at Meet

Editor Robert LeFevre of the Gazette Telegraph, commenting on Bartholomew's allegation that a Free Press reporter had once been barred from a speech he made, said, "I don't know what he is talking about. Such a thing did not happen. If he can come up with something I'd like to hear about it."

As far as Bartholomew's claim that companies turned away from Colorado Springs because of the "image" of the town created by the Gazette and the Freedom School, LeFevre said, "This is a false rumor that has been circulated by persons in this community with political ambitions. It is unfounded in fact.

"On the contrary, I have talked with a number of industrialists who are interested in the Fredom Newspapers, the Freedom School and Rampart College and with one accord they tell me their concern with Colorado Springs relates to the high tax structure, which in certain industries is prohibitive, and a general climate which appears to be hostile to development of industry. This we have sought to overcome."

CC Music Press Publishes Anthem By Carlton Gamer

The Colorado College Music Press has published an anthem composed for the dedication of the Olin Hall of Science last September by Prof. Carlton Gamer of the music department.

The choral work is the 17th publication of the music press founded in 1955. It is the third contemporary work put out by the press which specializes in Renaissance choral masterworks.

The anthem, called "Laudate Dominum," is the most recent composition of Professor Gamer, who has been writing music since he was eight years old. His works first were performed when he was a high school student.

"Laudate Dominum" was written especially for the dedication of Olin Hall, made possible through a $1,500,000 grant from the Olin Foundation. Charles L. Horn of the Olin Foundation was the dedication speaker. Lyrics are from Psalm 116 of the Latin Bible.

The Colorado College Music Press, under the direction of music Prof. Albert Seay, is one of two non-commerical college music presses in the country. The other is at Smith College.

Woodland Park to Vote On $395,000 Bond Issue

Woodland Park residents will vote on a $395,000 bond issue, Monday. The money would be used for the construction of a new junior-senior high school on a 42½ acre tract of land that the community already owns.

There would be 16 teaching stations, a library, a cafeteria, a nursing room and an office of administration included in the new building.

According to Kenneth I. Perry, Woodland Park superintendent of schools, "the main reason why we need this new facility is the increased enrollment of students. We are enrolling 420 students this year as opposed to 355 last spring. The number of students has been increasing steadily and we already have three temporary classrooms.

"Our facilities are packed beyond capacity and ventilation is terrible. There is a general overcrowding in all areas. It is imperative that this bond issue be passed.

"If the bond issue is not passed, and the new building built, we can expect a warning on our accreditation from the State Department of Education. I would say that if our facilities are not expanded, we can expect to lose our accreditation."

Clay Banta, Chamber of Commerce secretary-manager reported that already 350 reservations have been made for the breakfast.

Business firms in the region will buy tickets for the breakfast and in turn give them to employes who will attend and hear an inspirational speaker and also a series of short orientation talks concerning the proper treatment and the rendering of special services to tourist customers while they are in the area.

The purpose of the endeavor is to engender in each tourist a feeling that Colorado Springs is a friendly town, one that to which he will be glad to return and where he will be happy to buy merchandise from.

CC BUYS SHOUP MANSION — This historic mansion at the intersection of North Tejon and East Uintah streets has been purchased by Colorado College. The building, now an apartment house, was once the home of Oliver Henry Shoup, former governor of Colorado. College officials said they will continue to operate the building as an apartment house for some time and no plans for demolishing the structure have been made. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

'Rampart College: Do We Need It? Local TV Announcer Says We Don't

John Bartholomew, news commentator on KKTV, addressed the Civitan Club at the Chicken Shack Wednesday noon on the subject, "Rampart College: Do We Need It?" He concluded that we don't.

He feared that it would turn the city into a "crackpot haven like Los Angeles."

Referring to the proposed institution as "a cult, not a college," Bartholomew said, "Education to me is semi-sacred. It is not brainwashing, not just a two-week course on ideas you think to be right."

He was evidently referring to the two-week sessions at the Freedom School, directed by Gazette Telegraph Editor Robert LeFevre, who is also one of the backers of Rampart College.

Education consists of "all sorts of viewpoints, center, left and right," Bartholomew continued. "It isn't fed to you by some great man who thinks he knows all the answers."

Noting the presence of a Gazette Telegraph reporter, Bartholomew charged that at a recent talk given by LeFevre at another club, a Free Press reporter was barred from the room.

Though he felt that Rampart College would only be an "extension of the Freedom School," Bartholomew conceded that "what I think it will be if it becomes a reality is pretty well based on guesswork."

The speaker believed that the school would be started "If R. C. Hoiles (publisher of the Freedom Newspapers) and LeFevre want to start it, they have the necessary money and nobody can stop it," he said.

One of the "weaknesses" of the Freedom School, R.C. Hoiles, Rampart College and the philosophy of libertarianism, Bartholomew charged — he tied them all together — is an attitude of "negativism."

The Gazette Telegraph "isn't just another newspaper and just another policy," he continued. "You have to read it over a long period of time before you become aware of the negativism," which he claimed "permeates the town."

Read the Gazette every day, said Bartholomew, "and you begin to wonder whether (police Chief Cecil J.) McKissick has his hand in the till, or whether (ex-Mayor William C.) Henderson is just a drunken bum."

Bartholomew also charged the Gazette with allowing its editorial policies to creep into its news columns. It "chips away, day in and day out, at most institutions.

"I maintain that R. C. Hoiles does not reflect this community, and I resent the fact that many from outside think that he does," the speaker said.

There is an implied longing for anarchy, he said, "a return to the law of the jungle — called the market place by Mr. LeFevre."

Bartholomew claimed that "some very important companies" turn away because of the "image" of the town in the rest of the nation.

Praising the public schools and mass education of the U. S., Bartholomew said that these are "looked upon by the rest of the world as one of the miracles of this country.

"Elsewhere, if you are not of the elite you drop by the wayside early," he said. "Here we have more people who are fairly bright. It is important that we keep them going to school since they may develop late."

Bartholomew also criticized an editorial in the Gazette which he claimed stated that a drafted military man leaves something to be desired.

"The drafted men won two world wars," he continued. "The brass are usually professionals, but you all know that the footslogger who took the hill was a drafted fellow."

During a recent trip to Washington for a small newspaper policy briefing, Bartholomew said, he was singled out by government officials because he was from Colorado Springs. He felt this was because it is "one of the most important cities in the world," seat of NORAD and the Air Force Academy.

"It used to be provincial," he said. "People could and did isolate themselves from most of the problems of the world." He felt that if you mentioned "Haiti" here a few years ago, many would have thought it was some kind of a new dance.

The speaker cited the Gazette's opposition to foreign aid as an example of its "outmoded ideas" and "19th century" philosophy.

"We are a tall and strong lighthouse and it is our moral responsibility to go out into the world," said Bartholomew.

In conclusion, Bartholomew claimed that "Rampart College and (anti-communist revivalist) Billy Hargis have brought Colorado Springs the kind of national publicity we can do very well without. We don't want to be a crackpot haven like Los Angeles. We have a lot of 'class' " — he noted Colorado College, the Air Force Academy, the symphony orchestra and the Civic Players —"and it is sad that we should be the home of political Arthur Murray schools."

Editor Says 'Reporter Not Barred' at Meet

Editor Robert LeFevre of the Gazette Telegraph, commenting on Bartholomew's allegation that a Free Press reporter had once been barred from a speech he made, said, "I don't know what he is talking about. Such a thing did not happen. If he can come up with something I'd like to hear about it."

As far as Bartholomew's claim that companies turned away from Colorado Springs because of the "image" of the town created by the Gazette and the Freedom School, LeFevre said, "This is a false rumor that has been circulated by persons in this community with political ambitions. It is unfounded in fact.

"On the contrary, I have talked with a number of industrialists who are interested in the Fredom Newspapers, the Freedom School and Rampart College and with one accord they tell me their concern with Colorado Springs relates to the high tax structure, which in certain industries is prohibitive, and a general climate which appears to be hostile to development of industry. This we have sought to overcome."

Poppy Sale Slated for Saturday

Mayor Harry Hoth issued a proclamation in observance of the sale of Buddy Poppies by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, on Saturday.

The proclamation read in part, "I, Harry Hoth, mayor of the City of Colorado Springs, do hereby urge the citizens of this community to recognize the merits of this cause by contributing generously to its support thru the purchase of Buddy Poppies on May 11, 1963, the day set aside for the distribution of these symbols of loyalty."

Of the money received from the sale of Buddy Poppies each year, 45 per cent is retained by the local VFW posts for relief and hospital work in the local area.

The remaining 55 per cent of the money goes to such organizations as the VFW National Rehabilitation Fund, the VFW National Orphans Home and to disabled veterans for assembling the poppies.

Most of the money spent on the local level is for books and gifts that are given to patients in the local military hospital and the veterans hospital at Ft. Lyons during visits by the members of the VFW posts.

CC Music Press Publishes Anthem By Carlton Gamer

The Colorado College Music Press has published an anthem composed for the dedication of the Olin Hall of Science last September by Prof. Carlton Gamer of the music department.

The choral work is the 17th publication of the music press founded in 1955. It is the third contemporary work put out by the press which specializes in Renaissance choral masterworks.

The anthem, called "Laudate Dominum," is the most recent composition of Professor Gamer, who has been writing music since he was eight years old. His works first were performed when he was a high school student.

"Laudate Dominum" was written especially for the dedication of Olin Hall, made possible through a $1,500,000 grant from the Olin Foundation. Charles L. Horn of the Olin Foundation was the dedication speaker. Lyrics are from Psalm 116 of the Latin Bible. Performed by the Colorado College choir under the direction of Donald Jenkins. The anthem is just one of scores of works composed by Professor Gamer, who joined the faculty of the independent liberal arts college here in 1954. His works have been performed in New York, Boston, Chicago and Colorado Springs.

The Colorado College Music Press, under the direction of music Prof. Albert Seay, is one of two non-commerical college music presses in the country. The other is at Smith College.

'New Hollywood' May Be Built, Reports Say

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —The recent announcement by three major film companies revealing proposals for a new movie and television production center was considered by some industry observers as the building of a "new Hollywood."

Tentative plans were revealed in a statement by presidents Darryl F. Zanuck, 20th Century Fox; Abe Schneider, Columbia Pictures, and Robert H. O'Brien, Metro Goldwyn Mayer.

The companies are, "exploring possibilities for construction of the biggest, most modern motion picture and television production center in the world," a statement released by the studios said.

The movie makers also said new building plans did not mean the three firms would merge.

"The utilization of such a center will not in any way affect or alter the individual identity or autonomy of the respective companies," they added. Facilities and space at the center would be available to other producers.

Moviemakers said Fox's ranch is larger than the combined acreage of other Hollywood studios.

The three film company presidents also said, "It has been more than 40 years since a completely new studio has been built in Hollywood. All existing studios were started in the 1920s and 1930s. The rapid growth through the years to their present size, in most cases has made modernization difficult—if not impossible."

One of the first to comment on the proposal was George Chandler, president of the Screen Actors Guild.

"The Screen Actors Guild views this announcement as evidence of forward looking leadership in the industry," he said. "Improved and modern motion picture production facilities in the Hollywood area should help greatly to increase production here."

The reception in Hollywood to the three studio announcements was one of optimism. Thousands of film workers have watched the movie industry work force dwindle in past years as producers went overseas to shoot pictures, and television cut down boxoffice revenues.

One movie industry veteran described the plans in typical Hollywood fashion when he said, "This means the show will go on."

"PANE" WAS REAL—Shard of glass displayed by Betty Russell, telephone employe of Toronto, Canada, was her painful — and unsuspected companion for 23 years. Betty toppled a china cabinet when 6. One glass splinter was removed from under the skin just above the diaphragm. A year later, she was treated for a "broken" rib, and has attributed recurrent pains to that apparent injury. Only recently she fell, felt a sharp pain under the arm. Examination disclosed the two-inch glass splinter, which had worked its way around from site of the original injury. She now has it as a mounted keepsake of a score of "paneful" years.

MIAMI (AP) — Municipal officials and the Chamber of Commerce of suburban South Miami worked for months to have the State Road Department install signs on busy U.S. 1 showing the direction to the business district.

Finally a road crew installed big, new signs and left.

The signs pointed the wrong way.

Wayne's Son Never Did Touch Gun

By DICK KLEINER

NEW YORK (NEA) — If and when Patrick Wayne ever writes his version of "Life With Father," it will shed a new light on the personality of John Wayne.

Young Pat's new movie, "McClintock," may well establish him as a chip off the old blockbuster. He is big, handsome and has his own brand of quiet charm. You saw him on television as the kid first baseman in Fred Astaire's Premiere play, "Flashing Spikes," with James Stewart.

Even though he is John Wayne's son, he didn't grow up with a burning desire to act. The only burning desire he had was to get a college education. This he did, majoring in biology at Loyola. But, along about his junior year, he decided "I'd enjoy acting more than anything else."

Pat says his father never tried to guide any of his children. There are six young Waynes, two older than Pat and three younger.

"My father was a strange disciplinarian," Pat says, "I only remember his spanking me once. I don't remember what I did — I only remember knowning that I never wanted to be spanked again.

"But what he would do is wait until you were in a room with lots of people around and then scold you. Once, I guess I was about 9, I found his .45 and fooled around with it. You know, twirling it and playing with it. Nothing happened, luckily. I put it away when I was finished. But he found out what I had done.

"More than a year later, we were all in Ireland where he was shooting "The Quiet Man.' One night, at a dinner party with the whole cast, he was sitting across the table from me. Suddenly, he leaned over, shook his finger at me and said, 'Don't you ever touch my gun again.'

"I was humiliated. Tears were streaming down my face. It was terrible. But I never touched the gun again."

The ordinary public sometimes gets the wrong idea about jazz musicians. Listen to the experience of Georgia Brown.

"I went to a party with Wally Cox," she says. "He's a love. The hostess found out that I sing jazz. I guess she felt that all jazz musicians are on dope or something. She offered to send out and get some.

"People automatically think that a jazz singer must be a swinger. They assume that my private life is wild. But a jazz singer can be a very normal person. I hate vile language, for example; when I hear it, I freeze inside."

Georgia Brown is the black-haired British belter now starring on Broadway in "Oliver!" While there is a difference of opinion about the show, there is none about Miss Brown. She's a solid performer and her singing of "As Long As He Needs Me" is one of this lackluster Broadway season.

She breathes fire into the song, which reflects her feelings about music in general.

"Lyrics are the most important thing to a song," she says. "I've changed them and sometimes taken out lines when I've done certain songs, if I felt that they got in the way of a particular thought.

"Words have an almost sensual appeal," she says. "The sounds made by lips and tongue and teeth are really quite sensual. Noel Coward knows this and knows how to use sounds. Take the opening line of 'Mad About the Boy' —you could almost know what he was talking about even if you didn't understand the language."

Newsmen Get Look At Atom Blast Site

NEVADA TEST SITE, Nev. (AP)—Ten months ago scientists fired a 100-kiloton thermonuclear device buried 625 feet in the earth. In three seconds 12 million tons of soil rose in a mighty upheaval.

The Atomic Energy Commission gave newsmen their first look at the results of the blast Tuesday. On the AEC's test area here they were shown a gigantic hole—1,200 feet across, deep enough to hide a 32-story building. The walls are so steep the only way to get down into it is in a four-wheeled buggy, attached to a cable, which is lowered down a runway of metal mats by a crane.

AEC spokesman said the blast was part of a test to develop peaceful uses for the powers of atomic explosion. The July 6 device had a power equivalent to 100,000 tons of TNT. Nuclear power, when safely harnessed, will be able to save up to 90 per cent of the cost of conventional excavations, a scientist told newsmen.

One big problem: radiation. Workers weren't able to get into the crater until February.

Lowest attendance at any federally run area open to the public in 1962 was at the Katmai National Monument in a wild area of Alaska. It drew just 300 visitors.

Lack of Moisture Hurts State Crops

DENVER (UPI)—The Colorado Cooperative Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said today crops continued to suffer from lack of moisture in most parts of Colorado last week.

The federal-state agency said warm temperatures accelerated moisture depletion, topsoil moisture was critically short everywhere but in the northwest and southwest, and the condition of winter wheat declined.

Winter wheat was deteriorating rapidly in the east central part t the state but "holding on ftepory of the state but "holding on pretty well" in the extreme northeast, the report said.

Spring barley seeding and corn planting were held up by dry soil, the report said. Livestock were reported holding up well on supplemental feed.

EX-RED TO SPEAK — The Rev. Ron Arnold, a member of the U.S. Communist Party for five years before his conversion to Christianity, will be guest speaker at 7:30 p.m. Friday at the First Free Methodist Church. He will discuss "How Communism Destroys the Family." The speaker directs a national ministry called Christian Witness which has its office in Portland, Ore.

Sugar Surplus Programs to Be Tested

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — A United States program designed to deal with surpluses of sugar is undergoing a severe test as to its ability to handle a shortage.

Back in the 1930s Congress enacted a Suguar Stabilization Act which has been continued in modified forms except during a period in World War II. Its main objective has been the stabilization of prices and supplies of sugar through a system of marketing controls and quotas.

It was set up at a time when sugar surpluses had greatly depressed prices and domestic producers of sugar cane and beets faced ruin from low-priced foreign supplies. Various domestic, offshore and foreign producing areas were alloted shares or quotas in the U.S. market.

The program's price goal was profits from sugar sufficient to maintain the domestic industry. Over the years, this country has imported roughly two-thirds of its needs. Cuba was the major foreign supplier until diplomatic relations with Castro's Cuba were severed a few years ago.

The quota system was suspended during World War II because shortages replaced surpluses and there was no danger of the American market being flooded by foreign supplies.

But a new shortage in world supplies developed this year because of a decline in production last year. This country nevertheless has maintained its quota system.

Unlike the periods when there was plenty of sugar, many countries with fixed and assured quotas have been slow to fill them this year. They want and expect higher prices, although markets have advanced sharply over year ago levels.

As a consequence of this reluctance to sell sugar now, the United States faces the possibility of very tight supplies during the summer season of heavy demand for food processing, soft drinks and ice cream.

This week, the government increased the quotas in an effort to shake loose foreign supplies. This action had the effect of opening this country's markets to foreign areas on a competitive bid basis. To share in the bulk of the new increase, a country must commit itself to deliver specified supplies within a specified period.

Only time will tell whether the quota increase will bring forth needed supplies. If it fails, there is a good possibility the government may suspend all the quotas and put sugar on a full competitive basis. Thus no one would have an assured position in the American market.

Old Stage Props Never Thrown Out

NEW YORK (AP) — Old stage props are never thrown out. Sometimes they turn up in new productions. Consider "Enter Laughing."

The comedy is using an assortment of such items. The robe Alan Mowbray wears was once donned by Vincent Price in "Victoria Regina." A bench previously was used in "Edward, My Son." Red drapes are from "The Affair," an overcoat was worn in 11 films, and a vanity case is a memento that Anita Loos received from Mary Pickford during the making of a movie in 1912.

It's still hard to keep 'em down on the farm. Seventy per cent of migrants from farm to city in the 1950s were under 20, or reached 20 during that decade.

Carson Nurse To Leave for Heidelberg

A family background of Army medical service and a love for travel were two imporatnt reasons for 2d Lt. Barbie Perlmutter of the Ft. Carson Army Hospital to choose Army nursing as a career.

A graduate of the Vanderbilt University School of Nursing, this pert nurse originally chose Ft. Carson because of her love for skiing. After this first assignment, Barbie leaves for Heidelberg, Germany in June where she will once again be reunited with her parents who are currently stationed in Orleans, France. Her father, an Army doctor, and her mother, a nurse, influenced her decision to become an Army nurse.

Having been reared in the Army, Barbie had an excellent opportunity to view the programs it offered. She received a two-year sponsorship in which she got the pay and allowances of her grade for two years and full tuition payments for her last year. In return, she serves on active duty for three years.

"I received my commission six months before I graduated. Naturally, this was a big boost," she said. "With my longevity, I make pretty good money now while I am continuing to advance my career.

Altho only 59 inches high, the perky nurse likes sports in her spare moments. In addition to skiing, Barbie is a good swimmer — she was once a senior Red Cross lifesaver. She also likes tennis and knitting.

Gay Nineties Party Given For Convention Delegates

The Colorado Springs Junior League hostessed a gala Gay Nineties banquet Tuesday evening in the South Room of the Broadmoor International Center. Life-size cut-outs of an old-time bar and bartender, gunmen and dance hall girls lined one wall of the vast room, where some 500 delegates and guests were served.

The tables were decorated with foot-high barber poles, and lace trimmed red satin garters were used as favors. Instead of place cards, each table was marked with gay placards bearing the name of an old favorite song, and as guests arrived, each was given a small card with the name of the song matching the table to which she was assigned.

The Hi-Chords, Colorado Springs award-winning SPEBSQA quartet, went from table to table during dinner, singing favorite selections.

Highlight of the evening was an "Evening with Max Morath," TV star, who played, sang and discussed the ragtime era and its happy music. Mr. Morath showed old time song slides illustrating several of the numbers he sang, and the enchanted audience joined in singing when slides with the lyrics were shown.

Mrs. John W. Lundeen Jr., national treasurer, was mistress of ceremonies, introducing the officers and guests at the speakers' table. She complimented the Colorado Springs League, which has a comparatively small group of members, for the efficient manner in which the entire conference has been arranged and handled. The Rev. (Chaplain) James R. Woodruff gave the invocation, and Mrs. James Maytag hostess committee chairman, introduced Mr. Morath.

Seven Regional cocktail parties in various rooms of the Broadmoor Hotel preceded the banquet.

Opening lead: Nine of ◊

Declarer in today's hand backed himself into a corner from which he could not escape. West deserves a measure of credit for a good defensive play, however a sound plan of campaign by South would have overcome all resistance.

North opened the bidding with one diamond and South responded with one spade. When North rebid his diamonds at the two level, South branched off into notrump. The three spade call at this point is not in the nature of a sign off, but rather an acceptance of partner's invitation to go game. It shows three card trump support and offers the responder a hoice of contracts. Since South had a give card suit, he proceeded to game in spades.

The nine of diamonds was opened and the ace was played from dummy. Declarer proceeded to cash the king and ace of hearts and then ruff his remaining heart in dummy. Next the king of clubs was led but West shrewdly withheld his ace permitting the king to win the trick.

On the club continuation, West captured South's queen with the ace in order to switch to a spade, and declarer was helpless. If he put up the ace of trumps, he would be unable to get out of the dummy without permitting his opponents to get in to draw North's last spade. He actually chose to finesse the jack of spades, but East won the trick with the king and a spade return killed the club ruff. South ended up losing two clubs, one diamond and a spade.

Declarer had two cards which he wished to trump in the dummy —the third heart and the third club. It is all a question of timing and, since the heart ruff can be effected whenever he wishes, South shoud concentrate his initial efforts on the club suit. At trick two the king of clubs should be led from dummy. West will presumably duck this trick, win the club continuation and then shift to a trump. Declarer must refuse the finesse and put up the ace of spades from dummy. A heart is led to the king in the closed hand in order to ruff a club. Now a second heart is led to the ace in order to trump away the losing heart. In all, South loses a spade, a diamond and a club.

Gay Nineties Party Given For Convention Delegates

The Colorado Springs Junior League hostessed a gala Gay Nineties banquet Tuesday evening in the South Room of the Broadmoor International Center. Life-size cut-outs of an old-time bar and bartender, gunmen and dance hall girls lined one wall of the vast room, where some 500 delegates and guests were served.

The tables were decorated with foot-high barber poles, and lace trimmed red satin garters were used as favors. Instead of place cards each table was marked with gay placards bearing the name of an old favorite song, and as guests arrived, each was given a small card with the name of the song matching the table to which she was assigned.

The Hi-Chords, Colorado Springs award-winning SPEBSQA quartet went from table to table during dinner, singing favorite selections.

Highlight of the evening was an "Evening with Max Morath," TV star, who played, sang and discussed the ragtime era and its happy music. Mr. Morath showed old time song slides illustrating several of the numbers he sang, and the enchanted audience joined in singing when slides with the lyrics were shown.

Mrs John W Lundeen Jr. national treasurer, was mistress of ceremonies, introducing the officers and guests at the speakers' table. She complimented the Colorado Springs League, which has a comparatively small group of members, for the efficient manner in which the entire conference has been arranged and handled. The Rev (Chaplain) James R Woodruff gave the invocation, and Mrs James Maytag hostess committee chairman, introduced Mr Morath.

Seven Regional cocktail parties in various rooms of the Broadmoor Hotel preceded the banquet.

Opening lead: Nine of ◇

Declarer in today's hand backed himself into a corner from which he could not escape. West deserves a measure of credit for a good defensive play, however a sound plan of campaign by South would have overcome all resistance.

North opened the bidding with one diamond and South responded with one spade. When North rebid his diamonds at the two level, South branched off into notrump. The three spade call at this point is not in the nature of a sign off, but rather an acceptance of partner's invitation to go game. It shows three card trump support and offers the responder a choice of contracts. Since South had a give card suit, he proceeded to game in spades.

The nine of diamonds was opened and the ace was played from dummy. Declarer proceeded to cash the king and ace of hearts and then ruff his remaining heart in dummy. Next the king of clubs was led but West shrewdly withheld his ace permitting the king to win the trick.

On the club continuation, West captured South's queen with the ace in order to switch to a spade, and declarer was helpless. If he put up the ace of trumps, he would be unable to get out of the dummy without permitting his opponents to get in to draw North's last spade. He actually chose to finesse the jack of spades, but East won the trick with the king and a spade return killed the club ruff. South ended up losing two clubs, one diamond and a spade.

Declarer had two cards which he wished to trump in the dummy—the third heart and the third club. It is all a question of timing and, since the heart ruff can be effected whenever he wishes, South shoud concentrate his initial efforts on the club suit. At trick two the king of clubs should be led from dummy. West will presumably duck this trick, win the club continuation and then shift to a trump. Declarer must refuse the finesse and put up the ace of spades from dummy. A heart is led to the king in the closed hand in order to ruff a club. Now a second heart is led to the ace in order to trump away the losing heart. In all, South loses a spade, a diamond and a club.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Forget Her!

DEAR ABBY: I am married to the coldest woman this side of Alaska. I'll bet she hasn't kissed me in two years. I met a cute little woman who is just what the doctor ordered. Am I justified? A man is not made of wood, you know. —ONLY HUMAN

DEAR ONLY: I "know" a man is not made of wood. (Just his head.) The cute little woman may be "just what the doctor ordered," but she is "not" what fortune dealt you nor what your pastor delivered. Forget her, and try to thaw out your wife.

DEAR ABBY: I work in a factory with many girls. One day last week one of the girls had what she called a "Charlie Horse" in the calf of her leg. Our foreman (a married man of about 55) said his wife got them all the time and he knew how to get rid of them. Well, this girl (she is also married) let the foreman massage her leg! That very evening all the other girls went home on time and the foreman asked this one girl with the "Charlie Horse" to stay. She got an hour's "overtime" pay. What do you think about that?—WORKING GIRL

DEAR WORKING GIRL: I would have to know more about the girl, the foreman, the "overtime" —and you!

DEAR ABBY: Why is it that women cannot bear to see a happy, moderately well-to-do bachelor enjoy his freedom without wanting to ruin everything for him by getting him married to a "lovely woman" (either themselves or a friend) who is looking for a lifetime of support, or a father for her noisy, spoiled brats?

I am 41 and prefectly contented to remain a bachelor for the rest of my life. And I know many other bachelors who feel the same way. I wish these women would leave us happy, hard - working bachelors alone once we have refused their advances on the subject of marriage. You probably won't publish this, but if you do, sign me—J.

DEAR J.: The next time a woman tries to interest you in marriage (for herself or a friend), recite your little speech to her and that will be all, brother!

DEAR ABBY: I have gone to the same beauty operator for several years. Lately every time I arrive for my appintment, my operator tells me she is running about an hour late. She says it is because the patrons before me have come late. I finally got tired of it and quit her. My husband doesn't like the way my new operator does my hair and he wants me to go back to the old one. It's a matter of principle with me. Am I right or is my husband? Would you go back?—ASH BLONDE

DEAR ASH: When a customer is late for an appointment, "she" is the one who should be kept waiting. Even if her tardiness was unavoidable, it is not fair to throw everyone else off schedule. I think you are right. Shop around for another operator. And reward the prompt ones with your patronage.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "J": The easiest way to teach children the value of money is to borrow it from them!

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Gals:

'Tis time I let you in on a little discovery!

I have tried it eight months now and it works! And it's really a time saver.

I have a regular refrigerator "Without" automatic defrost. I do not like to defrost! Who does?

I tried to figure "just why so much frost builds up on and around the box where we keep our ice trays?" I started research. Frost is built up when it comes in contact with air!

Now . . . just where in the heck is the air coming from?

Every time we open the door!

I have experimented with nine different brands of refrigerators. "All" have a "space" around that little door which flips open before we can remove an ice tray!

I decided to try to eliminate what frost I could . . . so at least if I had to go another week without defrosting the door "would" close! The ice builds up so fast that sometimes the hinges just won't close. EH?

Here's what I did:

I took a cardboard tube—the kind that comes inside foil and waxed paper, and cut it to fit between the wall of the refrigerator and the freezing unit.

This roll of cardboard should stand "upright" and should be just about one inch "behind" the clasp on that freezing unit door. Not too far . . . you only want to block the hot air and keep it from hitting that freezing unit. It will look as if you were putting a book on a book shelf and cramming it between two other books.

Here's what it does:

We have tested and find that when we open the door the suction draws the hot air in more on that side where the refrigerator handle is. This is the reason (I think . . . but then I am no authority, and often so state) that the ice builds up on that side first!

By blocking the air with this roll of cardboard . . . it keeps the ice from building up! Result? Don't have to defrost as often!

Ladies, I have tried sponges . . . they just don't work. First, they freeze, they have no air hole (like the cardboard insertion) and the air won't circulate. Also . . . if you go an extra long time before defrosting and the ice builds up, the cardboard can be easily removed (it's crushable and soft!).

On all the brands of refrigerators I have tried this method on . . . it works. The cardboard roll will fit any space (it's usually about an inch or two) and is easily shoved in.

And just what do you have to lose? "Nothing"! You were probably going to throw the roll away in the first place. Takes a second to push it in the space. Try it. I believe that you will love it.

Write your letters to Heloise care of this paper. I am here to help anyway I can. I am sure that you will love this idea. I do.

Thanks for your wonderful letters. You have no idea how much more I understand when you write with your complaints and problems.

But isn't it wonderful to be a wife? And run a home? What greater job could anyone in the entire world ask for? Do it with pride . . . honor and love.

It's there . . . just for the asking! —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I use the turntable of a lazy Susan for bowls of vegetables at mealtime. This is especially handy when you have small children who cannot pass the bowls or serve themselves. They just twirl it around. —Etta

Dear Heloise:

I learned when I was young and "smoking on the sly" to remove nicotine stains from my fingers by rubbing them with cotton which has been saturated with hydrogen peroxide. This may be purchased at any drugstore. —Ron's wife.

Heloise welcomes all mail, especially household hints which she can pass on to readers as space permits. However, because of the tremendous volume of mail she receives daily, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will answer readers' questions in her column whenever possible.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Forget Her!

DEAR ABBY: I am married to the coldest woman this side of Alaska. I'll bet she hasn't kissed me in two years. I met a cute little woman who is just what the doctor ordered. Am I justified? A man is not made of wood, you know. —ONLY HUMAN

DEAR ONLY: I "know" a man is not made of wood. (Just his head.) The cute little woman may be "just what the doctor ordered," but she is "not" what fortune dealt you nor what your pastor delivered. Forget her, and try to thaw out your wife.

DEAR ABBY: I work in a factory with many girls. One day last week one of the girls had what she called a "Charlie Horse" in the calf of her leg. Our foreman (a married man of about 55) said his wife got them all the time and he knew how to get rid of them. Well, this girl (she is also married) let the foreman massage her leg! That very evening all the other girls went home on time and the foreman asked this one girl with the "Charlie Horse" to stay. She got an hour's "overtime" pay. What do you think about that?—WORKING GIRL

DEAR WORKING GIRL: I would have to know more about the girl, the foreman, the "overtime" —and you!

DEAR ABBY: Why is it that women cannot bear to see a happy, moderately well-to-do bachelor enjoy his freedom without wanting to ruin everything for him by getting him married to a "lovely woman" (either themselves or a friend) who is looking for a lifetime of support, or a father for her noisy, spoiled brats?

I am 41 and prefectly contented to remain a bachelor for the rest of my life. And I know many other bachelors who feel the same way. I wish these women would leave us happy, hard - working bachelors alone once we have refused their advances on the subject of marriage. You probably won't publish this, but if you do, sign me—J.

DEAR J.: The next time a woman tries to interest you in marriage (for herself or a friend), recite your little speech to her and that will be all, brother!

DEAR ABBY: I have gone to the same beauty operator for several years. Lately every time I arrive for my appintment, my operator tells me she is running about an hour late. She says it is because the patrons before me have come late. I finally got tired of it and quit her. My husband doesn't like the way my new operator does my hair and he wants me to go back to the old one. It's a matter of principle with me. Am I right or is my husband? Would you go back?—ASH BLONDE

DEAR ASH: When a customer is late for an appointment, "she" is the one who should be kept waiting. Even if her tardiness was unavoidable, it is not fair to throw everyone else off schedule. I think you are right. Shop around for another operator. And reward the prompt ones with your patronage.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "J": The easiest way to teach children the value of money is to borrow it from them!

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Gals:

'Tis time I let you in on a little discovery!

I have tried it eight months now and it works! And it's really a time saver.

I have a regular refrigerator "Without" automatic defrost. I do not like to defrost! Who does?

I tried to figure "just why so much frost builds up on and around the box where we keep our ice trays?" I started research. Frost is built up when it comes in contact with air!

Now . . . just where in the heck is the air coming from?

Every time we open the door!

I have experimented with nine different brands of refrigerators. "All" have a "space" around that little door which flips open before we can remove an ice tray!

I decided to try to eliminate what frost I could . . . so at least if I had to go another week without defrosting the door "would" close! The ice builds up so fast that sometimes the hinges just won't close. EH?

Here's what I did:

I took a cardboard tube—the kind that comes inside foil and waxed paper, and cut it to fit between the wall of the refrigerator and the freezing unit.

This roll of cardboard should stand "upright" and should be just about one inch "behind" the clasp on that freezing unit door. Not too far . . . you only want to block the hot air and keep it from hitting that freezing unit. It will look as if you were putting a book on a book shelf and cramming it between two other books.

Here's what it does:

We have tested and find that when we open the door the suction draws the hot air in more on that side where the refrigerator handle is. This is the reason (I think . . . but then I am no authority, and often so state) that the ice builds up on that side first!

By blocking the air with this roll of cardboard . . . it keeps the ice from building up! Result? Don't have to defrost as often!

Ladies, I have tried sponges . . . they just don't work. First, they freeze, they have no air hole (like the cardboard insertion) and the air won't circulate. Also . . . if you go an extra long time before defrosting and the ice builds up, the cardboard can be easily removed (it's crushable and soft!).

On all the brands of refrigerators I have tried this method on . . . it works. The cardboard roll will fit any space (it's usually about an inch or two) and is easily shoved in.

And just what do you have to lose? "Nothing"! You were probably going to throw the roll away in the first place. Takes a second to push it in the space. Try it. I believe that you will love it.

Write your letters to Heloise care of this paper. I am here to help anyway I can. I am sure that you will love this idea. I do.

Thanks for your wonderful letters. You have no idea how much more I understand when you write with your complaints and problems.

But isn't it wonderful to be a wife? And run a home? What greater job could anyone in the entire world ask for? Do it with pride . . . honor and love.

It's there . . . just for the asking! —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I use the turntable of a lazy Susan for bowls of vegetables at mealtime. This is especially handy when you have small children who cannot pass the bowls or serve themselves. They just twirl it around. —Etta

Dear Heloise:

I learned when I was young and "smoking on the sly" to remove nicotine stains from my fingers by rubbing them with cotton which has been saturated with hydrogen peroxide. This may be purchased at any drugstore. —Ron's wife.

Heloise welcomes all mail, especially household hints which she can pass on to readers as space permits. However, because of the tremendous volume of mail she receives daily, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will answer readers' questions in her column whenever possible.

TROY, N.Y. (AP)—No encores were called for at the end of the annual spring concert at Catholic Central High School Wednesday night. A skunk broke up the finale by walking across the stage, and the audience fled.

The last number on the program was the school's alma mater, presented by the band and chorus.

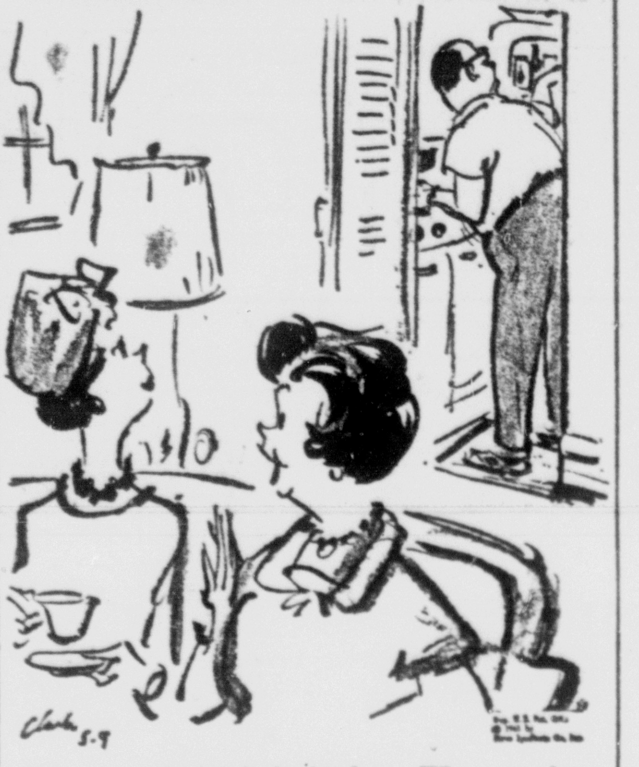
THE NEIGHBORS By George Clark



"It's a wonderful little kitchen. When my husband's waistline reaches a certain size, he can't get into it."

Hotels, Restaurants Blame Tax for Drop in Business

By RALEIGH ALLSBROOK

NEW YORK (AP)—Dwindling business blamed mainly on changes in income tax expense account deductions has given the hotel and restaurant industry a king-sized headache.

In addition to eliminating many deductions previously allowed on grounds business was involved, the rules, according to hotel and restaurant people, are so confusing no one is sure what they mean.

Businessmen consequently have put the brakes on expense account spending.

Hardest hit are night clubs and the more expensive eating places—where a customer might be entertained or a deal negotiated—and the big hotels catering to convention crowds.

Unemployment among workers in the industry is steadily rising in many cities.

People are becoming more price conscious. They are ordering cheaper dishes, fewer drinks and looking at the tab more carefully. Some big spenders are becoming little spenders.

The ultra-smart spots with exotic foods, some predict, will have to tone down or go out of business.

Although the new tax regulations are catching most of the blame, other factors also mentioned by some persons. These include general retrenchment following the stock market decline last year, competition from motels, overbuilding of hotels and increased air travel and superhighway building, making it possible for people to visit other cities and return the same day without an overnight stop.

Complaints that the slump is having a critical effect come from every direction.

"It's hurting, and hurting bad," said a spokesman for the Tennessee Restaurant Association, which reports business off 6 to 15 per cent. "It likely will get worse before it levels off."

"Collapse is a good way to explain it," complained manager Joe B. Callihan of the Benson Hotel in Portland, Ore., which has been affected "seriously." "The traveling people no longer bring their wives."

"Restaurants are cutting expenses every place they can—entertainment, food, help, even turning off more lights," said Sherman Billingsley, owner of New York's Stork Club. "The business will never be the same again."

His business is off 30 to 40 per cent and he said half of the restaurants in New York would have to close if their creditors decided to clamp down on overdue food and beverage bills.

In San Francisco, Charles F. Delano, executive vice president of the Golden Gate Restaurant Association, commented:

"Some of our members report losses of 15 to as high as 60 per cent in the first two months this year. Patronage is falling off sharply and its causing layoffs. There's confusion about the tax regulations. Your businessman doesn't really understand."

"Business has been awfully slow," said Chick Hedrick, owner of the Copa Atlanta, a plush night spot in Atlanta, Ga. "We just can't get people out. Everybody says business is off."

A complaint heard frequently in Pennsylvania goes something like this: "What knocks you for a loop is not so much what the rules say, but what they don't say."

"The salesman and traveling man feels he is going to the penitentiary if he uses his expense account," said assistant manager Dale Overfelt of the Interlude night club in Kansas City.

The National Restaurant Association, blaming the expense account crackdown, reported business in 700 better-type restaurants in 40 major cities off 15 per cent for the first quarter, compared with last year.

"Since less than half their business comes from expense account spending," Thomas W. Power, association counsel, said, "this means businessmen have cut back at least 30 per cent in restaurant business entertaining."

Although the Treasury Department softened the regulations somewhat on March 29, reports so far indicate little pickup in business, Power said.

"Hotel business in general in New York City is at its lowest level since 1938," the Hotel Association of New York said in reporting a 10 per cent drop for the first quarter.

James A. McCarthy, association executive vice president, attributed most of the decline to a "lack of understanding" of the new tax rules.

"Business is lousy," a spokesman for the Restaurant League of New York, remarked. "People are confused, afraid to spend money." Sales were reported down 18 to 60 per cent with the average 20 to 25 per cent.

"We get 50 to 60 per cent of our business from expense account spending," he said. "Many restaurants will have to go out of business unless we can get changes in the rules."

He said that it was difficult to get restaurant help last year, but because of cutbacks in service about 20 per cent of the city's 70,000 restaurant workers now are unemployed.

Harris, Kerr, Forster & Co., an accounting firm which compiles data for the hotel industry, reported that January and February figures from 526 hotels throughout the country showed a "very sharp decrease" compared with last year.

Room, food and beverage sales were off 4.8 per cent, the firm said, with decreases in some of these items ranging up to 14 per cent in certain cities.

Individual city reports from other sources, however, showed greater losses in some cases.

Most people in the industry seem hopeful that once the tax regulations are better understood, business will gradually come back.

One big-name night club in New York, the Copacabana, said it already had noticed a slight upward trend after a drop of 10 to 15 per cent in the first part of the year.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon also has predicted that as the rules are defined people will understand "they are not as horrendous" as businessmen anticipated.

Increased Employment Cost Seen in Steel

NEW YORK (AP) — Steel labor contract talks probably will result in increased employment costs of between 2 and 3 per cent, Iron Age predicted today.

The trade publication said this figure will be reached only after hard bargaining.

The United Steelworkers Union has been free to reopen its contract for wage negotiations since May 1 but hasn't done so.

Iron Age said many in the steel industry believe 2 per cent is the maximum that can be granted and keep the cost within productivity gains.

It added the opinion that the union would not consent to anything under the Kennedy administration's 3 per cent guideline "without a bitter struggle at the bargaining table."

In terms of money, a 2 per cent increase would mean roughly 8 cents an hour.

Iron Age said steel production in the current quarter could approach 20 million tons, the highest in history.

NETS SWEEP CLEAN

VENICE (AP) — In the lagoon city of Venice the street sweepers don't have brooms. They walk along the side of the canals with long-handled dip nets and fish out the debris. Now and then a major cleaning job is undertaken by large motor barges dragging sweeps which clean off the floating debris on the surface of the larger canals.

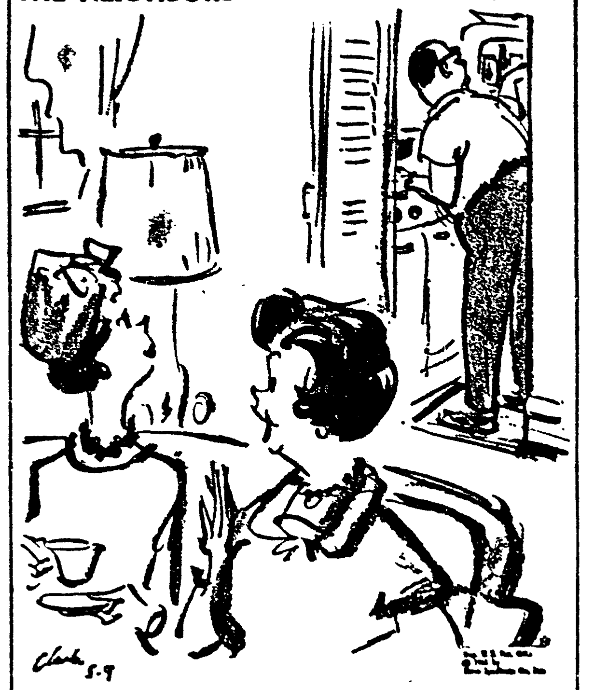
THE NEIGHBORS By George Clark



"It's a wonderful little kitchen. When my husband's waistline reaches a certain size, he can't get into it."

Hotels, Restaurants Blame Tax for Drop in Business

By RALEIGH ALLSBROOK

NEW YORK (AP)—Dwindling business blamed mainly on changes in income tax expense account deductions has given the hotel and restaurant industry a king-sized headache.

In addition to eliminating many deductions previously allowed on grounds business was involved, the rules, according to hotel and restaurant people, are so confusing no one is sure what they mean.

Businessmen consequently have put the brakes on expense account spending.

Hardest hit are night clubs and the more expensive eating places—where a customer might be entertained or a deal negotiated—and the big hotels catering to convention crowds.

Unemployment among workers in the industry is steadily rising in many cities.

People are becoming more price conscious. They are ordering cheaper dishes, fewer drinks and looking at the tab more carefully. Some big spenders are becoming little spenders.

The ultra-smart spots with exotic foods, some predict, will have to tone down or go out of business.

Although the new tax regulations are catching most of the blame, other factors also mentioned by some persons. These include general retrenchment following the stock market decline last year, competition from motels, overbuilding of hotels and increased air travel and superhighway building, making it possible for people to visit other cities and return the same day without an overnight stop.

Complaints that the slump is having a critical effect come from every direction.

"It's hurting, and hurting bad," said a spokesman for the Tennessee Restaurant Association, which reports business off 6 to 15 per cent. "It likely will get worse before it levels off."

"Collapse is a good way to explain it," complained manager Joe B. Callihan of the Benson Hotel in Portland, Ore., which has been affected "seriously." "The traveling people no longer bring their wives."

"Restaurants are cutting expenses every place they can—entertainment, food, help, even turning off more lights," said Sherman Billingsley, owner of New York's Stork Club. "The business will never be the same again."

His business is off 30 to 40 per cent and he said half of the restaurants in New York would have to close if their creditors decided to clamp down on overdue food and beverage bills.

In San Francisco, Charles F. Delano, executive vice president of the Golden Gate Restaurant Association, commented:

"Some of our members report losses of 15 to as high as 60 per cent in the first two months this year. Patronage is falling off sharply and its causing layoffs. There's confusion about the tax regulations. Your businessman doesn't really understand."

"Business has been awfully slow," said Chick Hedrick, owner of the Copa Atlanta, a plush night spot in Atlanta, Ga. "We just can't get people out. Everybody says business is off."

A complaint heard frequently in Pennsylvania goes something like this: "What knocks you for a loop is not so much what the rules say, but what they don't say."

"The salesman and traveling man feels he is going to the penitentiary if he uses his expense account," said assistant manager Dale Overfelt of the Interlude night club in Kansas City.

The National Restaurant Association, blaming the expense account crackdown, reported business in 700 better-type restaurants in 40 major cities off 15 per cent for the first quarter, compared with last year.

"Since less than half their business comes from expense account spending," Thomas W. Power, association counsel, said, "this means businessmen have cut back at least 30 per cent in restaurant business entertaining."

Although the Treasury Department softened the regulations somewhat on March 29, reports so far indicate little pickup in business, Power said.

"Hotel business in general in New York City is at its lowest level since 1938," the Hotel Association of New York said in reporting a 10 per cent drop for the first quarter.

James A. McCarthy, association executive vice president, attributed most of the decline to a "lack of understanding" of the new tax rules.

"Business is lousy," a spokesman for the Restaurant League of New York, remarked. "People are confused, afraid to spend money." Sales were reported down 18 to 60 per cent with the average 20 to 25 per cent.

"We get 50 to 60 per cent of our business from expense account spending," he said. "Many restaurants will have to go out of business unless we can get changes in the rules."

He said that it was difficult to get restaurant help last year, but because of cutbacks in service about 20 per cent of the city's 70,000 restaurant workers now are unemployed.

Harris, Kerr, Forster & Co., an accounting firm which compiles data for the hotel industry, reported that January and February figures from 526 hotels throughout the country showed a "very sharp decrease" compared with last year.

Room, food and beverage sales were off 4.8 per cent, the firm said, with decreases in some of these items ranging up to 14 per cent in certain cities.

Individual city reports from other sources, however, showed greater losses in some cases.

Most people in the industry seem hopeful that once the tax regulations are better understood, business will gradually come back.

One big name night club in New York, the Copacabana, said it already had noticed a slight upward trend after a drop of 10 to 15 per cent in the first part of the year.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon also has predicted that as the rules are defined people will understand. "They are not as [illegible] spared.

Mr. and Mrs. William Porter returned to their home in Victor after being gone all winter visiting relatives and friends in many states. They spent the past seven months visiting in Montana, Idaho, Oregon, Washington, California and Arizona. Highlights of their trip were the World's Fair, Yosemite National Park, crossing the Bay bridge in San Francisco and exploring the copper mines in the ghost town of Jerome, Ariz.

The Victor Museum board of directors met at the Power Co. Tuesday to make plans for the museum for the coming tourist season.

Increased Employment Cost Seen in Steel

NEW YORK (AP) — Steel labor contract talks probably will result in increased employment costs of between 2 and 3 per cent, Iron Age predicted today.

The trade publication said this figure will be reached only after hard bargaining.

The United Steelworkers Union has been free to reopen its contract for wage negotiations since May 1 but hasn't done so.

Iron Age said many in the steel industry believe 2 per cent is the maximum that can be granted and keep the cost within productivity gains.

It added the opinion that the union would not consent to anything under the Kennedy administration's 3 per cent guideline "without a bitter struggle at the bargaining table."

In terms of money, a 2 per cent increase would mean roughly 8 cents an hour.

Iron Age said steel production in the current quarter could approach 20 million tons, the highest in history.

NETS SWEEP CLEAN

VENICE (AP) — In the lagoon city of Venice the street sweepers don't have brooms. They walk along the side of the canals with long-handled dip nets and fish out the debris. Now and then a major cleaning job is undertaken by large motor barges dragging sweeps which clean off the floating debris on the surface of the larger canals.

Your Freedom Newspaper

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule, the Ten Commandments and the Declaration of Independence.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

The Care and Feeding Of Tyrants—Part I

Tyranny rests upon hate.

There is no other way for a tyrant to gain power than to take his self-appointed position in a society or a government as the principal exponent of hatred in a given direction.

All tyrannies came into existence because of hate.

But all hate rests on fear. The tryant is merely a skillful political manipulator who capitalizes on a fear, causes it to expand, and then organizes a hate movement against the object of fear.

Let us take the tyranny of Adolph Hitler as an example. The Jews provided Hitler with a target. Jewish people are generally above average in productibility. In consequence, they are frequently highly competitive. As such, some people fear them.

Hitler capitalized on that fear. He assured his constituents that their fears were well grounded, and hence they could afford to hate. He led in hatred and built his regime on these popular shibboleths.

The same pattern is as old as government altho the target does not have to be a particular race, creed, nation or system of belief. It can be anything.

Ever since Karl Marx, one of the principal targets of hate and fear has been the capitalist. Marx feared and hated capitalists and the very idea of capitalism.

But it is always difficult for a tyrant to engender large-scale fear against an idea. People who can be swayed emotionally, rarely respond to hatred engendered against an abstraction. They require a fixed target, a person, a firm, a corporation.

The Marxian revolution has been most successful when it engendered hatred against some particular capitalist.

Labor unions have been a prime mover in expanding hatred against particular named capitalists. It has always been a policy of labor bosses, ever since the days of the Industrial Revolution, to paint capitalists in frightful colors and to call down damnation upon them.

The more successful a capitalist is, the more universally do the labor bosses attack.

Quite naturally, since labor bosses specialize in hatred and destruction, they do their best to present any capitalist as a drooling fiend, incapable of human feelings, devoid of pity, arrogant and destructive.

Since capitalists are not slavering monsters, but constructive and productive human beings, labor bosses must distort, twist, engender fear and hate by lies, insinuations and appeals to mass hysteria.

But it is this precise modus operandi that produces tyranny with tyrants cut to size.

With this as background on the nature of tyrants, let us proceed to consider what we must do to fall victim to their schemes.

First, it is important to put aside our rational capacity and descend to pure emotion. In any kind of a reasonable intellectual contest, the tyrant will be bested. Facts are his worst enemy. He cannot afford to let them be voiced.

So, when facts are offered in rebuttal of his absurd and violent hatred, he has only a single recourse. He speaks louder. He shouts. He thumps the table. He harangues. He repeats his groundless charges endlessly, for by mere repetition he can whip some people into a frenzy of anxiety.

It makes no difference whether the facts refute him utterly; the more this appears likely, the louder he yells and screams.

Second, in order to welcome a tyrant, it is essential that we surrender to his plans FOR OUR BENEFIT. This is characteristic of any tyrant. He always has a plan FOR US.

Perseverance

Greatness is usually measured, not in the loftiness of the ideas, but in the perseverance against adversity, that all greatness runs in order to be great.

The Care and Feeding Of Tyrants—Part II

We are discussing the care and feeding of tyrants. Those who favor tyranny and look forward to some kind of surcease from woe by having a "strong man" possibly on a white horse, making all decisions for them, may find this a handy guide.

As we noted above, the second requirement in welcoming a tyrant as an overlord, is to welcome HIS plans for US. He always has such a plan. And here is a distinctive characteristic. He ALWAYS has a plan which will "benefit" YOU which will be paid for by SOME OTHER PERSON.

No tyrant can ever gain power if he reveals to you that YOU are going to be victimized. He must not tell you this, obviously. He must confuse you by first getting you to believe that he is your FRIEND, and that your real FRIEND is in fact an object of fear, scorn, hatred and ridicule.

Having convinced you, to some degree, that black is white and that white is black, then he offers himself as your CHAMPION. Trust in HIM and he will wreak vengeance against YOUR enemy, he tells you.

In doing so, of course, he will begin by stealing from everyone BUT you. Once you are firmly in his camp, then the cost of his campaign of vengeance will be carried by you. But this is revealed AFTER you have committed yourself to his tender care.

Thirdly, you must begin to flatter him. A tyrant will get tired of his job unless you convince him by much genuflection and open-eyed adoration that you are really pleased with him. Many people who want tyrants over them neglect this area.

In fact, this is a very upsetting thing for tyrants generally. That is one of the reasons they tend to place all their actions at a higher and higher emotional pitch. After a time, unless they do so, their followers tend to settle down into routine ways. No tyrant can endure that. He MUST keep you stirred up, frightened, filled with hate, and praising him for all he has done FOR you. If you forget to flatter him, presently you will be saying to him: "Yes, but what have you done for me LATELY?" This makes a tyrant nervous.

Fourthly and lastly, the tyrant must redefine freedom for you. He cannot endure freedom in any rational sense. For if you are really free, you will always be at liberty to tell him to take his hands out of your pockets and to pack his bags. The mere possibility of this happening is what makes all tyrants poor insurance risks.

So, while he gains his position of trust over you by telling you that your freedom is threatened by his object of fear and hate, he MUST re-define freedom to mean that he is free to do as he pleases FOR YOUR BENEFIT.

So, he will tell you that freedom is only possible for those who are willing to give up some of their freedom. To HIM. That is the important point.

And, if you have succumbed to his fear and his hatred and made them your own, it is entirely possible that you will agree with his definition for a time. Since you want to see an object of hate tortured, you will construe the torturing of the hate object as a kind of freedom.

But, after awhile you will get tired of it. The tyrant cannot permit this and he begins wondering about you. Perhaps you are disloyal. Possibly you don't really appreciate all he has done for you and is willing to do for you at your expense.

Then, one morning you awaken to discover that YOU have become the new target of hate for the tyrant. Since any tyrant is incapable of sticking with truth or fact, and since he must constantly whomp up emotion in his own behalf, it becomes necessary after a bit for him to point out that you are doing less than you should to make him happy. This can only be because you have gone over to the enemy.

The care and feeding of tyrants is not recommended for any rational person.

The Chicken and the Egg

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, Ph.D.

Hungry humans spend very little time wondering which came first, the chicken or the egg. Responsible humans find very little time in which they care to involve themselves with this argument. I am inclined to accept the fact that chickens and eggs exist, just as I accept the fact that socialism and crime exist. Socialism and crime exist NOW and certain obvious facts exist now.

Without a criminally inclined segment of the population, socialism would have no leadership and no customers. During the past two or three years more and more socialist bosses have started to face the fact that criminality is keeping pace with the growth of socialism and in some areas, criminality is making records of its own.

From 1950 to 1956 crime made very important progress in Yugoslavia. Property crimes, that is, crimes against property other than persons, increased by 82 per cent. Crimes against persons increased by 125 per cent. I do not have the figures on the increase in crime since 1956 but occasional information, usually obtained from foreign short-wave radio stations, indicates that the increase in crime has climbed rapidly during the last five years.

Scholars involved with a certain school of thought seem to believe the increase in crime is caused by have-nots suddenly discovering what they have not. There may be some truth to this. If a Peace Corps lad wanders off into the jungles, encounters a nakedly savage tribe and asks, "You mean to say you fellers don't have alarm clocks?" and starts his own alarm to ringing, the natives may or may not enjoy the sound. The important point is that the savages didn't know they were have-nots until a government owned and controlled employee gave them the word. Even then the savages were probably disinclined to start packing their "G" strings to go to Cape Town to steal an alarm clock. If government lures them away from their traditional homes, however, that's something else again and governments spend a great deal of time doing some plain and fancy luring.

While the have and have-not situation may increase the rate of crime, governments provide both the initial impulse and an illustration of how to do it. The have-not, watching government at work, just doesn't understand that an individual act of thievery is wrong while mass thievery by government stems from a humanitarian impulse of increasing the size and cost and power of government. This is one reason why naked savages are frequently considered to be ignorant, even after they don a little clothing.

Of course, we can also take a look at a civilized example. The mother of several small children whose father or fathers are always out when the case worker calls, may receive $300 or more on which she does not pay income tax. She may even be provided with a car with which to take the children to the dentist or doctor since dentists and doctors haven't started providing bus service yet. She may also be notified of available surplus foods and wind up with what might cost an earner $500 a month in gross wages, or more. The non-wage earner is the have and a good many earners become have-nots, by comparison. At this point, a few of the have-nots decide to bypass the middleman and steal directly from those who have more than they are able to buy. If a less civilized family moves into a large center of population and sees what's going on, a certain percentage remembers the "when in Rome" sophistry and behaves accordingly. It is to the everlasting credit of those who prefer to earn their way that they are able to retain the instincts of decent, self-respecting human beings under the circumstances.

Probably the chicken and the egg arguments will continue while some people earn their chickens and eggs and others stand around with their hands out. A good many will be willing accessories to government thievery and a few will try to steal directly from the earners, then there is you and me.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

Question Box

Question No. 221: 1. Do you know of any elected or appointed government official — president, congressman, governor, judge — who says that he votes for, signs, or proposes laws or bills, or who makes decisions which he thinks are wrong, unfair or dangerous to the welfare and safety of our country or people? Do you think any does?

2. If you were one of them, do you think you should vote and act the way you think is right, fair, and in the best interest of your country and the people who elected you, or do you think you should do just the opposite if some or more of those whom you represent asked you to?

3. Would you ask or suggest that a government leader do what he thinks is wrong or unfair in making laws and public decisions, if the things you would ask or suggest are what you think are right and fair?

4. Do you think people can know before election someone for whom they can vote who would do as they want in important public matters?

5. Concerning question No. 4, if elections were only a gamble, as many people seem to think, and not a true reflection of the voters, would the elections for the past 30 or more years be apt to have all gone in the same direction? I.e., would anyone expect or be apt to throw dice for 30 years and never win once if it was truly a gamble?

6. If it was true that politicians all are alike or become alike, would they be arguing and differing with each other, and voting different from each other, especially when it might cost them their jobs?

Answer: 1. We do not know of any official who takes such action. We have suspicions that some politicians compromise principles because they believe it is expedient to do so. One moderately "conservative" Democratic state senator commented to his editor that "some of us would like to be more conservative if we could get support."

2. In the first place, we would not seek a political office. If we were in office we would vote only for principle if we were the only one who believed we were right. We would not vote differently unless those we represented were able to persuade us that we were mistaken.

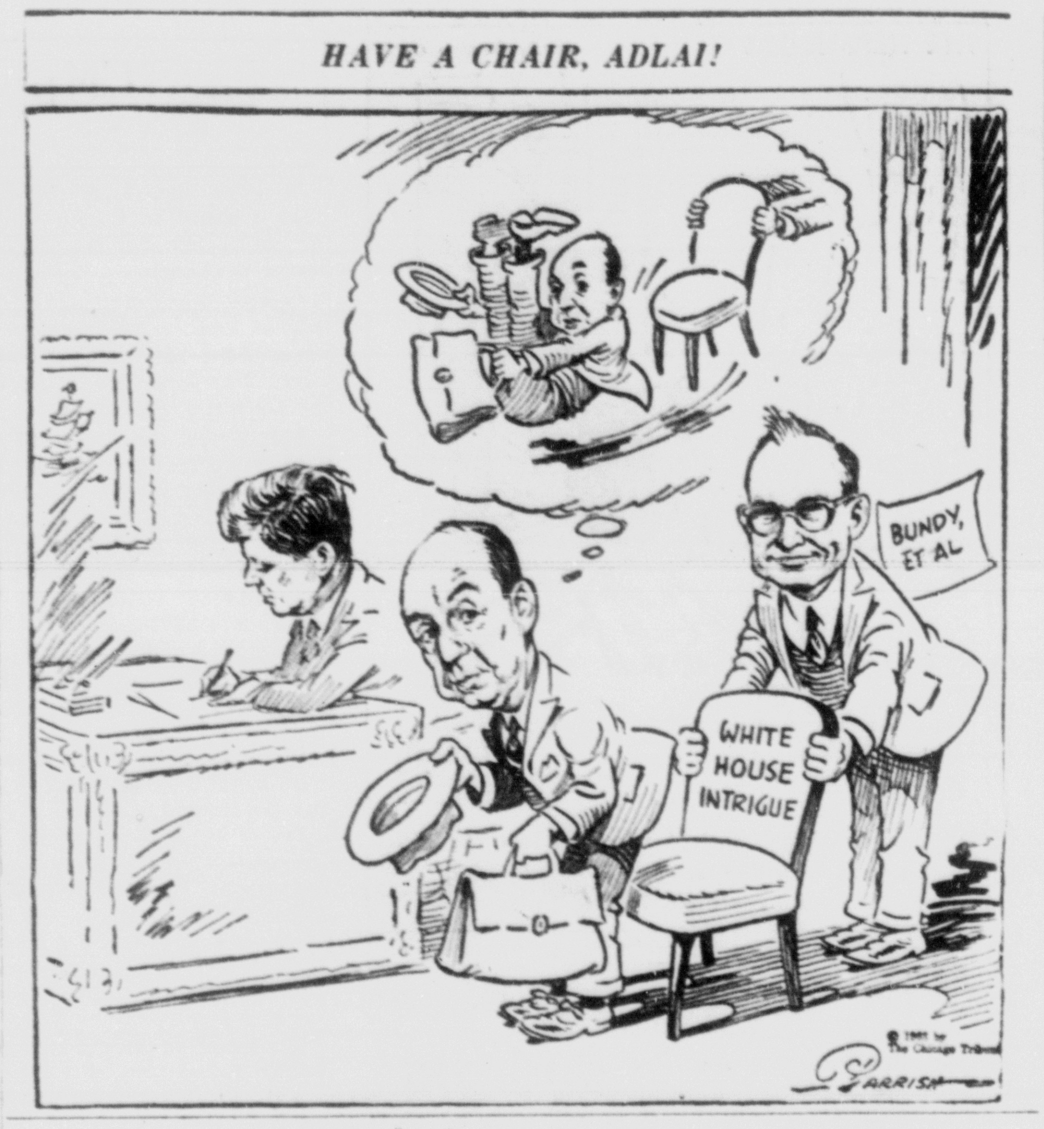
3. We would not ask any official or any person to do something he believes is wrong. We might attempt to persuade him that our views were correct, but we would not ask him to act against his own conscience.

4. We believe there are individuals who have demonstrated that they will vote the way they talk. Quite a number of men we consider radical collectivists vote the way they talk, and we have more respect for them than we do for officials who claim to be conservative and who vote for all the handouts.

5. If elections were a gamble, there would be some chance to win. But some people do gamble with little or no chance to win and some do lose everything they have.

6. If it is true that politicians are all alike, it is possible that they would be arguing and disagreeing "to put on a show." However, we do not believe any two individuals are alike. We believe most politicians vote either because they believe as they vote or because they believe they are voting as the majority of their constituents want them to.

Questions are limited to general human relations questions that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth.



HAVE A CHAIR, ADLAI!

A Vital Freedom Is in Jeopardy

By OSCAR COOLEY

The issue in the cold war between the United States and Soviet Russia is freedom. Shall the individual be free, as the American has been free since 1776, or shall he live under perpetual coercion as has the citizen of Russia since 1917?

Free to do what? Free, of course, to live in his own way. Free to decide what shall be his own purpose in life. Free to act. Free to speak.

All our freedoms have an economic base. Underpinning them are the freedoms to own property, to buy and sell, to save and invest, to choose an occupation, to enter into business, to migrate. Together, these spell freedom of opportunity. Even the freedom to speak, write and worship hinges upon these economic freedoms.

Let us look at each of these economic freedoms or rights in turn.

Most basic of all is the freedom to own property. Here the free world diverges sharply from the Communist world, which, taking its cue from Karl Marx, holds that property-owning is the root of all evil and should be abolished. This is the central tenet of socialism.

Altho Americans stand for private ownership, their freedom to own has been severely curtailed. For example, under "urban renewal," private properties are being seized by government bodies, paid for at prices dictated by the government as buyer, and resold to other private owners who are not then free to use the property in their own way but are under compulsion to "redevelop" it as the government directs. Thus the property right not only of the owner of land and buildings is infringed but also that of the taxpayer who is made to finance the operation.

The theory of urban renewal is that government officials know best how property should be used, and that they should be financed from the public purse to put their knowledge into practice. Thus, the theory goes, the people thru the political machinery should choose officials who then should be empowered to manage property, denying this right of management to those who own it (and who in most cases have sacrificed to obtain it).

This is precisely what is done with substantially all the property in the Communist world. State ownership and control are substituted for private ownership and control. This is what Marx preached. We appear to be adopting the fundamental tenet of the enemy. . . .

Why has the West stood for private ownership? It is not just a sentiment; there are profound reasons for it.

Plato opposed private ownership, but his pupil, Aristotle, held that people needed the right to own property to give them incentive to produce, knowing that what they produced would be their own to do with as they will. In short, property is opportunity.

Man, empty-handed, can achieve little. Even the author needs his typewriter. Everybody needs land and capital, which means he requires a place (land) on which to stand and tools (capital) to wield. To use these things effectively to produce wealth, he must exercise control over them. Ownership confers control.

The pioneer American sought first to establish himself on a piece of land which he could call his own. This simply meant to him that he could do with it as he would. Often the first thing he did was to plant corn. While the corn grew he built a log cabin. Thus he produced the essentials for living, food and shelter. And no one could rightfully take them away, because he owned them and owned the land on which they were produced.

Ownership means society's recognition of the individual's title, or exclusive right, to his possessions. I own my house because the people around me admit and recognize my right to own my house. And, I, in turn, recognize the right of each of them to own his property.

They could — they are numerous and strong enough — take away my house, but they do not do so primarily because THEY want to continue to own THEIR property. They want me to leave them free to own, and so they respect my freedom to own. This might be termed the Golden Rule of property relations.

Indeed, the Golden Rule — do unto others as you would have them do unto you — applies to all freedoms. We refrain from interfering with the freedom of others because we want to be free and not interfered with. Thus, freedom depends on the mutual respect and regard that people have for one another.

If we of the West would defend freedom, we will begin with this more basic of all freedoms, that of owning and controlling property. We will avoid public policies that tamper with private property and adopt those which encourage people to own and exploit property to their fullest ability.

The American Way

How to Get Ahead

By HARRY BROWNE

Modern education apparently dwells more on "life adjustment" than on the three R's. With this in mind, the schools should be interested in a new course entitled, "How to Get Ahead in Life."

Its purpose is to show the child how to progress within our free enterprise system. Despite the many invasions of private property and curtailments of free choice, we still have — basically — a free enterprise system.

It would seem, then, to be the school's duty to equip the child with the basic understanding required to be a success in this system. The child should be taught the fundamental rule that underlies all individual success within our system:

KEY TO SUCCESS

That rule is: Your success in life depends directly upon the amount of service you give to others.

In the free enterprise system, a man must provide a product or service that others need or desire. If he wants to progress, he must be productive — and that production must be in areas desired by others. Otherwise, his only hope for existence is to live as a hermit.

This lesson applies whether you are a store clerk, steel tycoon, car mechanic, writer, doctor, salesman, production worker, architect, telephone repairman or anything else.

REWARD

The rule is simple: the more service you provide, the greater your personal reward will be. Obviously, you can't command a bigger salary by doing something nobody wants. On the other hand, the more you satisfy the needs and wants of your community, the more in demand you'll be. This applies whether you own your own company or work for someone else.

Socialists always cry that they want "production for use instead of for profit." Strangely, they can not see the obvious: production for profit is production for use. You can't make a profit unless you provide things people can use.

The free enterprise system has created more good things for more people than any "ism" in history. This is because each man is the master of his own fate—each controls his own property. That means each decides for himself what he will do with that property — what it will be exchanged for.

So anyone who wants some of that property must produce a product or service that satisfies the owner's desires. Only then can the exchange be made.

NO SERVICE

In the various types of socialist systems, however, it is the state that makes such decisions. The government decides what you need or can have. So people do not serve each other — they serve the state.

If these facts could be brought out to our school children — and they certainly aren't hard to understand — think how much more productive future generations might be.

Admittedly, they might serve to prejudice the child on behalf of the free enterprise system — so we can't be too hopeful that these ideas will be taught.

But what's to stop you from passing these simple truths on to your own children?

Allen-Scott Report

'Fixation' On Cuba Worries JFK

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy is very annoyed at the country's "fixation" on Cuba.

And he is passing up no chances to let White House callers know about his vexation, whether they are newspaper editors, members of Congress, or visiting politicians.

In these private talks, the President stresses, "There are far more dangerous situations facing the U.S. in a number of other Latin American nations." Usually he singles out Brazil and Argentina as being more explosive than Cuba.

"This country's fixation on Cuba disturbs me," the President complained to one group. "We can liquidate Castro at any time but if we did a lot of innocent people in Cuba would get hurt. Military action is not the answer."

Most significantly, the President tells his callers that, "As long as I am president, it will be our policy to balance the risk of military action in Cuba with what the Communists might do in other areas of the world if we used force there."

When the nagging question of setting up an anti-Castro government-in-exile is brought up, as usually happens, the President is emphatic in his opposition.

"Experience shows that these governments in exile never return home," he argues, "and their leaders neither represent nor enjoy the support of the people who remained."

The President's most unexpected declaration is on the issue of invading Cuba.

"I have never favored an invasion of Cuba by U.S. troops since I became president," he says, "nor did former President Eisenhower."

Nothing further is said about this startling claim. The President adds no details to support it, and so far none of his hearers are known to have asked him to clarify it.

TALLYING THE SCORE

In comparing U.S. and Soviet victories in the long and tortuous cold war, the President vigorously argues that, "with the exception of Cuba, Russia has made no noticeable gains in the past two years."

Looking ahead, he foresees an aggressive and reckless Communist China becoming "a major danger to U.S. security during my term of office."

The President warns that "the Chinese Communists could become more dangerous than Russia, because they are willing to accept major risks of a nuclear war in pushing their objectives." The President believes Peiping's development of nuclear weapons in the not-distant future will increase Chinese prestige in the Asian subcontinent from India to South Vietnam.

ANOTHER CHOICE

Secretary of State Rusk, in his private briefings on Cuba, appears at times to be basing his comments on information that is quite different from that expounded by the President.

Answering questions from one group, Rusk admitted that Russia is rotating its troops in Cuba. This was revealed in this column on March 20, but was denied by the White House.

"Altho we believe there are fewer troops coming in now than are going out," said Rusk, "our evidence shows the Russians are rotating their forces in Cuba."

As for the number still there, Rusk frankly acknowledged that the administration is uncertain—altho at the very same time the President was insisting the total was around 12,000.

"We don't know the exact number of Russians in Cuba," Rusk told his callers. Then, noticing several members of Congress, he added: "If any of you gentlemen know how many troops there are, we would like to have your information."

MAKING A POINT

State Department callers are evincing particular interest in Rusk's views regarding the prolonged negotiations on a nuclear test ban.

While denying that any U. S. official has ever told Khrushchev that "two or three inspections" would be acceptable, Rusk explains, "There could have been an honest misunderstanding on this critical point." But he carefully avoids shedding any further light on this highly important point.

However, Rusk almost always solemnly explains to his visitors that "the quality and not the number of on-site inspections is what is important."

In discussing Khrushchev's status in the Kremlin hierarchy, Rusk warns, "There is no basis to assume that his position is weaker now than a year ago" despite the repeated reports that the Soviet premier is losing power.

"There are just too many unknown facts in Moscow for anyone to do any accurate forecasting on Khrushchev, or who his eventual successor will be," Rusk points out.

FOREIGN FLASHES

Assistant Secretary of State Edwin Martin favors cracking down on labor unions that refuse to handle foreign ships carrying cargoes to Cuba. He claims the maritime unions' boycott is not effective. That is hotly disputed by the unions and the administration's own intelligence reports. . . G. Mennen Williams, assistant secretary of state for African affairs, reports that West Germany's program of bringing African leaders to West Berlin to show them the "Wall" is paying off big. Upon returning home, the Africans usually denounce both Russia and local Communists.

RIGHT OF CENTER

To the Editor:

CLOSE TO TREES

To the Editor:

There is such a big difference between the policies of the American government and Americanism, but being so close to the trees we fail to see the forest.

Countries seldom are destroyed from the outside, at least until after they have rotted away inside. We have been so busy building a government which will do everything for everybody that it has gotten to be such a burden it is crushing us.

The dream of the vine-covered cottage with the white picket fence was so taxed it became "the slums." Higher taxes to replace the slums with public housing will put us all in the government barracks.

When Americanism prevailed, and the government promoted the general welfare, we rose from a wilderness, from the 13 underdeveloped colonies into the world's greatest, most advanced and wonderful nation. But the NEW (Deal, Frontier, etc.) began to provide the welfare and at the rate it is growing we'll all be on relief before the Soviet attain their goal of plenty. Under Americanism each American had rights; under present government

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule, the Ten Commandments and the Declaration of Independence.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

The Care and Feeding Of Tyrants—Part I

Tyranny rests upon hate.

There is no other way for a tyrant to gain power than to take his self-appointed position in a society or a government as the principal exponent of hatred in a given direction.

All tyrannies came into existence because of hate.

But all hate rests on fear. The tryant is merely a skillful political manipulator who capitalizes on a fear, causes it to expand, and then organizes a hate movement against the object of fear.

Let us take the tyranny of Adolph Hitler as an example. The Jews provided Hitler with a target. Jewish people are generally above average in productibility. In consequence, they are frequently highly competitive. As such, some people fear them.

Hitler capitalized on that fear. He assured his constituents that their fears were well grounded, and hence they could afford to hate. He led in hatred and built his regime on these popular shibboleths.

The same pattern is as old as government altho the target does not have to be a particular race, creed, nation or system of belief. It can be anything.

Ever since Karl Marx, one of the principal targets of hate and fear has been the capitalist. Marx feared and hated capitalists and the very idea of capitalism.

But it is always difficult for a tyrant to engender large-scale fear against an idea. People who can be swayed emotionally, rarely respond to hatred engendered against an abstraction. They require a fixed target, a person, a firm, a corporation.

The Marxian revolution has been most successful when it engendered hatred against some particular capitalist.

[illegible] have been a prime mover in engendering hatred against particular named capitalists. It has always been a policy of labor bosses, ever since the days of the Industrial Revolution, to paint capitalists in frightful colors and to call down damnation upon them.

The more successful a capitalist is, the more universally do the labor bosses attack.

Quite naturally, since labor bosses specialize in hatred and destruction, they do their best to present any capitalist as a drooling fiend, incapable of human feelings, devoid of pity, arrogant and destructive.

Since capitalists are not slavering monsters, but constructive and productive human beings, labor bosses must distort, twist, engender fear and hate by lies, insinuations and appeals to mass hysteria.

But it is this precise modus operandi that produces tyranny with tyrants cut to size.

With this as background on the nature of tyrants, let us proceed to consider what we must do to fall victim to their schemes.

First, it is important to put aside our rational capacity and descend to pure emotion. In any kind of a reasonable intellectual contest, the tyrant will be bested. Facts are his worst enemy. He cannot afford to let them be voiced.

So, when facts are offered in rebuttal of his absurd and violent hatred, he has only a single recourse. He speaks louder. He shouts. He thumps the table. He harangues. He repeats his groundless charges endlessly, for by mere repetition he can whip some people into a frenzy of anxiety.

It makes no difference whether the facts refute him utterly; the more this appears likely, the louder he yells and screams.

Second, in order to welcome a tyrant, it is essential that we surrender to his plans FOR OUR BENEFIT. This is characteristic of any tyrant. He always has a plan FOR US.

Perseverance

Greatness is usually measured, not in the loftiness of the ideas, but in the perseverance against adversity, that all greatness runs in order to be great.

The Care and Feeding Of Tyrants—Part II

We are discussing the care and feeding of tyrants. Those who favor tyranny and look forward to some kind of surcease from woe by having a "strong man" possibly on a white horse, making all decisions for them, may find this a handy guide.

As we noted above, the second requirement in welcoming a tyrant as an overlord, is to welcome HIS plans for US. He always has such a plan. And here is a distinctive characteristic. He ALWAYS has a plan which will "benefit" YOU which will be paid for by SOME OTHER PERSON.

No tyrant can ever gain power if he reveals to you that YOU are going to be victimized. He must not tell you this, obviously. He must confuse you by first getting you to believe that he is your FRIEND, and that your real FRIEND is in fact an object of fear, scorn, hatred and ridicule.

Having convinced you, to some degree, that black is white and that white is black, then he offers himself as your CHAMPION. Trust in HIM and he will wreak vengeance against YOUR enemy, he tells you.

In doing so, of course, he will begin by stealing from everyone BUT you. Once you are firmly in his camp, then the cost of his campaign of vengeance will be carried by you. But this is revealed AFTER you have committed yourself to his tender care.

[illegible] you must begin to flatter him. A tyrant will get tired of [illegible] you convince him [illegible] that you are real[illegible] with him. Many people [illegible] tyrants over them [illegible] for all he has done FOR you. If you forget to flatter him, presently you will be saying to him: "Yes, but what have you done for me LATELY?" This makes a tyrant nervous.

In fact, this is a very upsetting thing for tyrants generally. [illegible] is one of the reasons they [illegible] all their actions at [illegible] higher emotional [illegible] when they [illegible]

Fourthly and lastly, the tyrant must redefine freedom for you. He cannot endure freedom in any rational sense. For if you are really free, you will always be at liberty to tell him to take his hands out of your pockets and to pack his bags. The mere possibility of this happening is what makes all tyrants poor insurance risks.

So, while he gains his position of trust over you by telling you that your freedom is threatened by his object of fear and hate, he MUST re-define freedom to mean that he is free to do as he pleases FOR YOUR BENEFIT.

So, he will tell you that freedom is only possible for those who are willing to give up some of their freedom. To HIM. That is the important point.

And, if you have succumbed to his fear and his hatred and made them your own, it is entirely possible that you will agree with his definition for a time. Since you want to see an object of hate tortured, you will construe the torturing of the hate object as a kind of freedom.

But, after awhile you will get tired of it. The tyrant cannot permit this and he begins wondering about you. Perhaps you are disloyal. Possibly you don't really appreciate all he has done for you and is willing to do for you at your expense.

Then, one morning you awaken to discover that YOU have become the new target of hate for the tyrant. Since any tyrant is incapable of sticking with truth or fact, and since he must constantly whoop up emotion in his own behalf, it becomes necessary after a bit for him to point out that you are doing less than you should to make him happy. This can only be because you have gone over to the enemy.

The care and feeding of tyrants is not recommended for any rational person.

The Chicken and the Egg

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, Ph.D.

Hungry humans spend very little time wondering which came first, the chicken or the egg. Responsible humans find very little time in which they care to involve themselves with this argument. I am inclined to accept the fact that chickens and eggs exist, just as I accept the fact that socialism and crime exist. Socialism and crime exist NOW and certain obvious facts exist now.

Without a criminally inclined segment of the population, socialism would have no leadership and no customers. During the past two or three years more and more socialist bosses have started to face the fact that criminality is keeping pace with the growth of socialism and in some areas, criminality is making records of its own.

From 1950 to 1956 crime made very important progress in Yugoslavia. Property crimes, that is, crimes against property other than persons, increased by 82 per cent. Crimes against persons increased by 125 per cent. I do not have the figures on the increase in crime since 1956 but occasional information, usually obtained from foreign short-wave radio stations, indicates that the increase in crime has climbed rapidly during the last five years.

Scholars involved with a certain school of thought seem to believe the increase in crime is caused by have-nots suddenly discovering what they have not. There may be some truth to this. If a Peace Corps lad wanders off into the jungles, encounters a nakedly savage tribe and asks, "You mean to say you fellers don't have alarm clocks?" and starts his own alarm to ringing, the natives may or may not enjoy the sound. The important point is that the savages didn't know they were have-nots until a government owned and controlled employee gave them the word. Even then the savages were probably disinclined to start packing their "G" strings to go to Cape Town to steal an alarm clock. If government lures them away from their traditional homes, however, that's something else again and governments spend a great deal of time doing some plain and fancy luring.

While the have and have-not situation may increase the rate of crime, governments provide both the initial impulse and an illustration of how to do it. The have-not, watching government at work, just doesn't understand that an individual act of thievery is wrong while mass thievery by government stems from a humanitarian impulse of increasing the size and cost and power of government. This is one reason why naked savages are frequently considered to be ignorant, even after they don a little clothing.

Of course, we can also take a look at a civilized example. The mother of several small children whose father or fathers are always out when the case worker calls, may receive $300 or more on which she does not pay income tax. She may even be provided with a car with which to take the children to the dentist or doctor since dentists and doctors haven't started providing bus service yet. She may also be notified of available surplus foods and wind up with what might cost an earner $500 a month in gross wages, or more. The non-wage earner is the have and a good many earners become have-nots, by comparison. At this point, a few of the have-nots decide to bypass the middleman and steal directly from those who have more than they are able to buy. If a less civilized family moves into a large center of population and sees what's going on, a certain percentage remembers the "when in Rome" sophistry and behaves accordingly. It is to the everlasting credit of those who prefer to earn their way that they are able to retain the instincts of decent, self-respecting human beings under the circumstances.

Probably the chicken and the egg arguments will continue while some people earn their chickens and eggs and others stand around with their hands out. A good many will be willing accessories to government thievery and a few will try to steal directly from the earners, then there is you and me.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

Question Box

Question No. 221: 1. Do you know of any elected or appointed government official — president, congressman, governor, judge — who says that he votes for, signs, or proposes laws or bills or who makes decisions which he thinks are wrong, unfair or dangerous to the welfare and safety of our country or people? Do you think any does?

2. If you were one of them, do you think you should vote and act the way you think is right, fair, and in the best interest of your country and the people who elected you, or do you think you should do just the opposite if some or more of those whom you represent asked you to?

3. Would you ask or suggest that a government leader do what he thinks is wrong or unfair in making laws and public decisions, if the things you would ask or suggest are what you think are right and fair?

4. Do you think people can know before election someone for whom they can vote who would do as they want in important public matters?

5. Concerning question No. 4, if elections were only a gamble, as many people seem to think, and not a true reflection of the voters, would the elections for the past 30 or more years be apt to have all gone in the same direction? I.e., would anyone expect or be apt to throw dice for 30 years and never win once if it was truly a gamble?

6. If it was true that politicians all are alike or become alike, would they be arguing and differing with each other, and voting different from each other, especially when it might cost them their jobs?

Answer: 1. We do not know of any official who takes such action. We have suspicions that some politicians compromise principles because they believe it is expedient to do so. One moderately "conservative" Democratic state senator commented to his editor that "some of us would like to be more conservative if we could get support."

2. In the first place, we would not seek a political office. If we were in office we would vote only for principle if we were the only one who believed we were right. We would not vote differently unless those we represented were able to persuade us that we were mistaken.

3. We would not ask any official or any person to do something he believes is wrong. We might attempt to persuade him that our views were correct, but we would not ask him to act against his own conscience.

4. We believe there are individuals who have demonstrated that they will vote the way they talk. Quite a number of men we consider radical collectivists vote the way they talk, and we have more respect for them than we do for officials who claim to be conservative and who vote for all the handouts.

5. If elections were a gamble, there would be some chance to win. But some people do gamble with little or no chance to win and some do lose everything they have.

6. If it is true that politicians are all alike, it is possible that they would be arguing and disagreeing "to put on a show." However, we do not believe any two individuals are alike. We believe most politicians vote either because they believe as they vote or because they believe they are voting as the majority of their constituents want them to.

Questions are limited to general human relations questions that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth.

HAVE A CHAIR, ADLAI!

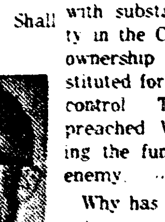
By OSCAR COOLEY



The issue in the cold war between the United States and Soviet Russia is freedom. Shall the individual be free, as the American has been free since 1776, or shall he live under perpetual coercion as has the citizen of Russia since 1917?

Free to do what? Free, of course, to live in his own way. Free to decide what shall be his own purpose in life. Free to act. Free to speak.

All our freedoms have an economic base. Underpinning them are the freedoms to own property, to buy and sell, to save and invest, to choose an occupation, to enter into business, to migrate. Together, these spell freedom of opportunity. Even the freedom to speak, write and worship hinges upon these economic freedoms.

Let us look at each of these economic freedoms or rights in turn.

Most basic of all is the freedom to own property. Here the free world diverges sharply from the Communist world, which, taking its cue from Karl Marx, holds that property-owning is the root of all evil and should be abolished. This is the central tenet of socialism.

Altho Americans stand for private ownership, their freedom to own has been severely curtailed. For example, under "urban renewal," private properties are being seized by government bodies, paid for at prices dictated by the government as buyer, and resold to other private owners who are not then free to use the property in their own way but are under compulsion to "redevelop" it as the government directs. Thus the property right not only of the owner of land and buildings is infringed but also that of the taxpayer who is made to finance the operation.

The theory of urban renewal is that government officials know best how property should be used, and that they should be financed from the public purse to put their knowledge into practice. Thus, the theory goes, the people thru the political machinery should choose officials who then should be empowered to manage property, denying this right of management to those who own it (and who in most cases have sacrificed to obtain it).

This is precisely what is done with substantially all the property in the Communist world. State ownership and control are substituted for private ownership and control. This is what Marx preached. We appear to be adopting the fundamental tenet of the enemy.

Why has the West stood for private ownership? It is not just a sentiment; there are profound reasons for it.

Plato opposed private ownership, but his pupil, Aristotle, held that people needed the right to own property to give them incentive to produce, knowing that what they produced would be their own to do with as they will. In short, property is opportunity.

Man, empty-handed, can achieve little. Even the author needs his typewriter. Everybody needs land and capital, which means he requires a place (land) on which to stand and tools (capital) to wield. To use these things effectively to produce wealth, he must exercise control over them. Ownership confers control.

The pioneer American sought first to establish himself on a piece of land which he could call his own. This simply meant to him that he could do with it as he would. Often the first thing he did was to plant corn. While the corn grew he built a log cabin. Thus he produced the essentials for living, food and shelter. And no one could rightfully take them away, because he owned them and owned the land on which they were produced.

Ownership means society's recognition of the individual's title, or exclusive right, to his possessions. I own my house because the people around me admit and recognize my right to own my house. And, I, in turn, recognize the right of each of them to own his property.

They could — they are numerous and strong enough — take away my house, but they do not do so primarily because THEY want to continue to own THEIR property. They want me to leave them free to own, and so they respect my freedom to own. This might be termed the Golden Rule of property relations.

Indeed, the Golden Rule — do unto others as you would have them do unto you — applies to all freedoms. We refrain from interfering with the freedom of others because we want to be free and not interfered with. Thus, freedom depends on the mutual respect and regard that people have for one another.

If we of the West would defend freedom, we will begin with this more basic of all freedoms, that of owning and controlling property. We will avoid public policies that tamper with private property and adopt those which encourage people to own and exploit property to their fullest ability.

The American Way

How to Get Ahead

By HARRY BROWNE

Modern education apparently dwells more on "life adjustment" than on the three R's. With this in mind, the schools should be interested in a new course entitled, "How to Get Ahead in Life."

Its purpose is to show the child how to progress within our free enterprise system. Despite the many invasions of private property and curtailments of free choice, we still have — basically — a free enterprise system.

It would seem, then, to be the school's duty to equip the child with the basic understanding required to be a success in this system. The child should be taught the fundamental rule that underlies all individual success within our system:

KEY TO SUCCESS

That rule is: Your success in life depends directly upon the amount of service you give to others.

In the free enterprise system, a man must provide a product or service that others need or desire. If he wants to progress, he must be productive — and that production must be in areas desired by others. Otherwise, his only hope for existence is to live as a hermit.

This lesson applies whether you are a store clerk, steel tycoon, car mechanic, writer, doctor, salesman, production worker, architect, telephone repairman or anything else.

REWARD

The rule is simple: the more service you provide, the greater your personal reward will be. Obviously, you can't command a bigger salary by doing something nobody wants. On the other hand, the more you satisfy the needs and wants of your community, the more in demand you'll be. This applies whether you own your own company or work for someone else.

Socialists always cry that they want "production for use" instead of for profit. Strangely they cannot see the obvious: production for profit is production for use. You can't make a profit unless you provide things people can use.

The free enterprise system has created more [illegible] more people than any "ism" in history. This is because each man is the master of his own fate— each controls his own property. That means each decides for himself what he will do with that property — what it will be exchanged for.

So anyone who wants some of that property must produce a product or service that satisfies the owner's desires. Only then can the exchange be made.

NO SERVICE

In the various types of socialist systems, however, it is the state that makes such decisions. The government decides what you need or can have. So people do not serve each other — they serve the state.

If these facts could be brought out to our school children — and they certainly aren't hard to understand — think how much more productive future generations might be.

Admittedly, they might serve to prejudice the child on behalf of the free enterprise system — so we can't be too hopeful that these ideas will be taught.

But what's to stop you from passing these simple truths on to your own children?

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy is very annoyed at the country's "fixation" on Cuba.

And he is passing up no chances to let White House callers know about his vexation, whether they are newspaper editors, members of Congress, or visiting politicians.

In these private talks, the President stresses, "There are far more dangerous situations facing the U.S. in a number of other Latin American nations." Usually he singles out Brazil and Argentina as being more explosive than Cuba.

"This country's fixation on Cuba disturbs me," the President complained to one group. "We can liquidate Castro at any time but if we did a lot of innocent people in Cuba would get hurt. Military action is not the answer."

Most significantly, the President tells his callers that, "As long as I am president, it will be our policy to balance the risk of military action in Cuba with what the Communists might do in other areas of the world if we used force there."

When the nagging question of setting up an anti-Castro government-in-exile is brought up, as usually happens, the President is emphatic in his opposition.

"Experience shows that these governments in exile never return home," he argues, "and their leaders neither represent nor enjoy the support of the people who remained."

The President's most unexpected declaration is on the issue of invading Cuba.

"I have never favored an invasion of Cuba by U.S. troops since I became president," he says, "nor did former President Eisenhower."

Nothing further is said about this startling claim. The President adds no details to support it, and so far none of his hearers are known to have asked him to clarify it.

TALLYING THE SCORE

In comparing U.S. and Soviet victories in the long and tortuous cold war, the President vigorously argues that, "with the exception of Cuba, Russia has made no noticeable gains in the past two years."

Looking ahead, he foresees an aggressive and reckless Communist China becoming "a major danger to U.S. security during my term of office."

The President warns that "the Chinese Communists could become more dangerous than Russia, because they are willing to accept major risks of a nuclear war in pushing their objectives." The President believes Peiping's development of nuclear weapons in the not-distant future will increase Chinese prestige in the Asian subcontinent from India to South Vietnam.

ANOTHER CHOICE

Secretary of State Rusk, in his private briefings on Cuba, appears at times to be basing his comments on information that is quite different from that expounded by the President.

Answering questions from one group, Rusk admitted that Russia is rotating its troops in Cuba. This was revealed in this column on March 20, but was denied by the White House.

"Altho we believe there are fewer troops coming in now than are going out," said Rusk, "our evidence shows the Russians are rotating their forces in Cuba."

As for the number still there, Rusk frankly acknowledged that the administration is uncertain— altho at the very same time the President was insisting the total was around 12,000.

"We don't know the exact number of Russians in Cuba," Rusk told his callers. Then, noticing several members of Congress, he added: "If any of you gentlemen know how many troops there are, we would like to have your information."

MAKING A POINT

State Department callers are evincing particular interest in Rusk's views regarding the prolonged negotiations on a nuclear test ban.

While denying that any U. S. official has ever told Khrushchev that "two or three inspections" would be acceptable, Rusk explains, "There could have been an honest misunderstanding on this critical point." But he carefully avoids shedding any further light on this highly important point.

However, Rusk almost always solemnly explains to his visitors that "the quality and not the number of on-site inspections is what is important."

In discussing Khrushchev's status in the Kremlin hierarchy, Rusk warns, "There is no basis to assume that his position is weaker now than a year ago" despite the repeated reports that the Soviet premier is losing power.

"There are just too many unknown facts in Moscow for anyone to do any accurate forecasting on Khrushchev, or who his eventual successor will be," Rusk points out.

FOREIGN FLASHES

Assistant Secretary of State Edwin Martin favors cracking down on labor unions that refuse to handle foreign ships carrying cargoes to Cuba. He claims the maritime unions' boycott is not effective. That is hotly disputed by the unions and the administration's own intelligence reports. . . G. Mennen Williams, assistant secretary of state for African affairs, reports that West Germany's program of bringing African leaders to West Berlin to show them the "Wall" is paying off big. Upon returning home, the Africans usually denounce both Russia and local Communists.

RIGHT OF CENTER

To the Editor:

CLOSE TO TREES

To the Editor:

There is such a big difference between the policies of the American government and Americanism, but being so close to the trees we fail to see the forest.

Countries seldom are destroyed from the outside, at least until after they have rotted away inside. We have been so busy building a government which will do everything for everybody that it has gotten to be such a burden it is crushing us.

The dream of the vine-covered cottage with the white picket fence was so taxed it became "the slums." Higher taxes to replace the slums with public housing will put us all in the government barracks.

When Americanism prevailed, and the government promoted the general welfare, we rose from a wilderness, from the 13 undeveloped colonies into the world's greatest most advanced and wonderful nation. But the NEW Deal Frontier etc. began to provide the welfare and at the rate it is growing we'll all be on relief before the Soviet attain their goal of [illegible]. Under Americanism each American had [illegible] under [illegible] government policies everyone is entitled to certain government benefits and services.

American free enterprise built this nation's wealth, but private enterprise regulated and controlled but not free is today throwing us out of kilter and stunting our growth. When rewards can be gained by not growing, not working, not building, the people will stop working, the nation will stop growing and we will stop building an ever better America.

We separated ourselves from the rest of the world, were proud to be Americans and made the world proud of us, but today we associate with the worst powers, we have lost our pride and our humility and the world is no longer proud of us, only beholden to us for handouts.

"Give me liberty or give me death!" An American said that. Today the government people seem to be saying "If you cannot give me liberty don't give me death either!"

Government policies may defeat the nation, render its people helpless and impoverished, even destroy the government itself, but Americanism will survive. For Americanism came down from on High. . ."We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness." This was the birth certificate of Americanism and it shall endure forever. That few if any Americans have ever been able to claim and embrace all that their birthright entitles them is a fact of history, but those who have looked toward Him who created them and gave them their birthright for guidance have brought America closer to heaven on earth than ever happened elsewhere. There is no time to stop looking towards the "protection of Divine Providence," no time to look towards government nor governments, for the solution to our problems, for the way towards the goal which the founding fathers sought. sought.

WAR ON RIGHTS

To the Editor:

"The republican is the only form of government which is not at open or secret war with the rights of mankind." — Jefferson

The current administration has deemed itself sufficiently strong to declare open warfare against the rights of mankind and the best interests of the American people. The administration bases its strength on several main things. First and foremost is the polling power of the big, regimented unions. Their support is purchased by the power of the administration to decide the outcome of all strikes in their favor and to guarantee their members a living without working if they so desire.

Second comes the communists and a host of other authoritarian groups who besiege the administration incessantly for more controls and handouts. The "urban renewal" program was designed to enrich certain of these greedy minority groups at the expense of other citizens and their posterity.

Thirdly is the immense power derived from the treaty-making authority gratuitously bestowed upon the Executive by the Supreme Court in defiance of the constitutional amendments.

Fourth is the fact that the administration knows that the bench of the Supreme Court is warming a motley crew of political appointees whose desire is to say "yes" to every usurpatory move of the administration.

Recently, the administration sought to bring our powerful medical profession under its custody thru the proposed scheme, "Medicare." That would also have regimented the elderly people as a group.

Currently, the administration is seeking to further its baneful control over agriculture, the largest business on earth. They have forced farmers to submit their rights reserved under Article IX of the Constitution to a kangaroo referendum wherein the votes of a few huge farming syndicates can forever repeal the rights of every person to produce, buy, and sell certain commodities. Fiefs and titles thereto are granted by law to the syndicates and farmers they choose to favor. The latest version of the kangaroo referendum provides for selling the small producer a license to vote therein in exchange for his pledge to submit himself to the controls should the outcome favor the boss. The umpire proposed this referendum, he will referee it, and he alone will count the votes. (Incidentally, how do they do it in Russia?)

"Confidence is everywhere the parent of despotism," said Jefferson; but now that we have the sublime words of Karl Marx, who listens to Jefferson?

OPPENHEIMER

To the Editor:

The granting of the Fermi prize to Dr. Robert Oppenheimer gives luster to his name in the eyes of many; but I wonder if they realize how dark a background the man had.

The executive director of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy was for a time William Liscum Border. He was concerned with the Oppenheimer case over a period of years. His conclusion was based on "years of study, of the available classified evidence, that more probably than not, J. Robert Oppenheimer is an agent of the Soviet Union." Over a period of time he contributed "substantial monthly sums to the Communist Party; (b) his ties with communism had survived the Nazi-Soviet pact and the Soviet attack upon Finland; (c) his wife and younger brother were Communists; (d) he had no close friends except Communists; (e) he had at least one communist mistress; (f) he belonged only to Communist organizations, a part from professional affiliations; (g) the people whom he recruited into the early wartime Berkeley atomic project were exclusively Communists; (h) he had been instrumental in securing recruits for the Communist Party; and (i) he was in frequent contact with Soviet espionage agents." At one time he "repeatedly gave false information to General Grove, the Manhattan District, and the FBI concerning the 1939-April 1942 period." This and more is found in the United States Atomic Energy Commission, in the matter of J. Robert Oppenheimer, Government Printing Office, 1954, pp. 837-838.

Oppenheimer under oath said that he had "falsified and fabricated" to Col. Pash. He also said: "Now when you ask for a more persuasive argument as to why I did this than that I was an idiot, I am going to have more trouble being understandable" (p. 888). Do you think that this famous scientist gave a correct evaluation of his fabrication?

Fortunately he was not a member of the John Birch Society, so there is little to stand in the way of his being "rehabilitated" by certain "liberals."

U.S. Ship May Be Critical for Astronaut Cooper

TOKYO (AP)—If all goes well, an encouraging word radioed from the U.S. ship Coastal Sentry will be the last thing astronaut Leroy Gordon Cooper hears before he begins the crucial re-entry phase of his space flight.

If things don't go as planned—if he is incapacitated during his attempt at an American space record—the Coastal Sentry could mean the difference bewteen life and death for Cooper.

The Coastal Sentry, now moored in Nagasaki Bay is to steam into the Pacific Saturday and take position 300 miles off Kyushu Island to monitor and possibly control TCooper's re-entry.

Cooper, 36, an Air Force major, is scheduled to lift off from Cape Canaveral, Fla., next Tuesday and orbit the earth 34 hours before landing in the center of an armada of ships in the Pacific off Midway.

The 22-orbit flight, the longest by an American, has as one of its primary objectives a close study of how well an astronaut can function during prolonged periods of weightlessness.

Coastal Sentry scientists led by America's first world-orbiting astronaut, John H. Glenn Jr., will form the last link in a chain of tracking stations positioned around the world to monitor Cooper's flight and to report back to Cape Canaveral.

If Cooper is unable to fire his spaceship's retro-rockets and slow it for re-entry, Glenn will fire them electronically from his ship control position in an attempt to guide the craft down through the earh's atmosphere.

Glenn will have the advice of two space physicians and electronic experts.

While within range of the Coastal Sentry, Cooper will be watched by Glenn's team on television. This will be the first use of television to relay pictures from an American spaceship to earth.

Hundreds of Nagasaki residents, whose city was atom-bombed by the United States 18 years ago, have flocked to dockside to see the Coastal Sentry and her crew. The 4,000-ton ship, operated for the Air Force by civilian sailors, is heavily loaded with electronics gear.

Glenn is clearly the main attraction.

Republicans Will Take New Look At Candidates

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican leaders from around the country dine tonight at $1,000 a plate—and take a new look at a couple of potential presidential nominees.

Gov. George Romney of Michigan and Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona will have a chance to show their political wares at the dinner, which party officials hope will raise more than $400,000 for the 1964 congressional campaigns.

The gathering also provides an opportunity for informal discussion among the party leaders about the political future of New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

He had been considered almost a sure bet for next year's GOP presidential nomination until doubts were thrown on his prospects by his divorce 14 months ago and his marriage last Saturday to a divorcee, Margaretta Fitler Murphy.

Romney is down to make one of the brief speeches at the dinner, while Goldwater will be the guest of honor. Originally the dinner was billed as a "salute to Goldwater," honoring him as former chairman of the GOP Senatorial Campaign Committee.

But later the title was changed to "salute to the Senate"—apparently in the interests of party unity.

There was no sign that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower would attend the affair.

Eisenhower has not publicly proclaimed his choice for the nomination; he has said merely that he would support the man the Republican convention chooses.

Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania will not attend because of prior commitments in his home state.

A number of other governors will be at the dinner, plus members of Congress and others prominent in the party.

Victor A. Johnston, director of the Senate Republican Campaign Committee, said it appeared the dinner would gross more than $400,000.

This is small compared to the $1 million plus which the Democrats raised at a $1,000 dinner and $100 foodless gala last January. But then the Democrats had things going for them that the Republicans haven't—including a president in the White House, big majorities in Congress and a lot of top officeholders.

Hamsters, favorite pets in Great Britian, are all descended from 13 that were brought into the country about 30 years ago from Aleppo, Syria.

policies everyone is entitled to certain government benefits and services.

American free enterprise built this nation's wealth, but private enterprise regulated and controlled but not free is today throwing us out of kilter and stunting our growth. When rewards can be gained by not growing, not working, not building, the people will stop working, the nation will stop growing and we will stop building an ever better America.

We separated ourselves from the rest of the world, were proud to be Americans and made the world proud of us, but today we associate with the worst powers, we have lost our pride and our humility and the world is no longer proud of us, only beholden to us for handouts.

"Give me liberty or give me death!" An American said that. Today the government people seem to be saying "If you cannot give me liberty don't give me death either!"

Government policies may defeat the nation, render its people helpless and impoverished, even destroy the government itself, but Americanism will survive. For Americanism came down from on High. . ."We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness." This was the birth certificate of Americanism and it shall endure forever. That few if any Americans have ever been able to claim and embrace all that their birthright entitles them is a fact of history, but those who have looked toward Him who created them and gave them their birthright for guidance have brought America closer to heaven on earth than ever happened elsewhere. There is no time to stop looking towards the "protection of Divine Providence," no time to look towards government nor governments, for the solution to our problems, for the way towards the goal which the founding fathers sought. sought.

Frontier Airlines Traffic Increases

DENVER (UPI)— Frontier Airlines said today its passenger traffic in the eight Colorado cities it serves jumped 35 per cent in April over the same month a year ago.

Another airline, Western, said in Los Angeles its air cargo revenues for the first quarter of 1963 set a record.

Frontier said 11,317 passengers boarded in Denver, Grand Junction, Durango, Pueblo, Montrose, Alamosa, Cortez, and Gunnison. Denver had 7,437 passengers and a 40 per cent increase over April, 1962.

Systemwide, Frontier said April passenger traffic showed record-breaking increases in revenue passenger miles and total passengers.

Western said its first-quarter air cargo revenues reached a record $896,000 this year, compared with $869,000 during the first quarter of 1962.

Dutch milk production in 1962 rose by 5 per cent to a new record level of well over 16.5 billion pounds.

Republicans Say Prestige Down For U.S. Policies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican senators charged today that U.S. prestige in the world has suffered major reverses under President Kennedy's policies in Cuba, Europe and Asia.

They chose this 18th anniversary of World War II Victory in Europe—VE Day—as the occasion for the round of Senate speeches.

With Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the majority leader, controlling the floor and parceling out time to colleagues to deliver their attacks, GOP senators charged that U.S. prestige has taken a "great leap backward slipped low indeed" under the Kennedy administration.

Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., led off the oratory, declaring:

"On VE Day the United States stood on a pinnacle, universally respected and triumphant. Today, our international standing has slipped low indeed. The reasons may be summed up in one short word—Cuba."

He accused the administration of having "reneged on solemn obligations" spelled out by Kennedy himself as President and as a presidential candidate. Tower said these included a pledge that the United States would not permit "a regime dominated by international atheistic communism in the Western Hemisphere."

"I ask, along with the American people why this pledge has not been kept," Tower concluded.

Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., said "a great leap backward in American prestige has taken place over the past two years."

He said it will continue to slip unless the administration strengthens its foreign policy course in Cuba, Europe and Asia.

APPOINTS NEGRO EDUCATOR

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)— Gov. Frank Clement Tuesday appointed a Negro educator to the State Board of Education, the first such post ever to be held by a Negro in Tennessee.

Dr. Harold West, president of Meharry Medical College, was the second Negro to be appointed to a high post in the Clement administration within the past week.

Clement earlier had named Willard Bowden, a Negro, to the State Pardons and Paroles Board.

Blind Disc Jockey Proves Big Success

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (UPI) —Music has done so much to brighten the life of a blind student at the University of New Mexico that he is working daily at the campus radio station to share it with others.

Don Belew, 21, of Clovis, N.M., is the first blind disc jockey in the history of the station, KNMD. Also a licensed ham radio operator, Belew first became interested in radio while a student at the New Mexico School for the Handicapped in Alamogordo.

Belew learned to handle the console board at the station in less than an hour, and has memorized station breaks. He engineers as well as announces a two-hour record show each afternoon.

Committee Approves Debt Ceiling Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Rules Committee approved today a bill to provide another series of increases in the national debt ceiling to extend to Aug. 31.

The committee's action cleared the controversial measure for a House fight expected next week, administration leaders having tentatively abandoned plans for a showdown this week.

The bill would raise the present $305 billion ceiling to $307 billion through June 30 and to $309 billion through Aug. 31. Another rise is likely by then.

The committee approved the administration-backed measure by voice vote after both Democrats and Republicans criticized President Kennedy's fiscal policies and complained of continued spending.

Treasury officials said the increase is necessary and had asked a higher figure.

African Socialism Sees Failure in New Ghana

By WARD CANNEL

ACCRA, Ghana (NEA)—No other new nation of Africa gets the passionate courtship that Ghana does from the older countries of the Free, the Neutralist and the Communist worlds.

Such disparate governments as Red China, India, Egypt, Israel as well as Russia and the United States fall over each other for the chance to get Kwami Nkrumah's ear.

Accra after six years of independence is not only a world capital in the truest sense, but Ghana itself has become an important battleground for competing ideologies.

What has all this done to the president?

"Nkrumah has learned," says a European diplomat, "that bad boys make out a lot better than good boys. In his brief time in office, he has become adept at being a bad boy. Why does the U.S. put up with him?"

Far more reaching than immediate diplomatic triumphs, however, has been Nkrumah's changing view of himself—from leader of his people, to spokesman for all of emerging Africa, to key figure among the leaders of the world.

It is a heady cup Nkrumah has brewed for himself, made up of equal parts of destiny and gall and rendering the drinker capable of taking sides in such distant matters as the Cuban crisis (against the U.S. and the Indian border conflict (with Red China).

But while Nkrumah has been busy lifting that cup to his lips, matters closer to home have been suffering.

Daily it becomes harder to collect taxes throughout Ghana and easier to do business by payola in Accra.

The depletion of the national treasury reserves has reached the point where they now contain considerably less than the annual cost of running the country.

In response to this ogre, the Nkrumah government has come up with a seven-year plan to pull the rate of economic growth ahead of the burgeoning birth rate and growing budget demands.

"One key step," says E. N. Omaboe, acting chairman of the National Planning Commission, "is to get trade as well as aid. Nations that lend money to Ghana should also be induced to buy our cocoa."

It will be difficult, however, to induce the chocolate eaters—the U.S. and Western Europe—to buy Ghana cocoa when the Ghana Times daily lashes the potential buyers for attempting to return Ghana to colonial status.

Another step of the seven-year plan is a political guarantee aimed at luring private investment to supplement the shaky public sector of the Economy, built under Nkrumah's policy of African Socialism.

"The climate is much better for private investment," says George Halm, governor of the Ghana Bank and former ambassador to the U.S. "The big problem has been too many radical youngsters surrounding the president and putting ideas in his head."

But just how moderate the climate is cannot be easily ascertained. One major U.S. manufacturer with an immense program for investment in Ghana is presently considering pulling out altogether. A Swiss heavy machinery firm currently in negotiation to put up a food processing plant will back out if they have to finance it themselves. A western European financier says outright:

"I've looked the situation over and I'm going to recommend no investment here. There are better deals available elsewhere in Africa."

If private investment is sluggish, the prospect of continued U. S. aid is also somewhat dim. Many American officials on the spot are tired of having to answer virulent attacks in the radical press and are urging Washington to cut off the allowance regardless of the hardship it may call down on the Average, pro-West Ghanaian.

For Ghana it is a tough situation as the national standard of living, once the highest in independent Africa, faces another downward reassessment. For the radical left, it is the happiest kind of bitterness—the opportunity to lash out at the neo-colonialists again. And for Kwame Nkrumah it is the first time in a brilliant, cavalier political career that cold necessity has passed between him and the hot Ghana sun.

Under the circumstances, a toga may not be warm enough. But in Accra's foreign diplomatic community today — both East and West—it is hard to find anybody who feels sorry about it.

Verification Needed, Conference Is Told

GENEVA (UPI) — The United States told the 17-nation disarmament conference today recent events in Cuba prove the necessity of adequate verification to prevent stockpiling of rockets and other nuclear weapons.

U. S. Ambassador Charles C. Stelle said the fact the Soviets had successfully hidden rockets in Cuba "is the best proof that if a state was determined to engage in secret deployment of strategic weapons, it could also do so undetected, at least for a certain period of time, in the proximity of another state which would be the potential victim."

"How much easier this would be in the distant and inaccessible heartland of some other state," Stelle said, in a clear reference to Soviet missile sites in Central Asia.

The American negotiator used the Cuban example in appealing to the Soviet Union at today's 129th plenary session of the conference for more details of an alleged "compromise" proposal on retention of nuclear weapon delivery vehicles.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko put the proposal before the United Nations General Assembly last Sept. 21 and since then the Russians have refused any more details.

Space Flight Broadcaster Has Problems

By DICK KLEINER

NEW YORK (NEA) — The stuff of which nightmares are made—vicious snakes, blaring trumpets and space ships — are every day reality to Sid Darion.

In his official capacity, as the producer of the pool broadcasts and telecasts of the next U.S. space flight, Darion is in charge of the camera and microphone coverage of Gordon Cooper's attempt to orbit the earth 22 times. If there are no further delays, this will take place on May 22.

Unique to this flight will be the camera he will take with him. This device weights about eight pounds and is about the diameter of a baseball bat.

On the first five orbits and then again on the 15th through the 20th orbits, Cooper will transmit his pictures back to earth as he soars over Cape Canaveral. Since the camera's transmittive power is limited to the line of sight, it will only operate for a 1,000-mile-long pass, 300 miles each side of the Cape.

Darion says that these pictures from outer space will probably be seen with a few second delay. Mercury control — the brains of the flight — and other NASA officials want to look at them first. The producer understands that there may be a few times when this by-pass will not operate and then, for the first time, the U.S. will see live pictures from an orbiting space craft.

What will Cooper show us? Darion says the camera will be capable of showing anything he sees, plus views of the astronaut himself. The camera can be hand-held, or it can be placed in a bracket which swivels 360 degrees. In that way, it can be focused on Cooper as he works, or Cooper can point it out his window in any direction.

Two definite shots are promised. One, immediately following the blast-off, will be a picture of the receding earth, taken as Cooper points down as he goes up. The other, shortly thereafter, will be a shot of the separation of the capsule and its booster rocket. Cooper will focus on the booster and, if all goes well, you'll see it separate and go on its own way.

Darion says that his biggest official headache is that there may be a malfunction in a key camera at a key time. But, unofficially, he worries about snakes.

Cape Canaveral, he points out, was long used as a game preserve. And, to discourage trespassers, NASA has carefully maintained the uncivilized character of the area. The result is that when Darion reactivates the television headquarters, he says he generally has to oust a few diamondback rattlers from the premises.

Once NBC's transmission was suddenly interrupted when an armadillo chewed through a coaxial cable.

Darion, who is an ABC news staffer (the three networks take turns at running the pool coverage), also finds that the lack of conference facilities at the Florida site is troublesome. He says that whenever two people want to get together for a meeting off the base, the only available places are cocktail bars.

"And so you'll find briliant scientist," he says, "and highlevel officers trying to conduct intelligent conversations to the sound of blaring music."

Cooper's flight, because of its length, presents coverage problems. The astronaut, according to schedule, will be airborne for 34 hours and 20 minutes. If all goes as planned, he'll blast off at 7 a.m. and touch down in the Pacific, near Midway, at 5:20 p.m. on the following day.

Darion's plans, at present, call for coverage throughout the day, going off from midnight to 6 a.m., then resuming. Audio coverage will continue all night, but the video will discontinue for the six night hours. It will, of course, be up to the individual networks how much of that coverage they will program.

Darion, as did his predecessors, has also made careful plans against the possibility of a tragic accident at blastoff. He says the astronauts and all NASA officials realize they have been "flying with horseshoes" and that a mishap on one flight is almost inevitable.

"Glenn had problems with heat," Darion says, "and Grissom came near to going down with his capsule. Carpenter nearly got lost. They have all come close to having severe difficulties."

There are several cameras which are permanently focused on areas where the capsule would plunge into the sea, in the event of an "abort," and other critical spots used only in case of emergency. They're ready to roll, but Darion —and the whole country — hopes they're not needed.

Over 1.3 million licensed fishermen, including 300,000 nonresident anglers, catch a total of 30 million fish annually in Minnesota waters.

Film Editor Is Critical For Movies

By DICK KLEINER

NEW YORK (NEA) — I peeked over Marie Montagne's shoulder and decided that, if I were an actor, I'd want her on my side.

With her little razor blade and her little pair of scissors, she could make an actor look good or bad, as she wished. Happily for the acting fraternity, she seems to have a warm heart and an objective view of her profession—film editing.

As the senior film editor of Car 54, Where Are You?, Miss Montagne spends all her working hours looking, cutting, splicing and then doing it all over again. To the average television fan, who thinks of a program as the product of the writer, director and actor, her work may be unimportant—but it is vital to the show.

Watch with me as she takes raw film and turns it into a program.

The first thing Miss Montagne does is study the script, as it is given to her after the show is shot. This document looks something like a doodler's nightmare after the script girl and the director have gotten through with it.

At the beginning of each scene are notations in red and black ink, giving the number of the scene (to correspond with the number of the film sent to Miss Montagne) and how many takes there were. The director then scrawls his preference — "Scene 32. 6 takes,prefer take 5,"for example.

Running down the page vertically, rae ruled lines in black, red and green ink.The red indicates the master shot — in which all the actors who are in the scene are visible on the screen. The green line indicates a two-shot, the camera focusing on only two actors. The black indicates close-up shots of a single actor.

On a scene where four actors such lines — the red master shot line throughout the entire scene, four black close-up lines to indicate that they shot closeups on each actor, a green two-shot line for several speeches, to show that here they also shot the scene with only two actors visible.

Miss Montagne reads the script. Then she finds the master shot of the scene — there are piles of rolls of film on a table, all numbered—and puts it in a device called a Movieola. This has a tiny screen and a loud speaker. She lets the film run through it, watching on the screen, and can stop it or start it with foot pedals.

From this, she has an idea of how she wants to cut the scene. She may start with the master shot, then cut in a closeup, swing back to the two-shot, over to another close-up, etc.

She takes the master shot and feeds it through a synchronizer, which has two parallel tracks—one for the film, one for the tape of the voices. When she comes to the place where she wants to cut, a quick razor blade thrust severs the tape, a neat cut with the scissors (carefully leaving enough room for splicing) slices through the film.

Then she reaches for the proper close-up roll, runs it through until she gets to the point where she had cut the master roll. Another thrust, another cut and a few pieces of sticky tape and the rough splice has been made.

For 2½ days, she cuts and pastes. She can eliminate bad spots, retain funny expressions, hold a little longer when she thinks there will be a laugh, take out the sound of breathing—work wonders with her razor blade and scissors.

The result is what is called a rough cut. This is then shown, generally with producer Nat Hiken and herself the entire audience. They must check for time, and cut if necessary to keep under the limit. Hiken may also want to change for artistic reasons. So may Miss Montagne; she generally cuts the first time to leave herself room to tighten by further trimming.

And another show is finished. Film editors like Marie Montagne are technical artists — but their razor blades and scissors can be deadly weapons.

Catholic Scouts To Hold Awards Ceremony Friday

A procession of Scouts and their fathers, Knights of Columbus and members of the clergy will precede the Boy Scout Catholic awards ceremony to be held at 7:45 p.m. Friday at Corpus Christi Church.

The Most Rev. David M. Maloney, auxiliary bishop of Denver, will participate in the procession and will present awards to more than 40 scouts, according to Lt. Col. H. J. "Pat" Taylor Jr., chairman of the Catholic relations committee of the Pikes Peak Council of Boy Scouts and chairman for the Friday ceremonies.

Taylor said Scouts and their fathers are to assemble in the paved area in front of Corpus Christi School by 7 p.m. Friday in order that there be no delay in the procession and ceremony.

Nineteen Cub Scouts are scheduled to receive the Parvuli Dei medal and 21 Boy Scouts and Explorer Scouts will be awarded the Ad Altare Dei medal. Six Explorer Scouts will receive the Pope Pius XII award.

Additionally, Taylor said, two rarely conferred St. George awards will be given to active adult Scouters who have contributed in an outstanding way to the spiritual development of the Catholic youth associated with the Boy Scouts of America.

Past recipients of the St. George award are Rudolph F. Seidl, Edward Varela and Joseph A. Reich.

Reading of the citations for the new recipients will be done by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Anthony Elzi, Pikes Peak area Scout chaplain. The awards will be presented by Bishop Maloney.

The Catholic relations committee of the Scout Council will give a dinner and reception for Bishop Maloney at 5:45 p.m. Friday at Ent Officers Club.

Eagle Scout Westy Kemp will be master of ceremonies for later ceremonies at Corpus Christi Church. The annual award ceremony is open to the public.

'Commercial' Gets to Be Popular Song

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—A new rock 'n' roll record called "Mother, Please" is achieving a certain amount of popularity with the young crowd these days, but is most notable for the fact that it borrows its title and theme from a semi-retired television commercial.

The commercial itself was launched over a year ago, part of a batch advertising a headache remedy. It shows a young woman snapping irritably: "Mother, PLEASE! I'd rather do it myself!" Then, later, headache gone, she offers her mother a cup of tea and there is a smiling fade-out.

There were others in the initial series: a young mother screaming at her child; a young husband snarling at his wife about their son's bicycle in the driveway; a woman annoyed at the neighborhood kids.

Now, Mother and the others are rarely seen because a new batch of irritable headache sufferers commercials has been cooked up. But "Muther, Please" continues to have impact. It is a gag-line used by television comedians and teen-agers. It has been the basis for a number of comedy sketches.

"It's curious, the way that thing caught on and stays around," commented an advertising executive. "I suppose it just proves that by the time the client starts pounding the desk and demanding new copy in his commercials, the good old public is barely beginning to notice the old ones."

Nobody seems to have figured a sure-fire way to catch the public's fancy, but when something like "Mother, Please" occurs, the company is usually pleased and the advertising agency is ecstatic.

Over the years there have been a number of them that were picked up, discussed, kidded, railed against. Remember the cigarette green that went to war? The yellow that went someplace? The twin that had the home permanent? And, of course, the "Thinking Man" series ("Oh, are you a skin-diver?" "No, indeed, I'm a nuclear physicist—").

The test, however, is not whether the public is amused, entertained or impressed. It is whether the commercial sells the product—and whether public relates the commercial to the brand name.

Two more public affairs shows will bite the dust next season. Adlai E. Stevenson's biweekly program on ABC's Sunday schedule, and Howard K. Smith's Sunday evening news and public affairs show. Smith will take over ABC's "Issues and Answers" as permanent host on Sunday afternoons.

Cat Lovers Rocked By Court Decision

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Pennsylvania cat lovers were rocked by a recent superior court decision that nullified the conviction and $100 fine of an Allentown man who shot his neighbor's pet cat. In reviewing the sentence, the State Legislature was found to have decreed that you can't shoot another man's horsen cow, sheep, goat, pig, or bull, but it was silent about cats and dogs. A move was immediately launched to introduce legislation protecting feline and canine residents of the Keystone state.

Total cost of building St. Peter's Church in Rome is said to be about $50 million.

State to Probe Classification Of Employes

DENVER (AP) — A statewide survey of the use of non-classified employes in state departments will be started next week, William Hilty, state personnel director, said Tuesday.

Hilty said the study was arranged because several departments have been using employes from a "labor list" to fill classified positions.

The labor list, Hilty said, contains the names of persons to be hired only in emergencies.

Hilty said that the State Game, Fish and Parks Department employed 92 such persons during the first half of April at a cost of $11,506.

But the game and fish director, Harry R. Woodward, defended his department's policy. He said he was forced to hire people from the labor list because the legislature failed to authorize enough permanent positions.

One disturbing factor, said Hilty, is a wide discrepancy in pay for persons on the list. He said one person might make $1.25 an hour and another $2 an hour for the same work.

Such persons are not under the state retirement plan, do not pay social security, and are paid on an hourly basis with no overtime provisions.

Hilty said the labor list is also outside the control of the Civil Service Commission and is not cleared through the governor. He estimated that about 1,000 persons are now on the labor force and many are working on something of a permanent status.

Birmingham Crucial Spot, Race Strife Leaders Say

By RELMAN MORIN

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Little Rock was one school, Central High, and eight Negro children.

Oxford was one Negro student, James H. Meredith, enrolling in the University of Mississippi.

Birmingham is a whole city, a bright, handsome community of nearly 50,000 in the heart of the Deep South—the biggest target, by far, of desegregationists in the anguished and continuing battle over civil rights.

This is what gives special meaning to the quiet words of a Negro clergyman: "If we break through here, we break through everywhere."

This is the core of the story in Birmingham today, the determined drive for a breakthrough.

Negro leaders say it means, primarily, desegregation of downtown eating places, equal job opportunities, the hiring of qualified—they stress the adjective—Negroes in downtown stores.

"The organization won't settle for less than 80 per cent desegregation downtown," said one.

He added, "We're not even talking about the schools now, just the stores and the lunchrooms."

The church is jampacked, on the ground floor and the balcony, with about 1,400 Negroes. Others listen through partly opened side and front doors.

They begin singing, clapping with the rhythm of a hymn, "something's got a-hold of me."

They seem good humored. They laugh and wave their palm-frond fans when another speaker describes an incident in Ingram Park, fronting the church, a center of the disturbances in Birmingham in the past few days.

"These children," he says, "ran after the policeman so that he would arrest them. But he wouldn't arrest them no matter how hard they ran."

The Birmingham jails already are filled to capacity. More than 2,400 Negroes have been arrested in the past few days.

King goes to two other churches. They, too, are packed to the roof. There is more singing and more exhorting.

The streets of Birmingham are supremely quiet. It is not much of a night-life city, anyway, and it looks little different now than on any night. There are no clusters of men on the street corners—as there were in the first few nights in Oxford after Meredith entered the university—and no signs of tensions as there were at Little Rock.

The lobby of the Gason Motel, where King is staying, is quiet except for the incessant buzzing of the telephone switchboard and the operator saying, again and again, "Dr. King is not in."

The only evidence of anything amiss is in front of another hotel where a group of state highway patrolmen stand, talking, beside some police cars. They were ordered into Birmingham Tuesday.

They are near enough to the Baptist church to hear the Negroes chanting —

Son of Actress Faces Dope Charge

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—Patrick Joseph Farrow, 20, son of actress Maureen O'Sullivan, faces prosecution on a charge of narcotics possession — just two weeks after his conviction on a similar charge.

He was arraigned Tuesday before Municipal Judge Henry H. Draeger who set his preliminary hearing for May 17. Bail was set at $2,625.

Farrow was arrested Sunday by police who said they found narcotics in his car.

Two weeks ago, he was fined $250 and placed on five years' probation after being found guilty of narcotics possession.

Film Editor Is Critical For Movies

By DICK KLEINER

NEW YORK (NEA) — I peeked over Marie Montagne's shoulder and decided that, if I were an actor, I'd want her on my side.

With her little razor blade and her little pair of scissors, she could make an actor look good or bad, as she wished. Happily for the acting fraternity, she seems to have a warm heart and an objective view of her profession—film editing.

As the senior film editor of Car 54, Where Are You?, Miss Montagne spends all her working hours looking, cutting, splicing and then doing it all over again. To the average television fan, who thinks of a program as the product of the writer, director and actor, her work may be unimportant—but it is vital to the show.

Watch with me as she takes raw film and turns it into a program.

The first thing Miss Montagne does is study the script, as it is given to her after the show is shot. This document looks something like a doodler's nightmare after the script girl and the director have gotten through with it.

At the beginning of each scene are notations in red and black ink, giving the number of the scene (to correspond with the number of the film sent to Miss Montagne) and how many takes there were. The director then scrawls his preference — "Scene 32, 6 takes, prefer take 5," for example.

Running down the page vertically are ruled lines in black, red and green ink. The red indicates the master shot — in which all the actors who are in the scene are visible on the screen. The green line indicates a two-shot, the camera focusing on only two actors. The black indicates close-up shots of a single actor.

On a scene where four actors such lines — the red master shot line throughout the entire scene, four black close-up lines to indicate that they shot closeups on each actor, a green two-shot line for several speeches, to show that here they also shot the scene with only two actors visible.

Miss Montagne reads the script. Then she finds the master shot of the scene — there are piles of rolls of film on a table, all numbered—and puts it in a device called a Movieola. This has a tiny screen and a loud speaker. She lets the film run through it, watching on the screen, and can stop it or start it with foot pedals.

From this, she has an idea of how she wants to cut the scene. She may start with the master shot, then cut in a closeup, swing back to the two-shot, over to another close-up, etc.

She takes the master shot and feeds it through a synchronizer, which has two parallel tracks—one for the film, one for the tape of the voices. When she comes to the place where she wants to cut, a quick razor blade thrust severs the tape, a neat cut with the scissors, carefully leaving enough room for splicing, slices through the film.

Then she reaches for the proper close-up roll, runs it through until she gets to the point where she had cut the master roll. Another thrust, another cut and a few pieces of sticky tape and the rough splice has been made.

For 2½ days, she cuts and pastes. She can eliminate bad spots, retain funny expressions, hold a little longer when she thinks there will be a laugh, take out the sound of breathing—work wonders with her razor blade and scissors.

The result is what is called a rough cut. This is then shown, generally with producer Nat Hiken and herself the entire audience. They must check for time, and cut if necessary to keep under the limit. Hiken may also want to change for artistic reasons. So may Miss Montagne; she generally cuts the first time to leave herself room to tighten by further trimming.

And another show is finished. Film editors like Marie Montagne are technical artists — but their razor blades and scissors can be deadly weapons.

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The Academy of Medicine of Cleveland has named a Negro surgeon, Dr. Middleton Lambright Jr., President-elect.

Dr. Lambright was elected on the first ballot Tuesday night. He will become president next year, succeeding Dr. William E. Forsyth, who takes office May 17.

Dr. Lambright is a vice president of the academy and has been a trustee for nine years. He also teaches at Western Reserve University and is a trustee of Forest City Hospital, which his father helped found.

NATO Nuclear Force Plans May Be Made

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials said today an allied agreement to create a multilateral NATO nuclear force armed with Polaris missiles on surface ships may be ready for signing by the time President Kennedy visits Europe late next month.

Spokesmen for the West German government announced Tuesday that West Germany had dropped its objections to using surface ships instead of submarines as carriers for the nuclear warhead missiles.

The whole project, initiated by the United States, had appeared in doubt earlier this year because of strong European opposition to building a surface fleet. Allied governments interested in the force had understood that Polaris submarines would be the missile carriers.

When the United States in effect switched signals early this year and came out for surface vessels, the first allied reaction in Europe was negative. The allies felt that surface ships would be far more vulnerable. For a time, this was substantially the West German view.

In recent weeks, President Kennedy's special negotiator, Ambassador Livingston T. Merchant, and naval experts have concentrated on building up the U.S. case for surface ships—a fleet which could be developed quicker and cheaper than submarines.

For a week or so U.S. officials have understood that German experts finally had agreed that wide dispersion and frequent shifting of the Polaris surface ships around the coasts of Western Europe would provide about all the protection necessary for the vessels.

As presently conceived, on the basis of known allied interest, the fleet of perhaps 20 ships with a total of perhaps 200 missiles would be a jointly owned and manned eight-nation force under NATO direction and military control. In effect, participation would give West Germany and the other countries taking part a voice in nuclear strategy and a finger on the nuclear trigger.

The eight nations are the United States, Britain, West Germany, Italy, Greece, Turkey, the Netherlands and Belgium.

The total cost of the force is not yet accurately known but has been estimated at $5 billion over a 10-year period, including capital investment, operations, later modernization, and maintenance. This would amount to around $500 million a year and it is expected that the United States would bear about one-third of the expense.

Truman Says He Still Works Seven-Day Week

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Harry S. Truman, who says he wishes people would forget about his birthdays, turns 79 today—obviously tickled they remember.

The anniversaries "only make me a year older," he remarked Tuesday, but you wouldn't know it, unless you observed that he doesn't walk quite as much as he used to.

Truman was laid up a while last January after a hernia operation, but since his recovery he's been busier than ever.

He drives five blocks from his home to his office in the Truman Library at neighboring Independence daily. He used to walk. At his office, he still handles a voluminous correspondence, receives guests, and sometimes surprises visitors by conducting them on a tour of the library.

Saturday is just like any other day, and Truman often works in his office on Sundays, too.

The girls in the office work only five days a week but I work seven," he says.

One of the bigger jobs he has tackled recently is a series of 26 half-hour television shows to portray the major events of his nearly eight years as president. He will appear in each.

Four Los Angeles Quakes Are Reported

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Four earthquakes in five hours kept police in Los Angeles County beach communities busy telling callers: "Yes, there has been an earthquake."

All the quakes were slight, but noisy.

The tremors came at 12:49, 2:30, 5:47 and 9:20 p.m. Tuesday. Each time the dishes rattled, hundreds of residents began calling the local police stations.

There was absolutely nothing the police could do about it, except at the hermosa beach station. The quakes caused the doors on the filing cabinets there to fly open, the officers spent the five hours alternately answering phones and shutting cabinet drawers.

The only damage reported was a broken water pipe in Manhattan Beach.

How to Keep Well

WHITE BLOOD

Leukemia is on the increase. Radiation, including X-ray and atomic fallout, is thought to be responsible in some cases and certain viruses in others. Possibly both play a role in that the ionizing radiation makes the normal lymphoid cells more susceptible to the leukemia virus.

Meanwhile, our cancer specialists have met the threat with a group of new chemical treatments. None cure but many relieve symptoms and usually prolong life. Furthermore, there is such a variety of these agents, if there no longer is a response to one, another may prove effective for a time.

The different forms of leukemia require different treatment. Leukemia means white blood; it is cancer of the organs that manufacture blood such as the lymph glands and bone marrow. These structures produce large numbers of immature white cells that are of no value to the body; they cannot produce antibodies to fight bacteria and other chemicals to destroy viruses.

Acute leukemia resembles an acute infection and begins frequently with weakness, chills, sore throat, mouth sores, and easy bruising. It is partial to the young. Prior to the discovery of modern chemical agents, the majority of victims died within six to eight weeks. They now live a year or more. The remedies include alkylating drugs of the nitrogen mustard class, antimetabolites such as folic acid and purine antagonists, and the adrenocortical steroids of which cortisone is an example. These products interfere with the growth and development of white cells, leading to an overall decrease in number. Symptoms are relieved and some of the products confer a sense of well being.

Chronic leukemia develops usually in men and women between 30 and 65 years of age. It is slow to start and drags on for years. The individual tires easily and becomes weak, nauseated, and dyspeptic. Pain and tenderness over bones are noted in the type that involves marrow (myelogenous), whereas swollen lymph glands are a more prominent finding in the lymphatic variety.

No drug is more effective than irradiation (X-ray, cobalt bomb, and radioactive phosphorus). The rays lower the white blood count and ease the discomfort due to pressure from the enlarged lymph glands, spleen, and liver.

Catholic Scouts To Hold Awards Ceremony Friday

A procession of Scouts and their fathers, Knights of Columbus, and members of the clergy will precede the Boy Scout Catholic awards ceremony to be held at 7:45 p.m. Friday at Corpus Christi Church.

The Most Rev. David M. Maloney, auxiliary bishop of Denver, will participate in the procession and will present awards to more than 40 scouts, according to Lt. Col. H. J. "Pat" Taylor Jr., chairman of the Catholic relations committee of the Pikes Peak Council of Boy Scouts and chairman for the Friday ceremonies.

Taylor said Scouts and their fathers are to assemble in the paved area in front of Corpus Christi School by 7 p.m. Friday in order that there be no delay in the procession and ceremony.

Nineteen Cub Scouts are scheduled to receive the Parvuli Dei medal and 21 Boy Scouts and Explorer Scouts will be awarded the Ad Altare Dei medal. Six Explorer Scouts will receive the Pope Pius XII award.

Additionally, Taylor said, two rarely conferred St. George awards will be given to active adult Scouters who have contributed in an outstanding way to the spiritual development of the Catholic youth associated with the Boy Scouts of America.

Past recipients of the St. George award are Rudolph F. Seidl, Edward Varela and Joseph A. Reich.

Reading of the citations for the new recipients will be done by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Anthony Elz, Pikes Peak area Scout chaplain. The awards will be presented by Bishop Maloney.

The Catholic relations committee of the Scout Council will give a dinner and reception for Bishop Maloney at 5:45 p.m. Friday at Ent Officers Club.

Eagle Scout Westy Kemp will be master of ceremonies for later ceremonies at Corpus Christi Church. The annual award ceremony is open to the public.

'Commercial' Gets to Be Popular Song

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—A new rock 'n' roll record called "Mother, Please" is achieving a certain amount of popularity with the young crowd these days, but is most notable for the fact that it borrows its title and theme from a semi-retired television commercial.

The commercial itself was launched over a year ago, part of a batch advertising a headache remedy. It shows a young woman snapping irritably: "Mother, PLEASE! I'd rather do it myself!" Then, later, headache gone, she offers her mother a cup of tea and there is a smiling fade-out.

There were others in the initial series: a young mother screaming at her child; a young husband snarling at his wife about their son's bicycle in the driveway; a woman annoyed at the neighborhood kids.

Now, Mother and the others are rarely seen because a new batch of irritable headache sufferers commercials has been cooked up. But "Muther, Please" continues to have impact. It is a gag-line used by television comedians and teen-agers. It has been the basis for a number of comedy sketches.

"It's curious, the way that thing caught on and stays around," commented an advertising executive. "I suppose it just proves that by the time the client starts pounding the desk and demanding new copy in his commercials, the good old public is barely beginning to notice the old ones."

Nobody seems to have figured a sure-fire way to catch the public's fancy, but when something like "Mother, Please" occurs, the company is usually pleased and the advertising agency is ecstatic.

Over the years there have been a number of them that were picked up, discussed, kidded, railed against. Remember the cigarette green that went to war? The yellow that went someplace? The twin that had the home permanent? And, of course, the "Thinking Man" series: "Oh, are you a skin-diver?" "No, indeed. I'm a nuclear physicist—"

The test, however, is not whether the public is amused, entertained or impressed. It is whether the commercial sells the product—and whether public relates the commercial to the brand name.

Two more public affairs shows will bite the dust next season. Adlai E. Stevenson's biweekly program on ABC's Sunday schedule, and Howard K. Smith's Sunday evening news and public affairs show. Smith will take over ABC's "Issues and Answers" as permanent host on Sunday afternoons.

Cat Lovers Rocked By Court Decision

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Pennsylvania cat lovers were rocked by a recent superior court decision that nullified the conviction and $100 fine of an Allentown man who shot his neighbor's pet cat. In reviewing the sentence, the State Legislature was found to have decreed that you can't shoot another man's horse, cow, sheep, goat, pig, or bull, but it was silent about cats and dogs. A move was immediately launched to introduce legislation protecting feline and canine residents of the Keystone state.

Total cost of building St. Peter's Church in Rome is said to be about $50 million.

State to Probe Classification Of Employes

DENVER (AP) — A statewide survey of the use of non-classified employes in state departments will be started next week, William Hilty, state personnel director, said Tuesday.

Hilty said the study was arranged because several departments have been using employes from a "labor list" to fill classified positions.

The labor list, Hilty said, contains the names of persons to be hired only in emergencies.

Hilty said that the State Game, Fish and Parks Department employed 92 such persons during the first half of April at a cost of $11,506.

But the game and fish director, Harry R. Woodward, defended his department's policy. He said he was forced to hire people from the labor list because the legislature failed to authorize enough permanent positions.

One disturbing factor, said Hilty, is a wide discrepancy in pay for persons on the list. He said one person might make $1.25 an hour and another $2 an hour for the same work.

Such persons are not under the state retirement plan, do not pay social security, and are paid on an hourly basis with no overtime provisions.

Hilty said the labor list is also outside the control of the Civil Service Commission and is not cleared through the governor. He estimated that about 1,000 persons are now on the labor force and many are working on something of a permanent status.

5th Division Uses Washington State As Battleground

The State of Washington became a battleground May 5 when 40,000 Army and Air Force troops including the 5th Infantry Division from Ft. Carson converged near Yakima for Exercise Coulee Crest.

By Friday Task Force Red, the aggressor forces which include the 5th Division, established an invasion airhead with air and ground forces eatablished near Richland, Wash.

Joint Task Force Blue's combined air and ground forces were assembled at Ft. Lewis, Wash., prepared to resist the invaders. A 4th Infantry Division battle group is in position at the east end of Yakima Ridge to hold the Red aggressors until Blue forces combat troops can prepare to assault.

Exercise Coulee Crest has as its primary mission providing the maximum opportunity for joint operations of Army and Air Force components of U.S. Strike Command.

Procedures being used by both services are being studied to determine improvements in effectiveness and rapid response. Army and Air Force will cooperate in finding targets, in neutralizing enemy positions and strong points, moving troops rapidly by air or ground and reinforcing and resupplying combat forces from distant bases.

Control and employment of nuclear weapons will be evaluated during Exercise Coulee Crest as will unconventional warfare techniques.

Fifth Division troops will have air support and be open to simulated attacks from the Tactical Air Force squadrons taking part in the massive maneuver along with 10,000 Red Devils and Carson signaleers.

Academy to Get Unger Portrait Of Billy Mitchell

A life-size, original oil painting of air power pioneer Brig. Gen. William L. (Billy) Mitchell will be presented to the Air Force Academy Friday as a gift of General Motor's AC Spark Plug Division at Milwaukee.

Painter of the portrait is William Unger, a native of Vienna, and winner of many international awards. One of Unger's best known works, another portrait of Gen. Mitchell, hangs in the foyer of the Milwaukee Airport terminal. The field is named for the famed airman. The artist will attend the unveiling.

Richard J. Slifka, an engineer in AC's Titan Engineering section, will represent the firm's employes at the presentation. Also expected to be present are Joseph A. Anderson, vice president and general manager of the AC Spark Plug Division and Dr. B. P. Blasingame, manager of Milwaukee Division of AC; Harding Mott, president, and Frank Manley, director of the Mott Foundation of Flint, Mich.

Gen. Mitchell's sister, Mrs. Cadwalader Jones and her husband, will also attend in addition to two of the general's nieces, Mrs. Lewis E. Pillsbury and Mrs. Henry Mathers and their husbands.

Prior to the presentation ceremony Friday, the group will tour the Academy and meet Superintendent Maj. Gen. Robert H. Warren and Commandant of Cadets Brig. Gen. Robert W. Strong.

During the actual presentation, Cadet Wing Commander Sam Westbrook III will introduce Anderson. He will, in turn, introduce Slifka, the employe representative, who will make the actual presentation.

Gen. Warren will accept the portrait for the Academy.

Civil Rights Hearing Begins In Congress

By JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hearings on the administration's civil rights program begin today against a background of racial unrest in Alabama.

With news of Negro demonstrations and mass arrests in Birmingham dominating the headlines, the House Judiciary Committee takes up the first specific civil rights program offered by President Kennedy.

Strong Republican pressures for enactment of some kind of civil rights legislation are expected to help push the bill through the House, but greater difficulties will undoubtedly be encountered in the Senate.

The administration bill has three main proposals:

1. It would provide for the appointment of temporary voting referees to pass quickly on the qualifications of would-be voters. Present procedures can lead to lengthy delays.

2. It would declare that anyone with a 6th-grade education would be presumed to be literate, for purposes of voting.

3. It would extend for four years the life of the Civil Rights Commission, which is due to expire at the end of the year.

Scores of measures, some similar and others much broader, have been introduced by individual members of Congress, who will be given the first opportunity to testify at the hearings. Administration witnesses are expected to be called next week.

Republican members of the Judiciary Committee have joined to push a program of their own, which includes all the administration proposals but adds provisions to desegregate the public schools and ban discrimination against Negroes by firms doing business with the government.

The GOP sponsors have charged that Kennedy's program does not go far enough. Their insistence on a strong civil rights bill is seen by backers of the administration bill as a hopeful sign that the GOP-Southern Democratic coalition that could block any bill in the Rules Committee, will not be operative this time.

In the Senate, hearings on a bill to extend the Civil Rights Commission are due to begin later this month.

CHEERS FOR STUDENTS

UMATILLA, Fla. (AP) — At least one town in Florida is singing the praises of the vacationing college students. When Purdue University student Bob Clements brought several of his fraternity brothers home to Leesburg, Fla. with him, the boys decided to go fishing in the gulf. The students brought back 166 pounds of king mackerel and grouper—and then donated the entire catch to the Harra-Anna Crippled Children's Home here.

Birmingham Crucial Spot, Race Strife Leaders Say

By RELMAN MORIN

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Little Rock was one school, Central High, and eight Negro children.

Oxford was one Negro student, James H. Meredith, enrolling in the University of Mississippi.

Birmingham is a whole city, a bright, handsome community of nearly 50,000 in the heart of the Deep South—the biggest target, by far, of desegregationists in the anguished and continuing battle over civil rights.

This is what gives special meaning to the quiet words of a Negro clergyman: "If we break through here, we break through everywhere."

This is the core of the story in Birmingham today, the determined drive for a breakthrough.

Negro leaders say it means, primarily, desegregation of downtown eating places, equal job opportunities, the hiring of qualified—they stress the adjective—Negroes in downtown stores.

"The organization won't settle for less than 80 per cent desegregation downtown," said one.

He added, "We're not even talking about the schools now, just the stores and the lunchrooms."

The church is jampacked, on the ground floor and the balcony, with about 1,400 Negroes. Others listen through partly opened side and front doors.

They begin singing, clapping with the rhythm of a hymn, "something's got a-hold of me."

They seem good humored. They laugh and wave their palm-frond fans when another speaker describes an incident in Ingram Park, fronting the church, a center of the disturbances in Birmingham in the past few days.

"These children," he says, "ran after the policeman so that he would arrest them. But he wouldn't arrest them no matter how hard they ran."

The Birmingham jails already are filled to capacity. More than 2,400 Negroes have been arrested in the past few days.

King goes to two other churches. They, too, are packed to the roof. There is more singing and more exhorting.

The streets of Birmingham are supremely quiet. It is not much of a night-life city, anyway, and it looks little different now than on any night. There are no clusters of men on the street corners—as there were in the first few nights in Oxford after Meredith entered the university—and no signs of tensions as there were at Little Rock.

The lobby of the Gason Motel, where King is staying, is quiet except for the incessant buzzing of the telephone switchboard and the operator saying, again and again, "Dr. King is not in."

The only evidence of anything amiss is in front of another hotel where a group of state highway patrolmen stand, talking, beside some police cars. They were ordered into Birmingham Tuesday.

They are near enough to the Baptist church to hear the Negroes chanting —

Lunch on Launch Is Offered in Italy

VERBANIA, Italy (AP)—Lunch on a launch on a lake will be available next year for visitors coming to this mountain resort near the Swiss border.

Tourist officials plan two restaurant boats for service on Lake Maggiore between the Italian and Swiss shores.

The idea is to let tourists dine while the scenery provides a feast for the eyes.

Son of Actress Faces Dope Charge

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif (AP)—Patrick Joseph Farrow, 20, son of actress Maureen O'Sullivan, faces prosecution on a charge of narcotics possession -- just two weeks after his conviction on a similar charge.

He was arraigned Tuesday before Municipal Judge Henry H. Draeger who set his preliminary hearing for May 17. Bail was set at $2,625.

Farrow was arrested Sunday by police who said they found narcotics in his car.

Two weeks ago, he was fined $250 and placed on five years' probation after being found guilty of narcotics possession.

NATO Nuclear Force Plans May Be Made

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials said today an allied agreement to create a multilateral NATO nuclear force armed with Polaris missiles on surface ships may be ready for signing by the time President Kennedy visits Europe late next month.

Spokesmen for the West German government announced Tuesday that West Germany had dropped its objections to using surface ships instead of submarines as carriers for the nuclear warhead missiles.

The whole project, initiated by the United States, had appeared in doubt earlier this year because of strong European opposition to building a surface fleet. Allied governments interested in the force had understood that Polaris submarines would be the missile carriers.

When the United States in effect switched signals early this year and came out for surface vessels, the first allied reaction in Europe was negative. The allies felt that surface ships would be far more vulnerable. For a time, this was substantially the West German view.

In recent weeks, President Kennedy's special negotiator, Ambassador Livingston T. Merchant, and naval experts have concentrated on building up the U.S. case for surface ships—a fleet which could be developed quicker and cheaper than submarines.

For a week or so U.S. officials have understood that German experts finally had agreed that wide dispersion and frequent shifting of the Polaris surface ships around the coasts of Western Europe would provide about all the protection necessary for the vessels.

As presently conceived, on the basis of known allied interest, the fleet of perhaps 20 ships with a total of perhaps 200 missiles would be a jointly owned and manned eight-nation force under NATO direction and military control. In effect, participation would give West Germany and the other countries taking part a voice in nuclear strategy and a finger on the nuclear trigger.

The eight nations are the United States, Britain, West Germany, Italy, Greece, Turkey, the Netherlands and Belgium.

The total cost of the force is not yet accurately known but has been estimated at $5 billion over a 10-year period, including capital investment, operations, later modernization, and maintenance. This would amount to around $500 million a year and it is expected that the United States would bear about one-third of the expense.

Truman Says He Still Works Seven-Day Week

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Harry S. Truman, who says he wishes people would forget about his birthdays, turns 79 today—obviously tickled they remember.

The anniversaries "only make me a year older," he remarked Tuesday, but you wouldn't know it, unless you observed that he doesn't walk quite as much as he used to.

Truman was laid up a while last January after a hernia operation, but since his recovery he's been busier than ever.

He drives five blocks from his home to his office in the Truman Library at neighboring Independence daily. He used to walk. At his office, he still handles a voluminous correspondence, receives guests, and sometimes surprises visitors by conducting them on a tour of the library.

Saturday is just like any other day, and Truman often works in his office on Sundays, too.

The girls in the office work only five days a week but I work seven," he says.

One of the bigger jobs he has tackled recently is a series of 26 half-hour television shows to portray the major events of his nearly eight years as president. He will appear in each.

Four Los Angeles Quakes Are Reported

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Four earthquakes in five hours kept police in Los Angeles County beach communities busy telling callers:

"Yes, there has been an earthquake."

All the quakes were slight, but noisy.

The tremors came at 12:49, 2:30, 5:47 and 9:20 p.m. Tuesday. Each time the dishes rattled, hundreds of residents began calling the local police stations.

There was absolutely nothing the police could do about it, except at the hermosa beach station. The quakes caused the doors on the filing cabinets there to fly open, the officers spent the five hours alternately answering phones and shutting cabinet drawers.

The only damage reported was a broken water pipe in Manhattan Beach.

Looking At Hollywood

DAVID NIVEN CONFESSES —HE'S A BRANDO FAN

HOLLYWOOD — One of my favorite Englishmen, David Niven, was in the midst of unpacking when I got him on phone at the Bel Air hotel. "Darling," he said, "I have only 30 seconds to talk. When my wife empties the valises, it's something like the Gold Rush days. Whoops—she's stolen all the hangers, including the male ones, and there's no place to put my shirts."

"Throw them on the floor and talk," I said. "This is the first time you've been around for three years and I want to hear all." With that he was off, and keeping up with him was like trying to catch a flea on a shaggy dog.

"Well, I've done seven pictures in six different countries. Isn't that kind of the shape of things? In the old days when we made a picture about Venice, we sailed down the Grand canal on a studio's back lot. With the big screen, you can't play it false. Too many people travel these days—they insist on the real thing. It's been work, work, work, which I love.

"We'll have to go thru all this unpacking again, you know. Gregory Peck's letting us have his house while he's off to Europe to make a picture. Instead of moving in with him, we're moving in without him."

"And what are you going to do when you finally get settled?"

"My dear, you must have been out of town or something. I'm in the middle of this picture 'King of the Mountain' with Uncle Brando. Best script I've had my foot in since '80 Days.' Stanley Shapiro's written a fabulous screen play. We shot two weeks in France—and Uncle Brando and I begin here this week."

"Have you ever worked with Marlon?" I asked. "Never. Can't wait. I think he's by far the best actor on screen." "Did you think he was good in 'Mutiny'?" "Loved it! I'm a big fan of his. Hold on a minute. Darling, bring those hangers back.

Throw the shirts on the floor," I said. "Did Brando approve you?" "I don't know," said Niven. "What a part! I play a crook. I was one in 'Pink Panther.' After two or three months I'm going back to Europe to play one in 'Circus' with Duke Wayne. And then I'll play Arson Lupin—who certainly was a crook—in 'Paris 1800' for Sam Bronston. Talk to him when you go to Europe. He's the man with a whole new approach to pitcure making. His fun is getting the money together."

He paused for another session with his wife, and when I got his attention again, I asked if she'd fully recovered from that skiing accident. "The leg's perfect," said Niven. "She can't run but she walks—and she's fast with a hanger. She be skiing again in no time. We saw your friend Noel Coward a few days ago. Got a call from Cap d'Antibes and ran right over. He's playing a small part in Audrey Hepburn's picture and cutting a splendid figure at Eden Roc. He'd attended Princess Alexandra's wedding; said he was far too royal to speak to us.

"I thought I might throw him, so asked what he did the night after the wedding. 'Spent it watching television with Queen Mum and Princess Margaret,' he said. "Noel's in rare form—has about 95 projects going; is off to Australia to open his musical, has written a tremendous score for 'The Sleeping Prince,' plans a musical version of 'Blithe Spirit' and is hacking out books and articles."

Boat Speedsters Are Told to Beware

MELBOURNE, Fla. (AP)—No hotrodding on the river, says Brevard County Sheriff Leigh Wilson. To prove he means business, he has assigned a member of his county rescue patrol to tour river areas in an air boat and haul in boaters who do not observe safety rules.

"We're not going to be spoilsports but we're making certain that an inconsiderate few don't spoil boating, fishing and water skiing for average law-abiding citizens," he says.

How to Keep Well

WHITE BLOOD

Leukemia is on the increase. Radiation, including X-ray and atomic fallout, is thought to be responsible in some cases and certain viruses in others. Possibly both play a role in that the ionizing radiation makes the normal lymphoid cells more susceptible to the leukemia virus.

Meanwhile, our cancer specialists have met the threat with a group of new chemical treatments. None cure but many relieve symptoms and usually prolong life. Furthermore, there is such a variety of these agents, if there no longer is a response to one, another may prove effective for a time.

The different forms of leukemia require different treatment. Leukemia means white blood; it is cancer of the organs that manufacture blood such as the lymph glands and bone marrow. These structures produce large numbers of immature white cells that are of no value to the body; they cannot produce antibodies to fight bacteria and other chemicals to destroy viruses.

Acute leukemia resembles an acute infection and begins frequently with weakness, chills, sore throat, mouth sores, and easy bruising. It is partial to the young. Prior to the discovery of modern chemical agents, the majority of victims died within six to eight weeks. They now live a year or more. The remedies include alkylating drugs of the nitrogen mustard class, antimetabolites such as folic acid and purine antagonists, and the adrenocortical steroids of which cortisone is an example. These products interfere with the growth and development of white cells, leading to an over-all decrease in number. Symptoms are relieved and some of the products confer a sense of well being.

Chronic leukemia develops usually in men and women between 30 and 65 years of age. It is slow to start and drags on for years. The individual tires easily and becomes weak, nauseated, and dyspeptic. Pain and tenderness over bones are noted in the type that involves marrow (myelogenous), whereas swollen lymph glands are a more prominent finding in the lymphatic variety.

No drug is more effective than irradiation, X-ray, cobalt bomb, and radioactive phosphorus. The rays lower the white blood count and ease the discomfort due to pressure from the enlarged lymph glands, spleen, and liver.

Dr. Van Dellen will send leaflet on leukemia if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

WORKING WIVES DOUBLE

CHICAGO (UPI) — The percentage of working wives has doubled since 1940, an executive said Tuesday.

Willis H. Edmund, executive consultant to the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., told the 68th annual convention of the Illinois Federation of Woman's Clubs that of the record 23 million women workers today more than 12,000,000 are married and living with their husbands.

Heavy Wave of Trading Pushes Market to High

NEW YORK (AP)—A heavy wave of trading pushed the stock market toward a new 1963 high today, then gains were clipped as trading moderated early this afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon registered a substantial gain of 1.0 at 271.8 with industrials up 1.5, rails up .6, and utilities up .3.

The ticker tape ran six minutes behind transactions in a boisterous first hour which rolled up total volume of 1.64 million shares, the largest in weeks.

Steels, motors, chemicals, oils, rails, utilities, electronics, and other groups posted gains. Airlines, tobaccos, and building materials were mixed.

As the session wore on, the early advances of motors were cut back so that the group became irregular. Brokers said trading profits were being skimmed off because of the sharp rally which began yesterday.

General Motors, whose favorable dividend action boosted it yesterday to a new historic high of 73¼, opened ¼ below that on a large block of 10,300 shares, drew even to its previous close, then edged off a bit as additional profits were taken. Chrysler also eased. Ford nuged ahead fractionally.

Investment and trading interest switched to some other blue chips. Radio Corp., inspired by the latest batch of favorable reports from its annual meeting, climbed more than a point to a new high for the year.

Jersey Standard, du Pont and Union Carbide each added about a point.

American Photocopy, most active gainer of the past two sessions, also began to stall, trading about unchanged in less vigorous dealings. Xerox, whose licensing agreement with Photocopy put it to the fore, continued to rise, adding a couple of points.

Bell & Howell, down more than a point, was another profit-taking victim. Tung-Sol, off nearly a point, dropped about half of yesterday's gain. Montgomery Ward also wavered, showing a net loss of a point in the afternoon.

Gimbel advanced a point to 37 on blocks of 1,100 and 9,500 shares. Anaconda rebounded more than a point and Kennecott a fraction.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 2.97 at 721.51 which was above its 1963 closing high of 721.09 but below its 11 A.M. reading of 722.38.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were higher in moderately active trading. Stephan Co. and Microwave Associates advanced more than a point. General Plywood was about a point higher. Fractional advances were made by Scurry-Rainbow Oils, Flying Tiger, RIC Group, Mead Johnson, Creole Petroleum, Arkansas Louisiana Gas, Audio Devices, and International Stretch Products. Syntex was down a couple of points on profit taking.

Pueblo County Turkey Creek Ranch Sold

Sale of their 20,000 Turkey Creek Ranch, 19 miles northwest of Pueblo off of U.S. Highway 50, to Russell Daughenbaugh, Denver building contractor, was announced today by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zavislan.

The Zavisland had owned the Pueblo County ranch 18 years, and will remain there for the remainder of the year. The ranch adjoins two other ranches owned by Daughenbaugh, the Paradise Valley and McBride Ranches.

The Zavislans purchased the original part of the ranch from Raymond Newton, adding to it later.

Included in the ranch are 200 acres of irrigated land, on which corn, ensilage and alfalfa is grown. The area was devoted almost entirely to alfalfa last year.

The Zavislans stad they have "enjoyed a wonderful horse business" also at the ranch and also run cattle.

Improvements include an eight-room house, employees' quarters, corrals, sheds and storage.

Mr. and Mrs. Zavislan will dispose of equipment and some cattle at an auction at the ranch Saturday, May 25.

No announcement was made of the sale price.

Civic Clubs Urged To Participate In Bond Drive

A kickoff luncheon for El Paso County's part in the U. S. Savings Bonds Drive for 1963 brought 30 representatives of civic clubs together Wednesday at a luncheon at the Antlers Hotel, sponsored by the Pikes Peak Advertising Club.

Persons may get the bonds thru their bank, thru the school savings bond stamp program, or the payroll savings bond plan. Clubs who have 50 per cent of their membership buying bonds will receive special citations from the U. S. Treasury Department at the close of the campaign.

Information kits are available thru Marvin at 634-6331.

Dewey M. Smith, state director for the U. S. Savings Bond Division, Denver, an official of the U. S. Treasury Department, was present at the kickoff meeting, as was John Armstrong, El Paso County volunteer U. S. Savings Bond chairman.

Principal speaker was Gerald P. Peters of Peters, Writer & Christensen, Inc., Denver, who is state volunteer bond chairman.

The police contacted their parents, the report states but neither of them have any interest in the children's welfare. Further investigation showed the girls had been living on and off at the man's trailer with his full consent. Warning Issued In Reading Ideas Into Spring Pickup

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Bankers are cautioning today against reading too much into the spring pickup in business or into what people say they intend to do with their money.

The news has been mostly good of late. And surveys of what businessmen and consumers alike say they plan to spend have been even better.

But with their proverbial caution some bankers are warning that even if all these good things come about, it is far from adding up to a boom. And they are noting that so far most of the intentions remain just that—without many more dollars actually hitting the barrelhead.

Many Americans went too far last summer in talking about a recession that never materialized. They could go too far now in anticipating a boom that may be just as illusory.

In urging caution in interpreting recent developments, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York says in its monthly review this week, "Available data on actual business capital outlays and on orders and contract awards have not as yet shown the kind of pickup that is indicated in the surveys of spending plans."

The official survey by the Department of Commerce and Securities and Exchange Commission estimates business spending for new plant and equipment will reach $39 billion this year, up $1.8 billion from last year.

This would account for 6.8 per cent of the administration's estimate of the 1963 Gross National Product, the value of all goods and services produced. This compares with 8.5 per cent of GNP in the boom years of 1955-56. And some of the dollar rise this year must be chalked up to higher prices for plant construction and equipment.

Bankers' caution also centers on the frequent quick change in business sentiment which could trim spending plans fast if hopes built on prospects of a boom are dashed. The actual spending has not taken place yet.

Other spending plans are better backed by performance just now. Government spending at the federal, state and local levels seem sure to go on rising. Already it is a strong prop to the business recovery. Consumer spending has stayed high right along and is rising. But the gains aren't spectacular.

Consumers are the strongest prop of all. In the first quarter personal consumption spending was running at an annual rate of $369 billion, up $5.5 billion from the annual rate in the final months of 1962. More reassuring to those with goods or services to sell was the drop in the rate of personal saving. In the final months of last year individuals were adding to their savings at an annual rate of $25.8 billion. In the first three months of 1963 the rate slipped to $23.7 billion. Their disposable income after taxes had increased at a rate of $3.4 billion.

The rise in the rate of spending and the dip in the rate of saving are interpreted as showing a better feeling among consumers about the economy's prospects.

Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP)—Grain futures were mostly steady to firm today with wheat showing the only weakness in moderately active transactions on the Board of Trade.

Most of the pressure in wheat was against new crop months and was described as liquidation. All new crop months retreated after one broker was a fairly heavy seller in early dealings.

Trade in other commodities was fairly well mixed.

Estimated carlot receipts were wheat and oats 2, corn 234, barley 8, soybeans 3 and rye none.

Reds Indoctrinate Indian Prisoners

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The Chinese Communists apparently tried to indoctrinate some of their Indian army prisoners from the border war, Defense Minister Y. B. Chavan told Parliament Tuesday.

Chavan said 27 officer prisoners who returned last week had been taken on a tour of China, and "the intention must have been indoctrination."

"Counterefforts are being taken to de-indoctrinate the officers," he added.

5th Division Uses Washington State As Battleground

The State of Washington became a battleground May 5 when 40,000 Army and Air Force troops including the 5th Infantry Division from Ft. Carson converged near Yakima for Exercise Coulee Crest.

By Friday Task Force Red, the aggressor forces which include the 5th Division, established an invasion airhead with air and ground forces established near Richland, Wash.

Joint Task Force Blue's combined air and ground forces were assembled at Ft. Lewis, Wash., prepared to resist the invaders. A 4th Infantry Division battle group is in position at the east end of Yakima Ridge to hold the Red aggressors until Blue forces combat troops can prepare to assault.

Exercise Coulee Crest has as its primary mission providing the maximum opportunity for joint operations of Army and Air Force components of U.S. Strike Command.

Procedures being used by both services are being studied to determine improvements in effectiveness and rapid response. Army and Air Force will cooperate in finding targets, in neutralizing enemy positions and strong points, moving troops rapidly by air or ground and reinforcing and resupplying combat forces from distant bases.

Control and employment of nuclear weapons will be evaluated during Exercise Coulee Crest as will unconventional warfare techniques.

Fifth Division troops will have air support and be open to simulated attacks from the Tactical Air Force squadrons taking part in the massive maneuver along with 10,000 Red Devils and Carson signaleers.

Academy to Get Unger Portrait Of Billy Mitchell

A life-sire, original oil painting of air power pioneer Brig. Gen. William L. (Billy) Mitchell will be presented to the Air Force Academy Friday as a gift of General Motor's AC Spark Plug Division at Milwaukee.

Painter of the portrait is William Unger, a native of Vienna, and winner of many international awards. One of Unger's best known works, another portrait of Gen. Mitchell, hangs in the foyer of the Milwaukee Airport terminal. The field is named for the famed airman. The artist will attend the unveiling.

Richard J. Slifka, an engineer in AC's Titan Engineering section, will represent the firm's employes at the presentation. Also expected to be present are Joseph A. Anderson, vice president and general manager of the AC Spark Plug Division and Dr. B. P. Blasingame, manager of Milwaukee Division of AC; Harding Mott, president, and Frank Manley, director of the Mott Foundation of Flint, Mich.

Gen. Mitchell's sister, Mrs. Cadwalader Jones and her husband, will also attend in addition to two of the general's nieces, Mrs. Lewis E. Pillsbury and Mrs. Henry Mathers and their husbands.

Prior to the presentation ceremony Friday, the group will tour the Academy and meet Superintendent Maj. Gen. Robert H. Warren and Commandant of Cadets Brig. Gen. Robert W. Strong.

During the actual presentation, Cadet Wing Commander Sam Westbrook III will introduce Anderson. He will, in turn, introduce Slifka, the employe representative, who will make the actual presentation.

Gen. Warren will accept the portrait for the Academy.

Civil Rights Hearing Begins In Congress

By JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hearings on the administration's civil rights program begin today against a background of racial unrest in Alabama.

With news of Negro demonstrations and mass arrests in Birmingham dominating the headlines, the House Judiciary Committee takes up the first specific civil rights program offered by President Kennedy.

Strong Republican pressures for enactment of some kind of civil rights legislation are expected to help push the bill through the House, but greater difficulties will undoubtedly be encountered in the Senate.

The administration bill has three main proposals:

1. It would provide for the appointment of temporary voting referees to pass quickly on the qualifications of would-be voters. Present procedures can lead to lengthy delays.

2. It would declare that anyone with a 6th-grade education would be presumed to be literate, for purposes of voting.

3. It would extend for four years the life of the Civil Rights Commission, which is due to expire at the end of the year.

Scores of measures, some similar and others much broader, have been introduced by individual members of Congress, who will be given the first opportunity to testify at the hearings. Administration witnesses are expected to be called next week.

Republican members of the Judiciary Committee have joined to push a program of their own, which includes all the administration proposals but adds provisions to desegregate the public schools and ban discrimination against Negroes by firms doing business with the government.

The GOP sponsors have charged that Kennedy's program does not go far enough. Their insistence on a strong civil rights bill is seen by backers of the administration bill as a hopeful sign that the GOP-Southern Democratic coalition that could block any bill in the Rules Committee, will not be operative this time.

In the Senate, hearings on a bill to extend the Civil Rights Commission are due to begin later this month.

CHEERS FOR STUDENTS

UMATILLA, Fla. (AP) — At least one town in Florida is singing the praises of the vacationing college students. When Purdue University student Bob Clements brought several of his fraternity brothers home to Leesburg, Fla. with him, the boys decided to go fishing in the gulf. The students brought back 165 pounds of king mackerel and grouper—and then donated the entire catch to the Harra-Anna Crippled Children's Home here.

Students to Give Reports Analyzing Reapportionment

Six Colorado College students will deliver research reports on reapportionment in Colorado at a seminar sponsored by the Rocky Mountain Center for Education in Politics Friday in Denver.

The Colorado College students have been studying reapportionment in El Paso, Pueblo, Huerfano, Las Animas, Baca, Brent and Prowers Counties.

They spent the academic year conducting research on the problem under a grant from the RMCEP. Several other colleges and universities in the Rocky Mountains also have been conducting similar studies in other areas of Colorado and in Wyoming.

Field research conducted by Colorado College students was supervised by Professor Glenn Brooks of the political science department.

Police to Continue Use Of Lie Detectors in U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There was scarcely a ripple in the nation's police departments when President Kennedy frowned at a suggestion that lie detectors be used in the TFX fighter plane contract award controversy.

Nor was there any stir at the disclosure that Air Force files contain a report casting doubt on the present lie detector techniques.

An Associated Press survey showed that the numerous police departments who use lie detectors consider them a valuable tool in investigations and will continue to use them.

Experts in the use of the machines, however, are keenly aware of their limitations.

For example, John Charney of the Long Beach, Calif., police department said it is difficult—if not impossible — to examine sucessfully a pathological liar.

Some people, Charney added, may work themselves into believing they are telling the truth when they are lying.

"If a man thinks he saw a jet plane flying 10 feet off the ground down Long Beach Boulevard and he is tested, the machine is going to indicate that he is telling the truth."

Capt. Don A. Martin, who heads the scientific investigation division of the Los Angeles police department, said the polygraph machine—as professionals call it—is "a useful tool of investigation. We make good use of it and will continue to do so."

Lt. Lee Klingan, who is in charge of polygraph examinations for the Los Angeles police, is sold on the device but objects to the use of the term "lie detector."

"The polygraph is not a lie detector," he said. "It does not detect lies. It merely detects physiological responses. When a subject shows a strong response to a question, he is given a chance to explain the reason for his response. There may be other reasons why he responded strongly to the question other than because he was lying."

Qualified operators favor three-channel polygraph machines that measure respiration, heartbeat and skin resistance, which is affected by perspiration.

Klingan emphasized that the polygraph is only one tool of investigation and that investigators should not rely on it alone.

Klingan and the other experts stressed that the reliability of a polygraph examination depends on the kind of machine used, the qualifications of the examiner and the subject.

He said in order to detect a response that indicates a lie has been told there must be two factors present: The person must lie and he must feel guilty about it.

A subject who has lost all sense of value and has no sense of guilt over having done something wrong would not make a good subject for a polygraph examination, Klingan said.

Police chief C.M. Kelley of Kansas City says "we use lie detectors as an investigative aid and will continue to use them for that purpose. We will study anything that tends to discredit technique and try to avoid any pitfalls."

Col. Hugh H. Waggoner, superintendent of the Missouri highway patrol, said the patrol has used the polygraph machine very successfully.

"Of course," he said, "the machine itself doesn't show whether a man is innocent or guilty. It merely indicates whether he is lying. After that it is up to the officers to pin him down by further questioning. It's a matter of interrogation. We've obtained may confessions this way."

Dist. Atty. William J. Raggio of Reno, Nev., termed the lie detector "almost indispensable."

"The polygraph is only as good as the examiner who operates it," Raggio said. "Its greatest aid is in clearing people. We've used it extensively."

B.G. Ragsdale, director of the Georgia Bureau of Investigation, said the Washington developments had had "no effect whatsoever" on the use of polygraph machines by Georgia and Atlanta police.

State police in Louisiana and the highway patrol in Mississippi reported they remain sold on the value of the polygraph.

State police in New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island and Maine reported they consider lie detectors a valuable investigative aid. The machines also are used in Washington, Michigan and Illinois and no changes of procedure are planned.

In Florida, however, Police Capt. Jim Wingate of Jacksonville said he always has contended the polygraph should not be used to prove innocence or guilt without corroborating evidence because there is a need for more research.

New York police do not use the machines, but any suspect in a case may request a lie detector test, which is given by an agency independent of the police.

Chief inspector Harry Fox of the Philadelphia police department calls lie detectors a valuable investigative aid.

"Any person who takes the test must do it willingly," he added. "It's also invaluable in clearing suspected persons. It works both ways. It saves a lot of time and manpower."

Flying Housewife Lands in Suva, Fiji

SUVA, Fiij (AP)—Betty Miller of Santa Monica, Calif., landed at Nandi, Fiji, Wednesday afternoon, completing the next-to-last leg of her attempt to become the first woman to fly solo across the Pacific to Australia.

The 37-year-old flying instructor made the flight from Canton Island in 8 hours and 26 minutes.

Mrs. Miller still has about 1,400 miles to go on her 7,100-mile flight from Oakland, Calif. to Brisbane, Australia. She is delivering a twin-engine plane to a purchaser in Australia.

She plans to leave Nandi Friday for Brisbane.

She flew to Canton Monday.

The 1963 group of Mrs. America contestants average 34.5 years of age. In the first contest in 1938 the average age was 29.5 years.

Looking At Hollywood

DAVID NIVEN CONFESSES —HE'S A BRANDO FAN

HOLLYWOOD — One of my favorite Englishmen, David Niven was in the midst of unpacking when I got him on phone at the Bel Air hotel. "Darling," he said. "I have only 30 seconds to talk. When my wife empties the valises, it's something like the Gold Rush days. Whoops—she's stolen all the hangers, including the male ones, and there's no place to put my shirts."

"Throw them on the floor and talk," I said. "This is the first time you've been around for three years and I want to hear all." With that he was off, and keeping up with him was like trying to catch a flea on a shaggy dog.

"Well, I've done seven pictures in six different countries. Isn't that kind of the shape of things? In the old days when we made a picture about Venice, we sailed down the Grand canal on a studio's back lot. With the big screen, you can't play it false. Too many people travel these days—they insist on the real thing. It's been work, work, work, which I love.

"We'll have to go thru all this unpacking again, you know. Gregory Peck's letting us have his house while he's off to Europe to make a picture. Instead of moving in with him, we're moving in without him."

"And what are you going to do when you finally get settled?"

"My dear, you must have been out of town or something. I'm in the middle of this picture 'King of the Mountain' with Uncle Brando. Best script I've had my foot in since '80 Days.' Stanley Shapiro's written a fabulous screen play. We shot two weeks in France —and Uncle Brando and I begin here this week."

"Have you ever worked with Marlon?" I asked. "Never. Can't wait. I think he's by far the best actor on screen." "Did you think he was good in 'Mutiny'?" "Loved it! I'm a big fan of his. Hold on a minute. Darling, bring those hangers back.

Throw the shirts on the floor," I said. "Did Brando approve you?" "I don't know," said Niven. "What a part! I play a crook. I was one in 'Pink Panther.' After two or three months I'm going back to Europe to play one in 'Circus' with Duke Wayne. And then I'll play Arson Lupin—who certainly was a crook—in 'Paris 1800' for Sam Bronston. Talk to him when you go to Europe. He's the man with a whole new approach to pitcure making. His fun is getting the money together."

He paused for another session with his wife, and when I got his attention again, I asked if she'd fully recovered from that skiing accident. "The leg's perfect," said Niven. "She can't run but she walks—and she's fast with a hanger. She be skiing again in no time. We saw your friend Noel Coward a few days ago. Got a call from Cap d'Antibes and ran right over. He's playing a small part in Audrey Hepburn's picture and cutting a splendid figure at Eden Roc. He'd attended Princess Alexandra's wedding; said he was far too royal to speak to us.

"I thought I might throw him, so asked what he did the night after the wedding. 'Spent it watching television with Queen Mum and Princess Margaret,' he said. "Noel's in rare form—has about 95 projects going; is off to Australia to open his musical, has written a tremendous score for 'The Sleeping Prince,' plans a musical version of 'Blithe Spirit' and is hacking out books and articles."

Boat Speedsters Are Told to Beware

MELBOURNE, Fla. (AP)—No hotrodding on the river, says Brevard County Sheriff Leigh Wilson. To prove he means business, he has assigned a member of his county rescue patrol to tour river areas in an air boat and haul in boaters who do not observe safety rules.

"We're not going to be spoilsports but we're making certain that an inconsiderate few don't spoil boating, fishing and water skiing for average law-abiding citizens," he says.

Centennial Wins

Terrors to Host Colts In Try for Third Place

Centennial's Bulldogs, refusing to wilt under Wasson's determined bid for a second straight South Central League baseball championship, pushed the conference race to the wire Wednesday afternoon by whipping Pueblo Central, 8-1, and moving within a half-game of the leaders.

The Thunderbirds are now faced with the necessity of winning both ends of a Saturday doubleheader in Trinidad to be assured of an outright title. Centennial has only a home contest with Palmer next Tuesday remaining on its schedule. If Wasson sweeps the Trinidad twin bill, the T-Birds will win the crown; if the T-Birds split Centennial will have a chance to tie for the title; and if Wasson should lose both games in the southern city, the Bulldogs will have a chance to win the championship outright.

Meanwhile Palmer launches a late season drive for a first division berth when the Terrors host Pueblo South at Joseph Erps Field at 3:45 p.m. Friday. South, Central, Palmer, and Trinidad all have a chance at the third place spot which the Colts currently hold by a half-game.

Central completed its league season with the Centennial loss and a final 5-7 record. Palmer, currently 4-6, would have to win both of its final games to capture third place outright. On the other hand, if South defeats the Terrors Friday, the Colts will have clinched the third spot.

Coach Jerry Hughes has southpaw Ron Cheek rested and ready for a starting assignment but may elect to go with Ted Jones, his top hurler. Jones, 5-4 for the campaign, turned back Cheyenne Mountain 9-5 Tuesday in a route-going effort and a week previous to that he shutout Central on three hits, 5-0.

Palmer has had an up-and-down season. The Terrors started slowly but picked up steam early in the league race and were challenging rival Wasson for first place at one point. Then came a disasterous mideseason slump which dropped the team out of contention but the Tribe has now rebounded with three straight victories to even the season mark at 8-8.

The Terrors face South with a heavy-hitting lineup that has produced a team batting average of .304. Rightfielder Jeff Hughes leads with a .472 mark, followed by Chuck Reinking who is hitting at .458, Pat Berkheim at .341 and Jerry Golden at .309.

South will probably go with Ed Cervantes who has been the most successful pitcher for the Colts this season. The curve-balling righthander has tossed some strong games but has generally suffered from lack of support by by his teammates. Cervantes downed Palmer 1-0 on four hits in the first meeting of the two teams.

Tigers Down Miners Again; Travel to Greeley Friday

Colorado College's Tigers head into a "lion's den" Friday when one of the school's most successful baseball teams in recent years travels to Greeley for the first of a home-and-home series with perennial Rocky Mountain Conference champions, Colorado State College.

CC returns home to wind up the campaign in a rematch with CSC at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Wednesday afternoon at Golden the Tigers picked up their fourth conference win of the season as Gus Hart slugged a ninth-inning home run to boost the Springs' club past Mines, 4-3. It was the third straight time CC has whipped the Orediggers.

Mike Irsfield, the team's most realiable pitcher in recent years, hurled the victory, allowing 11 hits but giving up only a single base on balls.

Mines opened the scoring in the first frame when Paul Breneke doubled home Jerry Jergenson. The Tigers then tied the score in the second and went ahead with two runs in the fourth.

It stayed like that until Mines pushed across a pair in the bottom of the eighth to knot the score and set the stage for Hart's game-winner in the top of the ninth.

Coach Tony Frasca will probably go with Jeff Sauer in Friday's game at Greeley and come back with Irsfield in the closer Saturday afternoon.

Classy Field Enters Collegiate Golf

By LOY HOLMAN

Gazette Telegraph Sports Editor

More often than not over the past 15 years, golf buffs of the Pikes Peak Region have taken a sneak peek at the National Collegiate champion thru the play of most of the classiest squads in the country in the Invitational Tournament held here each May.

The Midwest and Southwest traditionally boosts the top golfers in the collegiate circles — tomorrow's stars of the professional circuit — and one of the true testing grounds for these teams and individuals has been the Colorado College Invite.

Starting last year and continuing this weekend, Colorado College joined forces with the Air Force Academy in acting as co-hosts for this annual tourney. In doing so, the name of the tournament was changed to the Pikes Peak Intercollegiate Invitational and they formed one of the most unique meets in the country by scheduling the tournament over two of the West's most challenging courses.

A double round of 36 holes is scheduled on the Air Force Academy's rugged Eisenhower Course, starting at 7 a.m. this Friday, and the final round of 18 holes will be played over the Broadmoor Hotel's beautiful Championship layout on Saturday with the same starting time.

This year a record field of 20 or more teams is expected to enter, which could produce some record-breaking golf. Oklahoma State of the Big Eight Conference is the defending titlist in the University Division and is favored to repeat. Co-host Colorado College will try to make it two straight crowns in the College Division.

Teams entered represent most of the Western states and this year every team in the powerful Big Eight will be here, with the exception of Missouri. Aside from Oklahoma State and the co-hosts, other schools to be here include Colorado University, Iowa State, Kansas, Nebraska, New Mexico, New Mexico State, Arizona, Arizona State, West Texas State, Utah, Brigham Young, Wyoming, Denver, Adams State College, Colorado State University, Eastern New Mexico and Ft. Lewis A and M.

To show the high caliber of play by the individuals entered, last year's winner Labron Harris, Jr., went on to win the National Amateur and finished as the top amatuer in the Masters Tournament earlier this season.

It's been predicted that Harris, the son of the Oklahoma State coach, will become one of the great golf stars of the future.

Harris' sensational 69 in the afternoon round on the Eisenhower Course last year set a course record to shoot at, and it was considered even more remarkable since tees were pushed back to the maximum and pin placements were in difficult spots.

Some of the other top name players who have participated in this tournament in the past include Jackie Cupit, Billy Maxwell and Don January — now all on the pro circuit.

Besides Oklahoma State, other contenders for the team title will be New Mexico, West Texas State and Colorado. The Air Force squad rates a definite darkhorse role, especially since the Falcons will be playing two rounds on their home course on Friday. Just last week the AFA stunned previously unbeaten Colorado University in a match that was highlighted by Cadet Roy Arnold's upset of Ray Pierson, CU's defending state amateur champion.

In Friady's action-filled double round, golfers will be started from four different holes on the Academy course. This will expedite the play in what should be a frantic finish to wind up before dark with 115 individuals playing at the same time. After Saturday's single round there will be an awards banquet held at the Broadmoor Clubhouse.

Wednesday, the co-hosts, Colorado College and the Air Force Academy, warmed up for their big tournament by playing each other over the Broadmoor links.

The CC linksters ganied sweet revenge for an earlier loss to the Falcons by whipping the Academy, 8-4. It was only the AFA's third loss in 16 matches this season. CC's Bob Heiny led both teams with an even-par 72, the best round by a collegiate golfer on the Broadmoor course this season.

Results of the AFA-CC match follow:

MATCH RESULTS

Springs Teams Rate High in SCL

By TOM CUSHMAN

Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

PUEBLO — Palmer and Wasson open what should be strong bids for the South Central League track and field championship at the Centennial oval here Friday afternoon with preliminaries in the sprints, hurdles, 440 dash, and discus beginning at 3:30.

Competition is to continue Saturday morning at 10 with semifinals in the dashes and hurdles and prelims in the shot put and broad jump. Finals will then be run starting at 1:30 p. m. Saturday.

The two local schools are expected to battle it out with Pueblo Central and defending champion Pueblo South for the 1963 crown. South, winner the past two seasons, rates no better than a dark horse as the Colts do not appear to have the all around strength to capture top honors. Going into the Friday competition, Palmer and Central are considered the top favorites with Wasson close behind.

All three of the top teams have impressive records behind them. Central was second in the Centennial Invitational last month and won the Tiger Relays at LaJunta last Saturday as well as the city title in Pueblo. Wasson captured the championship of the Pikes Peak Relays in Colorado Springs while Palmer was second in that same meet and finished second in the CSU Invitational at Fort Collins last Saturday.

A number of top athletes will be on hand, including sprinters Jim Sanford of Pueblo South, Gene Small of Palmer, and Vernon Dickey of Grand Junction. Small has a 10.0 clocking to his credit and Dickey and Sanford have both run 9.9.

Wasson's Chuck Stuart, who holds one-fifth of the state pole vault record, vaulters Gene Shumard of Grand Junction and Bob McCoy of Palmer, shot-putter Bob Stanley of Wasson, broad-jumper Charlie Newton of Palmer, miler Jeff Berven of Wasson, and discus-thrower Mike Sorrell of Wasson all rank among the state's best in their specialties.

Following is a resume of the field events and relays. The other track events were reviewed Wednesday.

WEIGHTS — (Records: Shot Put, 49-9¾ by Walt Milliron of Colorado Springs High School, 1957; Discus, 150-3 by Gene Shew of Trinidad, 1941) Wasson could dominate these events and it will be almost necesary for the Thunderbirds to do so if they hope to win the championship. Stanley will be the favorite in the shot put with Gregg Holmes of Grand Junction and Bill Gobin of Pueblo South the top challengers. Stanley at 54-6 and Holmes at 52-4 are the only two who have done better than 50 feet but the competition should be enough that the winner will break the record. Dan Greiner of South, Pat Rollison of East, and Milt Frank of Centennial are others who should be in the running.

It is in the discus where Wasson has its best change to fatten up but the Thunderbird stars have been inconsistent, even for this inconsistent event. Mike Sorrell has a toss of better than 166, Stanley better than 157 and they should place one-two. Chuck Stuart and Rich Bishop give the 'Birds two others capable of placing. Fred Gloss of Palmer, Jim Shiner of East, Gobin of South, Holmes of Junction, and Gary Gehlhoff of Central will try to cut into the Wasson total. The record should fall if either Sorrell or Stanley has a good day.

BROAD JUMP — (Record: 23-2¼ by Doug Dienelt of Wasson, 1962) Charlie Newton of Palmer will be the favorite with Sanford favored for the runner-up alsot. Newton has one jump of over 23 feet and could get the record. Sanford did 22-8 early in the season but hasn't approached it since. Dominic Flacco of Wasson, who has done over 21 feet on two or three occasions, could give his team a boost here by getting out again Saturday. Alan Maury of East, Jim Mangino of Trinidad, Sam Butler of Centennial, and Gene Sanders of South are other top challengers.

HIGH JUMP — (Record: 6-4½ by Don Meyers, Colorado Springs High School, 1958) Probably the weakest of the events this year, the high jump should be wide open Saturday. Harold Williams and Jim Soldano of Central may be the two best but Butler of Centennial, Ernie Gonzales of East, Dennis Rice of Palmer, Mike Martin of Wasson, and Gary Gordon of South are all capable of scoring points. No one figures to come close to the record.

POLE VAULT — (Record: 13-1¼ by Duane Wittwer, Grand Junction, 1962) As has been the case thruout the year in Colorado, this figures to be a feature event. Stuart (13-2) and Gene Shumard (13-0) of Grand Junction figure as favorites but McCoy (12-7) and Gehlhoff (12-6) will make it interesting. Charles Brass of South, Neil Farr of East, and Norm Murray of Palmer should fight for what's left over by the top four. The record could go.

RELAYS — (Records: 880 Relay, 1:33.1 by Pueblo South, 1962; Mile Relay, 3:27.6 by Colorado Springs High School, 1959) Palmer will be favored in both relay events and could set records in each. If Sanford does not run the quarter and goes on the 880 relay team instead, South will give the Terrors a stiff battle there. So will Junction, Central, and possibly Trinidad with Wasson and East capable of placing.

In the mile event the Terrors appear to have a clear cut edge, having posted a 3:28 clocking already. Central would appear to be the runner-up choice but Wasson, with Stanley and Stuart running for the first time, broke the school record by four seconds last week and could even press the Tribe. East and Trinidad are the best bets for the other two places.

Tiger Tennis Team Defends Crown Here

Colorado College puts its Rocky Mountain Conference title on the line this weekend in the RMC championships — but the defendin champs will keep a hand on the trophy eager to keep the cup in the rustic confines of Cossitt Hall.

The matches at the Garden of the Gods Club courts will start with singles play at 9 a.m. Friday and continue thruout the day. The singles semi-finals are set for 2 p.m. Friday with the finals in this divisions scheduled for 10:30 a.m. to noon on Saturday.

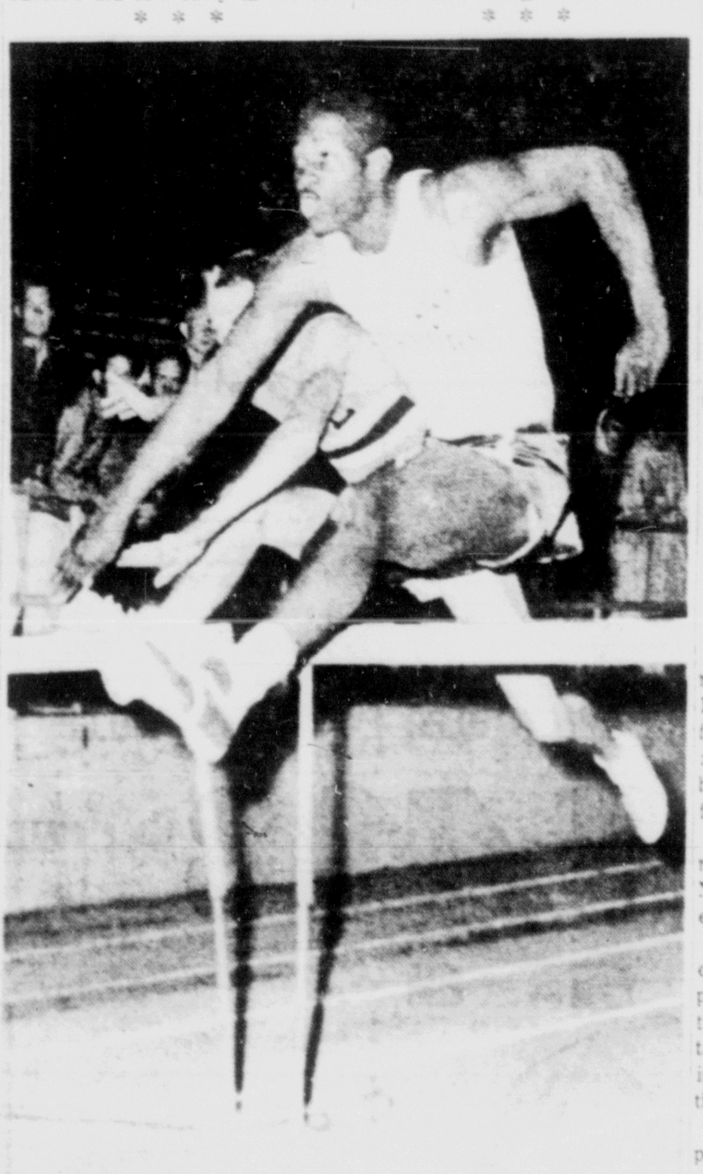
The doubles matches will be on Saturday, starting in the morning and ending that afternoon. All matches are open to the public without admission charge, according to CC Coach Pete Peterson, who is in charge of the tournament.

"We look like the logical choice to win the championship again," Peterson said. The Bengals won the title by a lopsided margin in 1962. Overwhelming their nearest opponent, Adams State College, by 16 points. Another victory this year would be the second consecutive tennis crown for the Bengal netters and would entitle them to representation in the NCAA tournament this fall.

However, Peterson pointed out that the conference is no push-over this year. Both Colorado Mines and Adams State have much improved teams over last year. Despite the Tigers' 8-1 victory over Mines and 6-0 win over Adams State last Saturday, Peterson looks for a tough struggle in the championship play. The Bengals have won seven and lost three this season. They have not been defeated in Rocky Mountain Conference competition.

Peterson said the tournament probably will break down into a red-hot race for the singles championship. Prime contenders, he said, are Russ Sperry, Colorado College's defending champion, and Cy Dyer, CC's promising new freshman.

The other conference members are expected to court excellent men for the singles contest. Among the most outstanding, Peterson pinpointed Rick Aquino, Colorado State College's senior veteran from Kapaa, Kauai, Hawaii; Adams State's Tim Choy; and Mines' Gary Gantner, Covina, California, and Roger Hermans, Junior titleholder from the Principality of Monaco.



CARRIES TERROR HURDLE HOPES — Bobby Joe Williams, shown here winning the high hurdles race in a recent quadrangular meet at Wasson Stadium, will team with Dave Steward to give the Tribe a potent one-two punch in the hurdle events at the South Central League track meet in Pueblo Friday and Saturday. Palmer and Wasson are favored to battle it out with Pueblo Central for the conference crown.

St. Mary's Honors Athletes At Lettermen's Banquet

Athletes of four major sports were honored Wednesday night for their participation in baseball, football, track and basketball at the annual St. Mary's High School lettermen's banquet at the Alamo Hotel.

Richie Jewett, the fleet-footed triple threat athlete, was presented with the Most Outstanding Athlete trophy by Jim Kelly, president of the St. Mary's Men's Club, the sponsor of the awards and backer of the sports program at the parochial school.

Tom Gleeson was presented the Dave Knauf Memorial trophy by Mayor Harry Hoth and owner of KRDO, the donator of the annual lineman award. Lynn McCann and Jim McKinna were presented trophies for the most outstanding girl and boy in extra-curricular activities.

The Pirate coaches, school officials, athletes, and rooters were captivated by the featured speaker, George Ireland, coach of Loyola of Chicago basketball team.

This past season Ireland led his Ramblers to the National Collegiate Athletic Association basketball title in an upset victory over Cincinnati in the finals at Louisville, Ky. Since that time the Chicago mentor has been in great demand all over the country as a speaker before all types of athletic groups.

Father Leo Kennedy, athletic director at St. Mary's, acted as master of ceremonies and introduced the successor to the late Ed Murphy, who died April 20. Dan Wright will take over duties as head basketball coach and told the audience he expected big things for next year's team.

Men's Baseball League Teams Need Sponsors

The 1963 Men's Baseball League is being organized with four teams expressing interest in joining the program at this time. Plans call for at least a four team league with a maximum of eight teams. All games in the Men's League will be played at night in Memorial Park.

Many of the teams being formed are in the need of sponsors. Sponsors of a team are asked to furnish the entry fee which pays for the cost of umpires and league trophies. Entry fee for the first round of competition as been set at $55. Persons interested in the possibility of sponsoring a team may contact the city Recreation Division, 634-4881, for information and details.

Plans are being made for practice under lights before the leauge starts. The league will get under way during the first week of June. A final organizational meeting of the league will be held on Tuesday, May 14, at 7:30 p.m. in the Memorial Park Recreation Center. At this time, the teams must have the first round entry fee in order to enter the league.

Big Eight Teams Tune For Meet

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG

Associated Press Sports Writer

Colorado athletes had the best marks in seven events today as Big Eight track teams tuned up for the conference championships at Manhattan, Kan., May 17-18, but this doesn't make the Buffaloes the favorites.

Oklahoma State had the best marks in three events; Missouri, Nebraska and Kansas State in two each and Kansas in one.

Missouri, Nebraska's indoor champions and O-State rate on a par with the Buffs in depth and talent. All four have a chance to take it all and Kansas could break into the first four. Oklahoma won the 1962 crown.

Colorado would need all-winning performances from a small crew of top athletes headed by Jim Miller, Bob Griffith and Leander Durley. Miller has the best time of the current outdoor season in both the 120-year high hurdles, with 14.1 and the 330-yard hurdles, with 36.6.

Durley has the best triple jump mark at 47-10¾ and the top high jump of the season at 6-8¾. But he faces a talent-packed field in each event, including Larry Eilert of Iowa State, defending high jump champion.

Bob Griffith of the Buffs, turned in an outstanding double against Nebraska and Air Force last Saturday, taking the mile in 4:09.6 and the 880 in 1:53.8. In the mile he defeated Mike Fleming, defending outdoor Big Eight champion at 4:08.1 last year.

Other defending champions returning are Richard Inman, Oklahoma, in the shot put; Greg Pelster, Missouri, 880; and Preston Holsinger, O-State, pole vault. Pelster has the best seasonal time in his specialty, 1:50.4, with unofficial relay carries down to 1:47.5. Holsinger is best in the pole vault at 15-5. Inman, slowed by an injury, is second to Yul Yost of Kansas so far.

Most records in at least five events will be in jeopardy. Pat McNeal twice has surpassed the mile record of 4:06.2, with a best market of 4:05.3. McNeal, Fleming and Griffith should bring down the mile mark.

The triple jump is a new addition to the meet this season, the three mile replaces the two mile and the 330 hurdles replace the 220 hurdles.

Here are the season's best marks, excluding relay carries: 440 relay — 41.1 by Colorado; mile run — 4:05.3 by McNeal; 440 — 46.9 by Charles Strong of O-State; 100 — 9.5 by Ray Knaub, Nebraska; 120 high hurdles — 14.1 by Miller; 880 — 1:50.4 by Pelster; 220 — 20.8 by Dick Burns, Colo; three-mile — 14:41.1 by Roy Bryant, Missouri; 330 hurdles — 36.6 by Miller; Mile relay — 3:12.2 by Colo; pole vault — 15-5 by Holsinger; high jump — 6-8¾ by Durley; shot put — 57-8 by Yost; Javelin — 237-4 by Bill Floerke, -State; discus — 173-8 by John Anderson, O-State; broad jump — 23-10½ by Victor Brooks, Neb; triple jump — 47-10¾ by Durley.

Umpires Meeting For Softball Set Tonight

The second meeting of the year of the Pikes Peak Chapter, International Federation of Amateur Softball Association Umpires has been called for by president Joe Jividen at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, May 9, at the Memorial Park Recreation Center. The first meeting was held on May 2, 1963, for the purpose of discussing requirements for the coming season.

Officers for the current year will be elected at the Thursday meeting so all members are urged to attend. Copies of the by-laws of the Association will be distributed to members and rules of the Industrial and City Leagues will be discussed.

There are several openings for umpires in the leagues, according to Jividen, and newcomers to the region who have had some experience in officiating softball are urged to attend the meeting and apply for membership. Tests will be made available by the Association for those not now registered with the Amateur Softball Association.

Musial Breaks Ruth's Record

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Babe Ruth's career high of 1,356 extra base hits went out of baseball's record books Wednesday night when Stan Musial walloped a fourth inning homer against the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The wallop gave the St. Louis Cardinal star a total of 1,357 extra base hits, breaking the tie he gained last week with the old time Yankee slugger.

Musial now holds or shares 42 National League records and 15 major league marks.

Fountain Junior High Track Meet Set for Saturday

Seven teams are slated to compete in the Fountain Junior High School Invitational track and field meet this Saturday.

Competing in the three grade sections (seventh, eighth and freshmen) will be Canon City, Florence, Air Academy High, St. Mary's, Cheyenne Mountain, and the host team. There will be nearly 500 youngsters competing in the one-day meet.

Nicklaus, Palmer Favored As Colonial Gets Underway

There are 61 professionals, including six former Colonial champions, and five amateurs, including national champion Labron Harris Jr., playing in the seventeenth Colonial.

Nicklaus, the National Open champion who has won three tournaments this year, including the Masters, and leads the money-winners by $20,000, is the favorite as a matter of course. But Palmer, who won last year in a playoff with Johnny Pott, and a half-dozen others are rated good chances of rushing past Jack to grab the $12,000 first money.

That the par 70, 7,021-yard Colonial course can be had was demonstrated in a pro-amateur Wednesday when six players blistered par. Bob Charles, the New Zealand southpaw, cut out a 4-under-par 66, only a stroke over the course record, in leading the way.

Don January, Mike Souchak and Gary Player all had 68's.

Nicklaus and Palmer shot lackluster 74's.

Former Colonial champions in the field are Palmer, Doug Sanders, Julius Boros, Tommy Bolt, Cary Middlecoff and Souchak. Also, only one member of the top 10 money winners is missing. He is Billy Casper, rated No. 5 on the list, who is out with an injury.

The 72-hole tournament runs through Sunday.

Heavy Wave of Trading Pushes Market to High

NEW YORK (AP)—A heavy wave of trading pushed the stock market toward a new 1963 high today, then gains were clipped as trading moderated early this afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon registered a substantial gain of 1.0 at 271.8 with industrials up 1.5, rails up .6 and utilities up .3.

The ticker tape ran six minutes behind transactions in a boisterous first hour which rolled up total volume of 1.64 million shares, the largest in weeks.

Steels, motors, chemicals, oils, rails, utilities, electronics and other groups posted gains. Airlines, tobaccos and building materials were mixed.

As the session wore on the early advances of motors were cut back so that the group became irregular. Brokers said trading profits were being skimmed off because of the sharp rally which began yesterday.

General Motors, whose favorable dividend action boosted it yesterday to a new historic high of 73¼, opened ¼ below that on a large block of 10,300 shares, drew even to its previous close, then edged off a bit as additional profits were taken. Chrysler also eased. Ford nuzed ahead fractionally.

Investment and trading interest switched to some other blue chips. Radio Corp., inspired by the latest batch of favorable reports from its annual meeting, climbed more than a point to a new high for the year.

Jersey Standard, du Pont and Union Carbide each added about a point.

American Photocopy, most active gainer of the past two sessions, also began to sta[illegible] trading about unchanged in less vigorous dealings. Xerox, whose licensing agreement with Photocopy put it to the fore, continued to rise, adding a couple of points.

Bell & Howell, down more than a point, was another profit-taking victim. Ling-Temco-Vought, off nearly a point, dropped about half of yesterday's gain. Montgomery Ward also wavered, showing a net loss of a point in the afternoon.

Gimbel advanced a point to 37 on [illegible] of [illegible] and [illegible] shares. Anaconda rebounded more than a point and Kennecott a fraction.

The Dow Jones industrial aver[illegible] age at noon was up 2.97 at 721.51 which was above its 1963 closing high of 721.09 but below its 11 A.M. reading of 722.38.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were higher in moderately active trading. Stephan Co. and Microwave Associates advanced more than a point. General Plywood was about a point higher. Fractional advances were made by Scurry-Rainbow Oils, Flying Tiger, RIC Group, Mead Johnson, Creole Petroleum, Arkansas Louisiana Gas, Audio Devices, and International Stretch Products. Syntex was down a couple of points on profit taking.

Pueblo County Turkey Creek Ranch Sold

Sale of their 20,000 Turkey Creek Ranch, 19 miles northwest of Pueblo off of U.S. Highway 50, to Russell Daughenbaugh, Denver building contractor, was announced today by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zavislan.

The Zavislans had owned the Pueblo County ranch 18 years, and will remain there for the remainder of the year. The ranch adjoins two other ranches owned by Daughenbaugh, the Paradise Valley and McBride Ranches.

The Zavislans purchased the original part of the ranch from Raymond Neaton, adding to it later.

Included in the ranch are 200 acres of irrigated land, on which corn, ensilage and alfalfa is grown. The area was devoted almost entirely to alfalfa last year.

The Zavislans said they have enjoyed a wonderful horse business as of the ranch and also run cattle.

Improvements include an eight-room house, employes' quarters, corrals, sheds and storage.

Mr. and Mrs. Zavislan will dispose of equipment and some cattle at an auction at the ranch Saturday, May 25.

No announcement was made of the sale price.

Civic Clubs Urged To Participate In Bond Drive

A kickoff luncheon for El Paso County's part in the U.S. Savings Bonds Drive for 1963 brought 30 representatives of civic clubs together Wednesday at a luncheon at the Antlers Hotel, sponsored by the Pikes Peak Advertising Club.

The bond drive, known as "Operation Sugar Bowl," began May 1 and will continue thru July 4. George Marvin, public service committee chairman for the Ad Club, distributed information kits on U.S. Savings Bonds to the club representatives.

Each civic club in the area is urged to participate in the bond drive by getting members to buy an extra bond during the drive. Persons may get the bonds thru their bank, thru the school savings bond stamp program, or the payroll savings bond plan. Clubs who have 50 per cent of their membership buying bonds will receive special citations from the U.S. Treasury Department at the close of the campaign.

Information kits are available thru Marvin at 634-6331.

Dewey M. Smith, state director for the U.S. Savings Bond Division, Denver, an official of the U.S. Treasury Department, was present at the kickoff meeting as was John Armstrong, El Paso County volunteer U.S. Savings Bond chairman.

Principal speaker was Gerald P. Peters of Peters, Writer & Christensen Inc., Denver, who is state volunteer bond chairman.

Morals Charge Filed In District Court

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Bankers are cautioning today against reading too much into the spring pickup in business or into what people say they intend to do with their money.

The news has been mostly good of late. And surveys of what businessmen and consumers alike say they plan to spend have been even better.

But with their proverbial caution some bankers are warning that even if all these good things come about, it is far from adding up to a boom. And they are noting that so far most of the intentions remain just that—without many more dollars actually hitting the barrelhead.

Many Americans went too far last summer in talking about a recession that never materialized. They could go too far now in anticipating a boom that may be just as illusory.

In urging caution in interpreting recent developments, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York says in its monthly review this week:

"Available data on actual business capital outlays and on orders and contract awards have not as yet shown the kind of pickup that is indicated in the surveys of spending plans."

The official survey by the Department of Commerce and Securities and Exchange Commission estimates business spending for new plant and equipment will reach $39 billion this year, up $1.8 billion from last year.

This would account for 6.8 per cent of the administration's estimate of the 1963 Gross National Product, the value of all goods and services produced. This compares with 8.5 per cent of GNP in the boom years of 1955-56. And some of the dollar rise this year must be chalked up to higher prices for plant construction and equipment.

Bankers' caution also centers on the frequent quick change in business sentiment which could trim spending plans fast if hopes built on prospects of a boom are dashed. The actual spending has not taken place yet.

Other spending plans are better backed by performance just now. Government spending at the federal, state and local levels seem sure to go on rising. Already it is a strong prop to the business recovery. Consumer spending has stayed high right along and is rising. But the gains aren't spectacular.

Consumers are the strongest prop of all. In the first quarter personal consumption spending was running at an annual rate of $369 billion, up $5.5 billion from the annual rate in the final months of 1962. More reassuring to those with goods or services to sell was the drop in the rate of personal saving. In the final months of last year individuals were adding to their savings at an annual rate of $25.8 billion. In the first three months of 1963 the rate slipped to $23.7 billion. Their disposable income after taxes had increased at a rate of $3.4 billion.

The rise in the rate of spending and the dip in the rate of saving are interpreted as showing a better feeling among consumers about the economy's prospects.

Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP)—Grain futures were mostly steady to firm today with wheat showing the only weakness in moderately active transactions on the Board of Trade.

Most of the pressure in wheat was against new crop months and was described as liquidation. All new crop months retreated after one broker was a fairly heavy seller in early dealings.

Trade in other commodities was fairly well mixed.

Estimated carlot receipts were wheat and oats 2, corn 234, barley 8, soybeans 3 and rye none.

Willie Davis Gives Dodgers New Push

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

One of the Los Angeles Dodgers' big concerns this season has been the hitting slump of Tommy Davis, who led the National League with a .346 average and 153 runs batted in last season. He's been hampered by leg injuries and is hitting only .227.

But Willie Davis, sometimes called the other Davis, suddenly has taken up the slack. In the last four games, Willie's had seven hits in 15 times at bat and has driven in five runs.

It's no coincidence that the Dodgers have won three of the four, including an 11-5 decision over St. Louis Wednesday night. Willie had two homers and a triple in that one, driving in three runs and scoring the one that broke a 5-5 tie.

San Francisco opened a two-game lead atop the standings with a 12-5 victory over Milwaukee's slumping Braves. Cincinnati edged Houston 3-2, the Chicago Cubs bombed Pittsburgh 9-5 and New York's Mets downed Philadelphia 3-2.

Willie Davis' triple triggered a five-run eighth inning that broke a 5-5 tie at St. Louis. He scored on an error. Junior Gilliam wrapped it up later in the inning with a three-run homer.

The Cardinals' Stan Musial also had a homer, breaking Babe Ruth's major league record for extra base hits. Musial now has 1,357 extra base hits.

The Giants, who have won eight of their last nine, rushed in seven runs on five hits and a couple of errors in the fourth inning at Milwaukee and breezed in. It was Milwaukee's fifth straight loss. Willie McCovey homered for the Giants, Frank Bolling for the Braves.

Veteran lefty Joe Nuxhall scattered seven hits in pitching the Reds past Houston.

The Cubs struck for four runs in the eighth inning, triggered by Nelson Mathews' homer, broke a 5-5 tie and went on to beat the Pirates.

Jay Hook struck out 10, allowed only four hits and set up New York's winning run with a ninth inning double against Philadelphia. Ed Kranepool's blooping double scored Rod Kanehl, running for Hook.

Johansson Thinks He'll Hang Up Gloves for Good

Johansson, the blond Swede who shocked the boxing world with his knockout of Floyd Patterson in their title bout in 1959, told newsmen Wednesday that he has not yet made a final decision, but said he thought his rating was no longer high enough to bring him opponents who would make it worth while to continue.

In the latest ratings, he was ranked fourth by Ring magazine and sixth by the World Boxing Association among contenders for Sonny Liston's title.

He won his last fight, a 12-round decision over England's Brian London April 21 in Stockholm, but was saved by the bell. He was knocked down in the final seconds and appeared to have little chance of recovering in the space of a 10 count.

Angels' Eli Grba Sent to Minors

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Pitcher Eli Grba, the first player drafted by the Los Angeles Angels in 1960 for $75,000, has been sent down to the minors.

The 6-foot-3, 215-pound right-hander was shipped Wednesday to Hawaii of the Pacific Coast League on 24-hour recall. The Angels also cut pitcher Ron Moeller and infielder Tom Satriano to reduce their roster to 24.

Grba, an ex-Yankee, pitched the opening games for Los Angeles in 1961 and 1962. He had an 11-13 record in 1961 and was 8-9 last season. This year he had a 1-1 record and had appeared in only 8 1-3 innings in seven games.

BATTING—Willie Davis, Dodgers, hit two homers, and tripled in eighth inning, scoring the tie-breaking run as Los Angeles went on to wallop St. Louis 11-5.

PITCHING—Don Rudolph, Senators, allowed only one hit for 12 innings while retiring 25 batters in order, and wound up with a four-hitter in 6-3, 13-inning victory over Cleveland.

Hypnotic Comeback

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Last winter fans, teammates and University of Utah coach Jack Gardner were electrified at the amazing comeback of Allen Holmes, who had been told he'd never play basketball again because of a mangled leg.

Today Holmes gave his hypnotist most of the credit for his rise from the wheelchair.

Dr. Thomas A. Clawson, the hypnotist, said: "He wanted to play basketball. And it is necessary that the patient provide the motive."

Let's go back. Allen Holmes went from Phoenix High School to Weber Junior College at Ogden, Utah, where he won junior college All-America honors. The next year he completed a celebrated season with the University of Utah, which lost in the NCAA playoffs.

Then came the automobile accident in which his right leg was mangled. He watched the next season from a wheelchair, and later on crutches. He was given his senior blanket, dropped from the roster, and supposedly forgotten.

But Holmes wanted to play. At the beginning of the 1962-63 season he began working out with the squad. The other players tolerated him and the coach pitied him, as he hobbled about the floor.

Utah, without the great center, Bill (The Hill) McGill, was in a losing season, and Coach Gardner commented one day:

"I may have to use Holmes at center. He's the best I've got."

A great ovation went up for Allen Holmes when he played his first five minutes. Then he played a full half, three quarters, and finally a full game. His comeback was phenomenal and he finished the season as the club hero.

What happened?

"I was discouraged," Holmes said. "I thought of quitting. I was lame. I could shoot off only one foot. I could not stop and start.

"Then a friend suggested that I see a friend of his."

The friend's friend was Dr Clawson, a specialist in internal medicine who also is a consultant in medical hypnosis.

Says Holmes:

"With the approval of the other doctors who had worked on my leg, Dr. Clawson and I went to work—with hypnotic treatments.

"Dr. Clawson gave me to understand that he could not give me more talent than I once had, but that he could give me the confidence to call completely upon the talent I now had.

"The coach knew nothing about it. Only one or two teammates knew what I was doing. I went when I needed help most—just before practice or before a game. Then Dr. Clawson taught me a simple thing of self-hypnosis.

"While they were playing the National Anthem and I had a few seconds of my own I would concentrate. Sometimes at halftime I would do it again—or whenever I could.

"More and more my injured right leg came back to normal use. I forgot about jumping off the wrong foot. No one blocked my shots, as they did at first. I could fake as fast as ever—and didn't have to plan a fake by favoring my sore leg.

"I never regained full use of my lame leg and possibly I never will. But I feel that I was able to get everything out of it that there was left in it. Moreover, I forgot about my handicap. It was easy. There was no pain."

Maio Takes Holy Family Job

Maio said he will become head baseball coach at Denver Holy Family School and an assistant in other sports. He has been at Trinidad one year.

Last season his basketball team posted a 9-11 won-lost record, and his football team was 5-4.

A graduate of Trinidad Catholic and Trinidad Junior College, Maio also attended Colorado State College. He later joined the faculty of Rice Junior High School in Trinidad.

Indians' Green Fined for 'Jumping' Club

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gene Green's return to the Cleveland Indians wasn't anything to write home about.

The veteran utility player was fined an undisclosed amount when he rejoined the Indians Wednesday after "jumping" the club in Los Angeles. Hours later, he appeared as a pinch-hitter against the Washington Senators and struck out.

Green's absenteeism cost him one day's pay for his failure to show up for Tuesday night's game against the Senators. It was reported he also would be docked for missing the team's plane in Los Angeles Monday.

While "holding out" in Los Angeles, Green said he was "fed up" with the Indians because Manager Birdie Tebbetts has used him only sparingly this season.

"I've only been at bat four times this season — and that's ridiculous," he declared.

SEC Joins Letter of Intent

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—The Southeastern Conference is joining five others in a national letter-of-intent program for prospective athletes.

Commissioner Bernie Moore said Wednesday the SEC is joining the Atlantic Coast, Big Eight, Big Ten, Missouri Valley and the Southwest conferences in the program.

Four other schools also are participating. They are Penn State, Syracuse, Pittsburgh and West Virginia.

The program will go into effect May 20.

Prospective athletes signing the letter-of-intent at a particular school will not be permitted to transfer to an athletic scholarship at another of the participating colleges.

Don Rudolph Hurls Brilliant Game

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Don Rudolph turned in an amazing pitching performance and Don Lock hit a grand slam homer in the 13th inning for a 6-3 Senator victory over Cleveland in Washington Wednesday night.

Rudolph allowed only one hit—a single by Tony Martinez in the fourth inning—until the 13th when he began to tire.

In between he retired 25 Indians in a row—the equivalent of pitching 8 1-3 innings of perfect ball. He wound up with a four-hitter.

While Rudolph was turning in his masterpiece, the Chicago White Sox broke one up, shelling Kansas City's Ed Rakow for eight runs in the seventh inning after he had pitched perfect ball for six innings. The 8-3 triumph over the A's moved the White Sox into the American League lead.

Baltimore belted Boston 10-4 and knocked the Red Sox out of first place, Al Kaline's two-run ninth inning homer gave Detroit a 7-6 decision over the New York Yankees and Ken Hunt's tie-breaking homer provided the Los Angeles Angels with a 4-3 triumph over Minnesota.

Rudolph was locked in a tight pitchers' duel with Jack Kralick for 12 innings.

Then, in the top of the 13th, the Indians struck for two runs on three hits—a single by Mike de la Hoz, Johnny Romano's triple and a single by Vic Davalillo. But Cleveland relievers Barry Latman and Ron Nischwitz couldn't hold the lead. Marv Breeding's single drove in one Washington run before Lock wrapped up Rudolph's third victory against two losses.

The White Sox put together their eight-run outburst on six hits, three walks and two errors. Eddie Fisher went the distance for the victory, although tagged for a ninth inning homer by Norm Siebern.

The Orioles lashed 17 hits while Steve Barber managed to keep 12 Red Sox hits well spaced. Brooks Robinson led the Baltimore attack with three singles and a double and Jim Gentile chipped in with a homer.

Kaline cracked his homer off reliever Jim Bouton after Norm Cash walked to open the last of the ninth. Tom Tresh had put the Yankees ahead 6-5 in the seventh inning with his second homer of the night. Yogi Berra and Clete Boyer also homered for New York while Jake Wood connected twice and Bubba Phillips once for Detroit.

Hunt's eighth inning homer off Jim Kaat snapped a 3-3 tie, gave the Angels the three-game series, two games to one and dropped the Twins into last place.

Students to Give Reports Analyzing Reapportionment

Six Colorado College students will deliver research reports on reapportionment in Colorado at a seminar sponsored by the Rocky Mountain Center for Education in Politics Friday in Denver.

The Colorado College students have been studying reapportionment in El Paso, Pueblo, Huerfano, Las Animas, Baca, Brent and Prowers Counties.

They spent the academic year conducting research on the problem under a grant from the RMCEP. Several other colleges and universities in the Rocky Mountains also have been conducting similar studies in other areas of Colorado and in Wyoming.

Field research conducted by Colorado College students was supervised by Professor Glenn Brooks of the political science department.

Police to Continue Use Of Lie Detectors in U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There was scarcely a ripple in the nation's police departments when President Kennedy frowned at a suggestion that lie detectors be used in the TFX fighter plane contract award controversy.

Nor was there any stir at the disclosure that Air Force files contain a report casting doubt on the present lie detector techniques.

An Associated Press survey showed that the numerous police departments who use lie detectors consider them a valuable tool in investigations and will continue to use them.

Experts in the use of the machines, however, are keenly aware of their limitations.

For example, John Charney of the Long Beach, Calif., police department said it is difficult—if not impossible — to examine sucessfully a pathological liar.

Some people, Charney added, may work themselves into believing they are telling the truth when they are lying.

"If a man thinks he saw a jet plane flying 10 feet off the ground down Long Beach Boulevard and he is tested, the machine is going to indicate that he is telling the truth."

Capt. Don A. Martin, who heads the scientific investigation division of the Los Angeles police department, said the polygraph machine—as professionals call it—is "a useful tool of investigation. We make good use of it and will continue to do so."

Lt. Lee Klingan, who is in charge of polygraph examinations for the Los Angeles police, is sold on the device but objects to the use of the term "lie detector."

"The polygraph is not a lie detector," he said. "It does not detect lies. It merely detects physiological responses. When a subject shows a strong response to a question, he is given a chance to explain the reason for his response. There may be other reasons why he responded strongly to the question other than because he was lying."

Qualified operators favor three-channel polygraph machines that measure respiration, heartbeat and skin resistance, which is affected by perspiration.

Klingan emphasized that the polygraph is only one tool of investigation and that investigators should not rely on it alone.

Klingan and the other experts stressed that the reliability of a polygraph examination depends on the kind of machine used, the qualifications of the examiner and the subject.

He said in order to detect a response that indicates a lie has been told there must be two factors present: The person must lie and he must feel guilty about it.

A subject who has lost all sense of value and has no sense of guilt over having done something wrong would not make a good subject for a polygraph examination, Klingan said.

Police chief C.M. Kelley of Kansas City says "we use lie detectors as an investigative aid and will continue to use them for that purpose. We will study anything that tends to discredit technique and try to avoid any pitfalls."

Col. Hugh H. Waggoner, superintendent of the Missouri highway patrol, said the patrol has used the polygraph machine very successfully.

"Of course," he said, "the machine itself doesn't show whether a man is innocent or guilty. It merely indicates whether he is lying. After that it is up to the officers to pin him down by further questioning. It's a matter of interrogation. We've obtained may confessions this way."

Dist. Atty. William J. Raggio of Reno, Nev., termed the lie detector "almost indispensable."

"The polygraph is only as good as the examiner who operates it," Raggio said. "Its greatest aid is in clearing people. We've used it extensively."

B.G. Ragsdale, director of the Georgia Bureau of Investigation, said the Washington developments had had "no effect whatsoever" on the use of polygraph machines by Georgia and Atlanta police.

State police in Louisiana and the highway patrol in Mississippi reported they remain sold on the value of the polygraph.

State police in New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island and Maine reported they consider lie detectors a valuable investigative aid. The machines also are used in Washington, Michigan and Illinois and no changes of procedure are planned.

In Florida, however, Police Capt. Jim Wingate of Jacksonville said he always has contended the polygraph should not be used to prove innocence or guilt without corroborating evidence because there is a need for more research.

New York police do not use the machines, but any suspect in a case may request a lie detector test, which is given by an agency independent of the police.

Chief inspector Harry Fox of the Philadelphia police department calls lie detectors a valuable investigative aid.

"Any person who takes the test must do it willingly," he added. "It's also invaluable in clearing suspected persons. It works both ways. It saves a lot of time and manpower."

Flying Housewife Lands in Suva, Fiji

SUVA, Fiji (AP)—Betty Miller of Santa Monica, Calif., landed at Nandi, Fiji, Wednesday afternoon, completing the next-to-last leg of her attempt to become the first woman to fly solo across the Pacific to Australia.

The 37-year-old flying instructor made the flight from Canton Island in 8 hours and 26 minutes.

Mrs. Miller still has about 1,400 miles to go on her 7,100-mile flight from Oakland, Calif. to Brisbane, Australia. She is delivering a twin-engine plane to a purchaser in Australia.

She plans to leave Nandi Friday for Brisbane.

She flew to Canton Monday.

The 1963 group of Mrs. America contestants average 34.5 years of age. In the first contest in 1938 the average age was 28.5 years.

New Amendments Will Not Succeed, President Thinks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy believes that a group of restrictive constitutional amendments proposed by states rights advocates will fail to win ratification, and he will "be glad when they do not."

Kennedy was asked about the amendments at his news conference Wednesday. They are advocated by the Council of State Governments.

They would declare that nothing in the constitution could prevent a state government from apportioning its legislature; let the state legislatures amend the constitution without approval of Congress or a constitutional convention, and set up a Court of the Union, made up of the 50 state chief justices, to review all U. S. Supreme Court decisions.

The apportionment amendment has been approved by 12 legislatures, the state amending proposal by 10 and the Court of the Union by four. It takes 38 states—three fourths of the total—to ratify a constitutional amendment.

San Diego Tops Denver In PCL Game

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Portland's rain didn't rust its baseball team. The Pacific Coast League Beavers, who were kept inactive for three days by the rain, came out of hibernation Wednesday to defeat the Dallas-Fort Worth Rangers twice 3-1 and 10-5.

The victories gave Portland a second place tie in the Northern Division with Seattle, which downed Oklahoma City 5-2. Tacoma kept its 1½ game lead in the division by shutting out Hawaii 4-0. Spokane edged Salt Lake City, top team in the Southern Division 2-1. And San Diego got by Denver 7-6 in the league's other contest.

Tight pitching by Bob Flynn and Moe Drabowsky, who let the Rangers have only two hits, accounted for Portland's triumph in the opener. The Beavers proved they had some sluggers in the second game, particularly in the eighth inning when they collected five runs on a walk, two doubles, a single and a home run.

Tacoma's Jerry Thomas held the Islanders to five hits in tallying his fourth win of the season. Hawaii's Fred Newman kept Tacoma under control until the fourth when the Giants scored one run after a pair of singles. Tacoma collected three more runs in the eighth.

Jerry Stephenson pitched a three-hitter for Seattle in winning his first decision of the season. The Rainiers scored all the runs they needed in the first inning when Bobby Gene Smith singled home two runs and scored himself on Jim Rivera's single.

The San Diego Padres blasted Denver with four home runs and 10 other hits in their second straight win over the Bears.

Spokane picked up its winning run in the eighth inning when John Werhas got a double out of a high pop fly that the wind kept out of the reach of two infielders. Werhas came home on Al Ferraria's single.

Chaplains Are Added to Businesses

By BOB HARING

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Fred Renfroe and Charlie Martin are chaplains of business and industry.

The Rev. Mr. Renfroe is part-time chaplain for a supermarket chain. The Rev. Mr. Martin is chaplain for an oil refinery.

Both tend to spiritual and emotional needs of employes and, though both are ordained ministers both tend to be nondenominational in their work.

Martin has been a chaplain at the Sunray DX Oil Co. refinery for 15 years. Renfroe has served employes of Jitney Jungle Stores for three years.

But their jobs are similar.

"Most of our men handle hazardous jobs," Martin says. "If their minds aren't on their work, they can seriously injure themselves and others."

Martin began with Sunray as a safety department worker 38 years ago. He studied for the ministry, then with company permission, began leading devotions during lunch hours and finally moved into a post as chaplain for the 1,350 employes.

"At one time or another, almost all of them have come to me with their problems," he says. Families of employes also take advantage of the chaplain's service. Martin meets with employes on "counsel breaks"—a few minutes away from their jobs—or answers calls at night or on week-ends.

"Many employes don't go to church, so our program is a link for them," he says, "the only church they have."

Both men give advice on such temporal matters as loans, marriages and a variety of other matters.

"Modern man must learn to break the tension of daily living or the tension will break him," Martin says.

Renfroe also is concerned about mental health. "Anxiety does not empty tomorrow of its troubles, but it robs today of its strength," he says.

The chaplains, by comforting troubled employes, provide a saving to the employers. Martin noted that a Public Health Service survey showed that industry loses $3 billion a year due to employes' emotional difficulties and another $9 billion as an indirect result of those troubles.

Renfroe, who counsels young stock boys and supermarket checkers on such things as marriage and finance, says his employers "believe their employes should work with them—not for them."

CAPITOL STUFF

By JERRY GREENE

WASHINGTON — A group of United States Military Intelligence officers is quietly boiling over a new British look which protrays Americans as a bunch of boobs swayed into World War II thru operations of the British Secret Intelliegence Service.

The officers are pushing for a congressional investigation of the now-it-can-be-told spy story and subsequent developments which, they believe, indicate the super-secret BSIS is still meddling in American foreign policy. They are particularly interested in BSIS and the touchy U.S. De Gaulle relations.

The book is entitled "Room 3603," with the subtitle, "The Story of the British Intelligence Center in New York During World War II." (Farrar, Straus and Co.) The Author is H. Montgomery Hyde, a noted British historian with a couple of dozen books to his credit. Hyde reveals himself as one of the intelligence agents during the war.

The title is taken from the wartime headquarters of the "British Security Coordination," American arm of BSIS, which were in Room 3603, at 630 5th Ave., New York. The head man was a Canadian, Sir William Stephenson, a millionaire inventor and industrialist. He was knighted for his services, given the medal of merit by former President Truman and, according to the book, still lives "in an expensive, apartment building block bordering the East River in New York.

On the surface, "Room 3603" is just another of the gee-whiz what-a-wonderful-job-we-did publications, with dashes of sex and intrigue. It is an excellent tribute to the genius of Sir William. It contains glowing accounts of the cooperation between the U. S. and the British toward winning the war; it is lavish in its praise of J. Edgar Hoover and the FBI.

It also — ever so neatly — knifes Hoover as an overly ambitious power-snatching individual quite willing to bypass legal technicalities.

The FBI declined comment on the book or its disclosures.

Most importantly, it demonstrates with names, dates and places how thoroughly BSIS penetrated the highest levels of the U. S. government to sway policy decisions.

That's the gimmick that has aroused the old-line American intelligence officers. The book was published last year in Britain under another title.

"If De Gaulle or one of his aids saw this," a U. S. intelligence officer said, "and certainly they must have — for it gives details of the theft of french codes from the embassy in Washington — then how could he help wondering about BSIS and the British influence here today? He has been given ample basis for his suspicions."

Author Hyde reveals investigative procedures which have been held sacred by military intelligence officers. He brazenly provides details of policy operations and propaganda maneuvers which are bound to hold the U.S. up to ridicule in international eyes.

In the wake of much blather about "managed news" in Washington in recent months, Hyde recites a tale of news management by BSIS in 1940-41 to curl an editor's hair — if there is any left by the time the reading is done.

If Hyde's statements are not ture, then several leading American journalists have wide-open ground for libel action, for he says that Stephenson's agents not only planted stories, but in several instances actually then wrote the copy which was printed without change under well-known American names. The author boasted of penetrating syndicates with propaganda.

He had only one reference to the New York News, and that was unfriendly, the News was termed "isolationist."

Hyde went into minute detail over planting a particular series of stories, one of which was so phony that BSIS was justified in enjoying the gullibility of the Americans. This was the week of Aug. 31, 1941, and the headlines in a New York paper (and 100 others) cried out "Vichy Agents Sought Plans of Bren Gun — Tried to get Blueprints of Weapon Defending Britain From Invasion."

This was in the midst of an elaborate campaign to discredit Vichy French representatives in Washington.

Now when the press fell for this one, almost any hardware store owner could have told an inquirer that the Bren gun was a British modification of a Czech weapon which had been on the commercial market since 1926. Besides, the Germans had long since taken over the Czech factory, they were making better weapons, and the bren wasn't worth much anybow.

"It was," Hyde's book relates, "a tremendous scoop for the—"

"While it is possibly true," the book says, "to say that most Americans are intensely suspicious of propaganda, it is certain that a great many of them are remarkably susceptible to it, even in its most patent and blatant form."

The book gives lurid details of how BSIS used a hot bed artiste, intelligence-trained, to grab a secret cipher from an Italian naval officer and then get him booted out of this country. The damsel then moved into the sheets with a French officer to steal the French codes. Hyde reported she and the officer — given the only pseudonyms in the book — are now happily married. That, presumably, was before the Frenchman read "Room 3603" and learned of his Italian predecessor.

Hyde peels off the covers to show how Stephenson moved in on the late Maj. Gen William (Wild Bill) Donovan, and on J. Edgar Hoover and thru them established a direct contact with the last President Roosevelt for a supply of secret intelligence.

An astounding revelation was that this intelligence link thru and Hoover was established with the explicit understanding that neither the U.S. military chief nor the State Department be allowed to know of the connection.

On Nov. 27, 1941, Hyde reports, Stephenson received a special message from the White House and cabled London: "Japanese negotiations off. Services expect action within two weeks."

In London, there was a great flurry and cables rocketed to the embassy here. The ambassador, Lord Halifax, was summoned from a Virginia fox hunt to report back to Downing Street that he had no such information. So Stephenson was asked by the British Cabinet for the source of his vital warning. He replied, "the President of the U.S.A."

Hyde reports that the late Secretary of State Cordell Hull gave this information to Halifax two days later.

The book did not neglect to include a snide crack at Joseph P. Kennedy, father of President Kennedy and former ambassador to the court of St. James's. Donovan was sent on a red carpet trip to England in 1940, the book recalls, and was received with flourishes by the King and Winston Churchill. Stephenson arranged the trip, and Hyde reports:

"One person Donovan did not see in London was the defeatist Ambassador Joseph Kennedy, who by a calculated snub was not advised by the White House of Donovan's tour."

The author gave Stephenson credit for dreaming up the office of Coordinator of Information and maneuvering Donovan into the top job, over his protests. The COI swelled into the Office of Strategic Services after Pearl Harbor, with Donovan continuing as chief.

A good many Amricans who did not believe that the U. S. should enter World War II will be interested in the boastful details of how the BSIS worked to discredit and wreck the old American First organization.

There are the candid facts about how BSIS printed counterfeit tickets to paper Madison Square Garden to disrupt an American First rally Oct. 30, 1941, when Charles A. Lindbergh was to speak. The scheme fell thru because the crowd was small.

But BSIS indulged lustily in U.S. elections and legislative affairs and, thinly under the sugar-coating, Hyde's book boasts of enormous successes.

It is assumed that all has been forgiven since we have been blood brothers and allies, and such.

A congressional investigation, if there should be one, would obviously get nowhere. But the American intelligence officers, who somehow have absorbed the quaint notion that the U.S. interest should still come first, are wondering why, with all its elaborate detail, this book was published with official British sanction, as it so states.

At best, it is a national insult. At worst, it could be sinister. It won't win American any friends in Paris or Rome.

Centennial Wins

Terrors to Host Colts In Try for Third Place

Centennial's Bulldogs, refusing to wilt under Wasson's determined bid for a second straight South Central League baseball championship, pushed the conference race to the wire Wednesday afternoon by whipping Pueblo Central, 8-1, and moving within a half-game of the leaders.

The Thunderbirds are now faced with the necessity of winning both ends of a Saturday doubleheader in Trinidad to be assured of an outright title. Centennial has only a home contest with Palmer next Tuesday remaining on its schedule. If Wasson sweeps the Trinidad twin bill, the T-Birds will win the crown. If the T-Birds split, Centennial will have a chance to tie for the title and if Wasson should lose both games in the southern city, the Bulldogs will have a chance to win the championship outright.

Meanwhile Palmer launches a late season drive for a first division berth when the Terrors host Pueblo South at Joseph Erns Field at 3:45 p.m. Friday. South, Central, Palmer, and Trinidad all have a chance at the third place spot which the Colts currently hold by a half-game.

Central completed its league season with the Centennial loss and a final 5-7 record. Palmer, currently 4-6, would have to win both of its final games to capture third place outright. On the other hand, if South defeats the Terrors Friday, the Colts will have clinched the third spot.

Coach Jerry Hughes has southpaw Ron Cheek rested and ready for a starting assignment but may elect to go with Ted Jones, his top hurler. Jones, 5-4 for the campaign, turned back Cheyenne Mountain 9-5 Tuesday in a route-going effort and a week previous to that he shutout Central on three hits, 5-0.

Palmer has had an up-and-down season. The Terrors started slowly but picked up steam early in the league race and were challenging rival Wasson for first place at one point. Then came a disasterous mideseason slump which dropped the team out of contention but the Tribe has now rebounded with three straight victories to even the season mark at 8-8.

The Terrors face South with a heavy hitting line that has produced a team batting average of .304. Rightfielder Jeff Hughes leads with a .472 mark, followed by Chuck Benskins who is hitting at .432, Pat Bergheim at .341 and Jerry Cowen at .339.

South will probably go with Ed Cervantes who has been the most successful pitcher for the Colts this season. The curve-balling righthander has tossed some strong games but has generally suffered from lack of support by his teammates. Cervantes blanked Palmer 3-0 on four hits in the first meeting of the two teams.

Tigers Down Miners Again; Travel to Greeley Friday

Colorado College's Tigers head into a "lion's den" Friday when one of the school's most successful baseball teams in recent years travels to Greeley for the first of a home-and-home series with perennial Rocky Mountain Conference champions, Colorado State College.

CC returns home to wind up the campaign in a rematch with CSC at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Wednesday afternoon at Golden the Tigers picked up their fourth conference win of the season as Gus Hart slugged a ninth-inning home run to boost the Springs' club past Mines, 4-3. It was the third straight time CC has whipped the Orediggers.

Mike Irsfield, the team's most realiable pitcher in recent years, hurled the victory, allowing 11 hits but giving up only a single base on balls.

Mines opened the scoring in the first frame when Paul Breneke doubled home Jerry Jergenson. The Tigers then tied the score in the second and went ahead with two runs in the fourth. It stayed like that until Mines pushed across a pair in the bottom of the eighth to knot the score and set the stage for Hart's game-winner in the top of the ninth.

Coach Tony Frasca will probably go with Jeff Sauer in Friday's game at Greeley and come back with Irsfield in the closer Saturday afternoon.

Classy Field Enters Collegiate Golf

By LOY HOLMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Editor

More often than not over the past 15 years golf buffs of the Pikes Peak Region have taken a sneak peek at the National Collegiate champion thru the play of most of the classiest squads in the country in the [illegible] Invitational Tournament held here each May.

The Midwest and Southwest traditionally boosts the top golfers in the collegiate circles — tomorrow's stars of the professional circuit — and one of the true testing grounds for these teams and individuals has been the Colorado College Invite.

Starting last year and continuing this weekend, Colorado College joined forces with the Air Force Academy in acting as co-hosts for this annual tourney. In doing so, the name of the tournament was changed to the Pikes Peak Intercollegiate Invitational and they formed one of the most unique meets in the country by scheduling the tournament over two of the West's most challenging courses.

A double round of 36 holes is scheduled on the Air Force Academy's rugged Eisenhower Course, starting at 7 a.m. this Friday, and the final round of 18 holes will be played over the Broadmoor Hotel's beautiful Championship layout on Saturday with the same starting time.

This year a record field of 20 or more teams is expected to enter, which could produce some record-breaking golf. Oklahoma State of the Big Eight Conference is the defending titlist in the University Division and is favored to repeat. Co-host Colorado College will try to make it two straight crowns in the College Division.

Teams entered represent most of the Western states and this year every team in the powerful Big Eight will be here with the exception of Missouri. Aside from Oklahoma State and the co-hosts, other schools to be here include Colorado University, Iowa State, Kansas, Nebraska, New Mexico, New Mexico State, Arizona, Arizona State, West Texas State, Utah, Brigham Young, Wyoming, Denver, Adams State College, Colorado State University, Eastern New Mexico and Ft. Lewis A and M.

To show the high caliber of play by the individuals entering, last year's winner Labron Harris Jr. went on to win the National Amateur and finished as the top amateur in the Masters Tournament earlier this season.

It's been predicted that Harris, the son of the Oklahoma State coach, will become one of the great golf stars of the future.

Harris' sensational 69 in the afternoon round on the Eisenhower Course last year set a course record to start and it was considered even more remarkable since tees were pushed back to the maximum and pin placements were in difficult spots.

Some of the other top name players who have participated in this tournament in the past include Jackie Cupit, Billy Maxwell and Don January — now all on the pro circuit.

Besides Oklahoma State, other contenders for the team title will be New Mexico, West Texas State and Colorado. The Air Force squad rates a definite dark horse role especially since the Falcons will be playing two rounds on their home course Friday. [illegible]

Wednesday, the co-hosts, Colorado College and the Air Force Academy, warmed up for the big tournament by playing each other over the Broadmoor course.

The CC linksters gained sweet revenge for an earlier loss to the Falcons by whipping the Academy, 8-4. It was only the AFA's third loss in 16 matches this season. CC's Bob Heiny led both teams with an even-par 72, the best round by a collegiate golfer on the Broadmoor course this season.

Results of the AFA-CC match follow.

Springs Teams Rate High in SCL

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

PUEBLO — Palmer and Wasson open what should be strong bids for the South Central League track and field championship at the Centennial oval here Friday afternoon with preliminaries in the sprints, hurdles, 440 dash and discus beginning at 3:30.

Competition is to continue Saturday morning at 10 with semi-finals in the dashes and hurdles and prelims in the shot put and broad jump. Finals will then be run starting at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

The two local schools are expected to battle it out with Pueblo Central and defending champion Pueblo South for the 1963 crown. South, winner the past two seasons, rates no better than a dark horse as the Colts do not appear to have the all around strength to capture top honors. Going into the Friday competition Palmer and Central are considered the top favorites with Wasson close behind.

All three of the top teams have impressive records behind them. Central was second in the Centennial Invitational last month and won the Tiger Relays at LaJunta last Saturday as well as the city title in Pueblo. Wasson captured the championship of the Pikes Peak Relays in Colorado Springs while Palmer was second in that same meet and finished second in the CSU Invitational at Fort Collins last Saturday.

A number of top athletes will be on hand, including sprinters Jim Sanford of Pueblo South, Gene Small of Palmer, and Vernon Dickey of Grand Junction. Small has a 10.0 clocking to his credit and Dickey and Sanford have both run 9.9.

Wasson's Chuck Stuart, who holds one-fifth of the state pole vault record, vaulters Gene Shumate of Grand Junction and Bob McCoy of Palmer, shot-putter Bob Stanley of Wasson, broad-jumper Charlie Newton of Palmer, miler Jeff Berven of Wasson, and discus-thrower Mike Sorrell of Wasson all rank among the state's best in their specialties.

Following is a resume of the field events and relays. The other track events were reviewed Wednesday.

WEIGHTS — Records: Shot Put, 49-9¾ by Walt Millron of Colorado Springs High School 1957. Discus, 150-3 by Gene Shew of Trinidad, 1941. Wasson could dominate these events and it will be almost necessary for the Thunderbirds to do so if they hope to win the championship. Stanley will be the favorite in the shot put with Gregg Holmes of Grand Junction and Bill Gobin of Pueblo South the top challengers. Stanley at 54-6 and Holmes at 52-4 are the only two who have done better than 50 feet but the competition should be enough that the winner will break the record. Dan Greiner of South, Pat Rollison of East and Milt Frank of Centennial are others who should be in the running.

It is in the discus where Wasson has its best chance to fatten up but the Thunderbird stars have been inconsistent even for this inconsistent event. Mike Sorrell has a toss of better than 166, Stanley better than 157 and they should place one-two. Chuck Stuart and Rich Bishop give the Birds two others capable of placing. Fred Gloss of Palmer, Jim Shiner of East, Gobin of South, Holmes of Junction, and Gary Gehlhoff of Central will try to cut into the Wasson total. The record should fall if either Sorrell or Stanley has a good day.

BROAD JUMP — Record: 23-2¼ by Doug Dienelt of Wasson 1962. Charlie Newton of Palmer will be the favorite with Sanford favored for the runner-up also. Newton has one jump of over 23 feet and could get the record again Saturday. Sanford did 22-8 early in the season but hasn't approached it since. Dominic Flacco of Wasson who has done over 21 feet on two or three occasions could give his team a boost here by getting out. Alan Ma[illegible] of East, Jim Mangino of Trinidad, Sam Butler of Centennial and Gene Sanders of South are other top challengers.

HIGH JUMP — Record: 6-4½ by Don Meyers, Colorado Springs High School, 1958. Probably the weakest of the events this year, the high jump should be wide open Saturday. Harold Williams and Jim Soldano of Central may be the two best but Butler of Centennial, Ernie Gonzales of East, Dennis Rice of Palmer, Mike Martin of Wasson and Gary Gordon of South are all capable of scoring points. No one figures to come close to the record.

POLE VAULT — Record: [illegible] by Duane Whitaker, Grand Junction, 1962. As has been the case throughout the year in Colorado, this figures to be a feature event. Stuart (13-2) and Gene Shumate (13-0) of Grand Junction figure as favorites but McCoy (12-[illegible]) and Gehlhoff (12-6) will make it interesting. Charles Brass of South, Ned Farr of East and Norm Mackay of Palmer should fight for what's left over by the top four. The record could go.

RELAYS — Records: 880 Relay, 1:32.1 by Pueblo South, 1962. Mile Relay, 3:27.6 by Colorado Springs High School, 1959. Palmer will be favored in both relay events and could set records in each. If Sanford does not run the quarter and goes on the 880 relay team instead, South will give the Terrors a stiff battle there. So will Junction, Central and possibly Trinidad, with Wasson and East capable of placing.

In the mile event the Terrors appear to have a clear cut edge having posted a 3:28 clocking already. Central would appear to be the runnerup choice but Wasson, with Stanley and Stuart running for the first time, broke the school record by four seconds last week and could even press the Tribe. East and Trinidad are the best bets for the other two places.

Tiger Tennis Team Defends Crown Here

Colorado College puts its Rocky Mountain Conference title on the line this weekend in the RMC championships — but the defending champs will keep a hand on the trophy eager to keep the cup in the rustic confines of Cossitt Hall.

The matches at the Garden of the Gods Club courts will start with singles play at 9 a.m. Friday and continue thruout the day. The singles semi-finals are set for 2 p.m. Friday with the finals in this divisions scheduled for 10:30 a.m. to noon on Saturday.

The doubles matches will be on Saturday, starting in the morning and ending that afternoon. All matches are open to the public without admission charge, according to CC Coach Pete Peterson, who is in charge of the tournament.

"We look like the logical choice to win the championship again," Peterson said. The Bengals won the title by a lopsided margin in 1962. Overwhelming their nearest opponent, Adams State College, by 16 points. Another victory this year would be the second consecutive tennis crown for the Bengal netters and would entitle them to representation in the NCAA tournament this fall.

However, Peterson pointed out that the conference is no push-over this year. Both Colorado Mines and Adams State have much improved teams over last year. Despite the Tigers' 8-1 victory over Mines and 6-0 win over Adams State last Saturday, Peterson looks for a tough struggle in the championship play. The Bengals have won seven and lost three this season. They have not been defeated in Rocky Mountain Conference competition.

Peterson said the tournament probably will break down into a red-hot race for the singles championship. Prime contenders, he said, are Russ Sperry, Colorado College's defending champion, and Cy Dyer, CC's promising new freshman.

The other conference members are expected to court excellent men for the singles contest. Among the most outstanding, Peterson pinpointed Rick Aquino, Colorado State College's senior veteran from Kapaa, Kauai, Hawaii; Adams State's Tim Choy; and Mines' Gary Gantner, Covina, California, and Roger Hermans, Junior titleholder from the Principality of Monaco.

St. Mary's Honors Athletes At Lettermen's Banquet

Athletes of four major sports were honored Wednesday night for their participation in baseball, football, track and basketball at the annual St. Mary's High School lettermen's banquet at the Alamo Hotel.

Richie Jewett, the fleet-footed triple threat athlete, was presented with the Most Outstanding Athlete trophy by Jim Kelly, president of the St. Mary's Men's Club, the sponsor of the awards and backer of the sports program at the parochial school.

Tom Gleeson was presented the Dave Knauf Memorial trophy by Mayor Harry Hoth and owner of KRDO, the donator of the annual lineman award. Lynn McCann and Jim McKinna were presented trophies for the most outstanding girl and boy in extra-curricular activities.

The Pirate coaches, school officials, athletes, and rooters were captivated by the featured speaker, George Ireland, coach of Loyola of Chicago basketball team.

This past season Ireland led his Ramblers to the National Collegiate Athletic Association basketball title in an upset victory over Cincinnati in the finals at Louisville, Ky. Since that time the Chicago mentor has been in great demand all over the country as a speaker before all types of athletic groups.

Father Leo Kennedy, athletic director at St. Mary's, acted as master of ceremonies and introduced the successor to the late Ed Murphy, who died April 20. Dan Wright will take over duties as head basketball coach and told the audience he expected big things for next year's team.

Nicklaus, Palmer Favored As Colonial Gets Underway

There are 61 professionals, including six former Colonial champions, and five amateurs, including national champion Labron Harris Jr., playing in the seventeenth Colonial.

Nicklaus, the National Open champion who has won three tournaments this year, including the Masters, and leads the money-winners by $20,000, is the favorite as a matter of course. But Palmer, who won last year in a playoff with Johnny Pott, and a half-dozen others are rated good chances of rushing past Jack to grab the $12,000 first money.

That the par 70, 7,021 yard Colonial course can be had was demonstrated in a pro-amateur Wednesday when six players blistered par. Bob Charles, the New Zealand southpaw, cut out a 4-under-par 66, only a stroke over the course record, in leading the way.

Don January, Mike Souchak and Gary Player all had 68's.

Nicklaus and Palmer shot lackluster 74's.

Former Colonial champions in the field are Palmer, Doug Sanders, Julius Boros, Tommy Bolt, Cary Middlecoff and Souchak. Also only one member of the top 10 money winners is missing. He is Billy Casper, rated No. 5 on the list, who is out with an injury.

The 72-hole tournament runs through Sunday.

Men's Baseball League Teams Need Sponsors

The 1963 Men's Baseball League is being organized with four teams expressing interest in joining the program at this time. Plans call for at least a four team league with a maximum of eight teams. All games in the Men's League will be played at night in Memorial Park.

Many of the teams being formed are in the need of sponsors. Sponsors of a team are asked to furnish the entry fee which pays for the cost of umpires and league trophies. Entry fee for the first round of competition as been set at $55. Persons interested in the possibility of sponsoring a team may contact the city Recreation Division, 634-4881, for information and details.

Plans are being made for practice under lights before the leauge starts. The league will get under way during the first week of June. A final organizational meeting of the league will be held on Tuesday, May 14, at 7:30 p.m. in the Memorial Park Recreation Center. At this time, the teams must have the first round entry fee in order to enter the league.

50-1 Shots Highlight Running at Aqueduct

NEW YORK (UPI) — A pair of 50-1 shots highlighted the racing program Wednesday at Aqueduct. Prince Bective paid $101.80 in winning the third race and Dark King returned $113.20 by capturing the $20,000 added Youthful Stakes.

Big Eight Teams Tune For Meet

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

Colorado athletes had the best marks in seven events today as Big Eight track teams tuned up for the conference championships at Manhattan, Kan., May 17-18, but this doesn't make the Buffaloes the favorites.

Oklahoma State had the best marks in three events, Missouri, Nebraska and Kansas State in two each and Kansas in one.

Missouri, Nebraska's indoor champions and O-State rate on a par with the Buffs in depth and talent. All four have a chance to take it all and Kansas could break into the first four. Oklahoma won the 1962 crown.

Colorado would need all-winning performances from a small crew of top athletes headed by Jim Miller, Bob Griffith and Leander Durley. Miller has the best time of the current outdoor season in both the 120-year high hurdles, with 14.1 and the 330-yard hurdles, with 36.6.

Durley has the best triple jump mark at 47-10¾ and the top high jump of the season at 6-8¾. But he faces a talent-packed field in each event, including Larry Ellert of Iowa State, defending high jump champion.

Bob Griffith of the Buffs, turned in an outstanding double against Nebraska and Air Force last Saturday, taking the mile in 4:09.8 and the 880 in 1:53.8. In the mile he defeated Mike Fleming, defending outdoor Big Eight champion at 4:08.1 last year.

Other defending champions returning are Richard Inman, Oklahoma, in the shot put; Greg Pelster, Missouri, 880, and Preston Holsinger, O-State, pole vault. Pelster has the best seasonal time in his specialty, 1:50.4, with unofficial relay carries down to 1:47.5. Holsinger is best in the pole vault at 15-5. Inman, slowed by an injury, is second to Yul Yost of Kansas so far.

Most records in at least five events will be in jeopardy. Pat McNeal twice has surpassed the mile record of 4:06.2, with a best market of 4:05.3. McNeal, Fleming and Griffith should bring down the mile mark.

The triple jump is a new addition to the meet this season, the three mile replaces the two mile and the 330 hurdles replace the 220 hurdles.

Here are the season's best marks, excluding relay carries:

440 relay — 41.1 by Colorado; mile run — 4:05.3 by McNeal; 440 — 46.9 by Charles Strong of O-State; 100 — 9.5 by Ray Knaub, Nebraska; 120 high hurdles — 14.1 by Miller; 880 — 1:50.4 by Pelster; 220 — 20.8 by Dick Burns, Colo.; three-mile — 14:41.1 by Roy Bryant, Missouri; 330 hurdles — 36.6 by Miller; Mile relay — 3:12.2 by Colo.; pole vault — 15-5 by Holsinger; high jump — 6-8¾ by Durley; shot put — 57-8 by Yost; Javelin — 237-4 by Bill Floerke, K-State; discus — 173-8 by John Anderson, O-State; broad jump — 23-10½ by Victor Brooks, Neb.; triple jump — 47-10¾ by Durley.

Umpires Meeting For Softball Set Tonight

The second meeting of the year of the Pikes Peak Chapter, International Federation of Amateur Softball Association Umpires has been called for by president Joe Jividen at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, May 9 at the Memorial Park Recreation Center. The first meeting was held on May 2, 1963 for the purpose of discussing requirements for the coming season.

Officers for the current year will be elected at the Thursday meeting so all members are urged to attend. Copies of the by-laws of the Association will be distributed to members and rules of the Industrial and City Leagues will be discussed.

There are several openings for umpires in the leagues, according to Jividen, and newcomers to the region who have had some experience in officiating softball are urged to attend the meeting and apply for membership. Tests will be made available by the Association for those not now registered with the Amateur Softball Association.

Musial Breaks Ruth's Record

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Babe Ruth's career high of 1,356 extra base hits went out of baseball's record books Wednesday night when Stan Musial walloped a fourth inning homer against the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The wallop gave the St. Louis Cardinal star a total of 1,357 extra base hits, breaking the tie he gained last week with the old time Yankee slugger.

Musial now holds or shares 42 National League records and 15 major league marks.

Fountain Junior High Track Meet Set for Saturday

Seven teams are slated to compete in the Fountain Junior High School Invitational track and field meet this Saturday.

Competing in the three grade sections, seventh, eighth and freshmen will be Canon City, Florence, Air Academy High, St. Mary's, Cheyenne Mountain and the host team. There will be nearly 500 youngsters competing in the one-day meet.

Willie Davis Gives Dodgers New Push

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Sports Writer

One of the Los Angeles Dodgers' big concerns this season has been the hitting slump of Tommy Davis, who led the National League with a .346 average and 153 runs batted in last season. He's been hampered by leg injuries and is hitting only .227.

But Willie Davis, sometimes called the other Davis, suddenly has taken up the slack. In the last four games, Willie's had seven hits in 15 times at bat and has driven in five runs.

It's no coincidence that the Dodgers have won three of the four, including an 11-5 decision over St. Louis Wednesday night. Willie had two homers and a triple in that one, driving in three runs and scoring the one that broke a 5-5 tie.

San Francisco opened a two-game lead atop the standings with a 12-5 victory over Milwaukee's slumping Braves. Cincinnati edged Houston 3-2, the Chicago Cubs bombed Pittsburgh 9-5 and New York's Mets downed Philadelphia 3-2.

Willie Davis' triple triggered a five-run eighth inning that broke a 5-5 tie at St. Louis. He scored on an error. Junior Gilliam wrapped it up later in the inning with a three-run homer.

The Cardinals' Stan Musial also had a homer, breaking Babe Ruth's major league record for extra base hits. Musial now has 1,357 extra base hits.

The Giants, who have won eight of their last nine, rushed in seven runs on five hits and a couple of errors in the fourth inning at Milwaukee and breezed in. It was Milwaukee's fifth straight loss. Willie McCovey homered for the Giants, Frank Bolling for the Braves.

Veteran lefty Joe Nuxhall scattered seven hits in pitching the Reds past Houston.

The Cubs struck for four runs in the eighth inning, triggered by Nelson Mathews' homer, broke a 5-5 tie and went on to beat the Pirates.

Jay Hook struck out 10, allowed only four hits and set up New York's winning run with a ninth inning double against Philadelphia. Ed Kranepool's blooping double scored Rod Kanehl, running for Hook.

Johansson Thinks He'll Hang Up Gloves for Good

Johansson, the blond Swede who shocked the boxing world with his knockout of Floyd Patterson in their title bout in 1959, told newsmen Wednesday that he has not yet made a final decision, but said he thought his rating was no longer high enough to bring him opponents who would make it worth while to continue.

In the latest ratings, he was ranked fourth by Ring magazine and sixth by the World Boxing Association among contenders for Sonny Liston's title.

He won his last fight, a 12-round decision over England's Brian London April 21 in Stockholm, but was saved by the bell. He was knocked down in the final seconds and appeared to have little chance of recovering in the space of a 10 count.

Angels' Eli Grba Sent to Minors

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Pitcher Eli Grba, the first player drafted by the Los Angeles Angels in 1960 for $75,000, has been sent down to the minors.

The 6-foot-3, 215-pound right-hander was shipped Wednesday to Hawaii of the Pacific Coast League on 24-hour recall. The Angels also cut pitcher Ron Moeller and infielder Tom Satriano to reduce their roster to 24.

Grba, an ex-Yankee, pitched the opening games for Los Angeles in 1961 and 1962. He had an 11-13 record in 1961 and was 8-9 last season. This year he had a 1-1 record and had appeared in only 8 1-3 innings in seven games.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BATTING—Willie Davis, Dodgers, hit two homers, and tripled in eighth inning, scoring the tie-breaking run as Los Angeles went on to wallop St. Louis 11-5.

PITCHING—Don Rudolph, Senators, allowed only one hit for 12 innings while retiring 25 batters in order and wound up with a four-hitter in a 6-3 [illegible] over Cleveland.

AP SPORTLIGHT

Hypnotic Comeback

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Last winter fans, teammates and University of Utah coach Jack Gardner were electrified at the amazing comeback of Allen Holmes, who had been told he'd never play basketball again because of a mangled leg.

Today Holmes gave his hypnotist most of the credit for his rise from the wheelchair.

Dr. Thomas A. Clawson, the hypnotist, said: "He wanted to play basketball. And it is necessary that the patient provide the motive."

Let's go back. Allen Holmes went from Phoenix High School to Weber Junior College at Ogden, Utah, where he won junior college All-America honors. The next year he completed a celebrated season with the University of Utah, which lost in the NCAA playoffs.

Then came the automobile accident in which his right leg was mangled. He watched the next season from a wheelchair and later on crutches. He was given his senior blanket, dropped from the roster, and supposedly forgotten.

But Holmes wanted to play. At the beginning of the 1962-63 season he began working out with the squad. The other players tolerated him and the coach pitied him, as he hobbled about the floor.

Utah, without the great center Bill "The Hill" McGill, was in a losing season, and Coach Gardner commented one day:

"I may have to use Holmes at center. He's the best I've got."

A great ovation went up for Allen Holmes when he played his first five minutes. Then he played a full half, three quarters, and finally a full game. His comeback was phenomenal and he finished the season as the club hero.

What happened?

"I was discouraged," Holmes said. "I thought of quitting. I was lame. I could shoot off only one foot. I could not stop and start.

"Then a friend suggested that I see a friend of his."

The friend's friend was Dr. Clawson, a specialist in internal medicine who also is a consultant in medical hypnosis.

Says Holmes:

"With the approval of the other doctors who had worked on my leg, Dr. Clawson and I went to work—with hypnotic treatments.

"Dr. Clawson gave me to understand that he could not give me more talent than I once had, but that he could give me the confidence to call completely upon the talent I now had.

"The coach knew nothing about it. Only one or two teammates knew what I was doing. I went when I needed help most—just before practice or before a game. Then Dr. Clawson taught me a simple thing of self-hypnosis.

"While they were playing the National Anthem and I had a few seconds of my own I would concentrate. Sometimes at halftime I would do it again—or whenever I could.

"More and more my injured right leg came back to normal use. I forgot about jumping off the wrong foot. No one blocked my shots, as they did at first. I could fake as fast as ever—and didn't have to plan a fake by favoring my sore leg.

"I never regained full use of my lame leg and possibly I never will. But I feel that I was able to get everything out of it that there was left in it. Moreover, I forgot about my handicap. It was easy. There was no pain."

Maio Takes Holy Family Job

Maio said he will become head baseball coach at Denver Holy Family School, and an assistant in other sports. He has been at Trinidad one year.

Last season his basketball team posted a 9-11 won-lost record, and his football team was 5-4.

A graduate of Trinidad Catholic and Trinidad Junior College, Maio also attended Colorado State College. He later joined the faculty of Rice Junior High School in Trinidad.

Indians' Green Fined for 'Jumping' Club

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gene Green's return to the Cleveland Indians wasn't anything to write home about.

The veteran utility player was fined an undisclosed amount when he rejoined the Indians Wednesday after "jumping" the club in Los Angeles. Hours later, he appeared as a pinch-hitter against the Washington Senators and struck out.

Green's absenteeism cost him one day's pay for his failure to show up for Tuesday night's game against the Senators. It was reported he also would be docked for missing the team's plane in Los Angeles Monday.

While "holding out" in Los Angeles, Green said he was "fed up" with the Indians because Manager Birdie Tebbetts has used him only sparingly this season.

"I've only been at bat four times this season — and that's ridiculous," he declared.

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer

Don Rudolph turned in an amazing pitching performance and Don Lock hit a grand slam homer in the 13th inning for a 6-3 Senator victory over Cleveland in Washington Wednesday night.

Rudolph allowed only one hit—a single by Tony Martinez in the fourth inning—until the 13th when he began to tire.

In between he retired 25 Indians in a row—the equivalent of pitching 8 1-3 innings of perfect ball. He wound up with a four-hitter.

While Rudolph was turning in his masterpiece, the Chicago White Sox broke one up, shelling Kansas City's Ed Rakow for eight runs in the seventh inning after he had pitched perfect ball for six innings. The 8-3 triumph over the A's moved the White Sox into the American League lead.

Baltimore belted Boston 10-4 and knocked the Red Sox out of first place. Al Kaline's two-run ninth inning homer gave Detroit a 7-6 decision over the New York Yankees and Ken Hunt's tie-breaking homer provided the Los Angeles Angels with a 4-3 triumph over Minnesota.

Rudolph was locked in a tight pitchers' duel with Jack Kralick for 12 innings.

Then, in the top of the 13th, the Indians struck for two runs on three hits—a single by Mike de la Hoz, Johnny Romano's triple and a single by Vic Davalillo. But Cleveland relievers Barry Latman and Ron Nischwitz couldn't hold the lead. Marv Breeding's single drove in one Washington run before Lock wrapped up Rudolph's third victory against two losses.

The White Sox put together their eight-run outburst on six hits, three walks and two errors. Eddie Fisher went the distance for the victory, although tagged for a ninth inning homer by Norm Siebern.

The Orioles lashed 17 hits while Steve Barber managed to keep 12 Red Sox hits well spaced. Brooks Robinson led the Baltimore attack with three singles and a double and Jim Gentile chipped in with a homer.

Kaline cracked his homer off reliever Jim Bouton after Norm Cash walked to open the last of the ninth. Tom Tresh had put the Yankees ahead 6-5 in the seventh inning with his second homer of the night. Yogi Berra and Clete Boyer also homered for New York while Jake Wood connected twice and Bubba Phillips once for Detroit.

Hunt's eighth inning homer off Jim Kaat snapped a 3-3 tie, gave the Angels the three-game series, two games to one and dropped the Twins into last place.

Right-Hander Hickman Will Join Bears

DENVER (AP) — Right-handed pitcher Clair Hickman, 27, will join the Denver Bears of the Pacific Coast League this weekend. He has been with Austin of the Texas League.

Hickman stands 6 feet 4 and weighs 190. He was in the military service last year and is a native of Waukesha, Wis.

A Denver first baseman, Paul Snyder, has been returned to the parent Milwaukee Braves for reassignment.

Centerfielder Albie Pearson is the only member of the Los Angeles Angels who has been in the opening day lineup all three years of the team's existence.

New Amendments Will Not Succeed, President Thinks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy believes that a group of restrictive constitutional amendments proposed by states rights advocates will fail to win ratification, and he will "be glad when they do not."

Kennedy was asked about the amendments at his news conference Wednesday. They are advocated by the Council of State Governments.

They would declare that nothing in the constitution could prevent a state government from apportioning its legislature; let the state legislatures amend the constitution without approval of Congress or a constitutional convention, and set up a Court of the Union, made up of the 50 state chief justices, to review all U. S. Supreme Court decisions.

The apportionment amendment has been approved by 12 legislatures, the state amending proposal by 10 and the Court of the Union by four. It takes 38 states—three fourths of the total—to ratify a constitutional amendment.

San Diego Tops Denver In PCL Game

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Portland's rain didn't rust its baseball team. The Pacific Coast League Beavers, who were kept inactive for three days by the rain, came out of hibernation Wednesday to defeat the Dallas-Fort Worth Rangers twice 3-1 and 10-5.

The victories gave Portland a second place tie in the Northern Division with Seattle, which downed Oklahoma City 5-2. Tacoma kept its 1½ game lead in the division by shutting out Hawaii 4-0. Spokane edged Salt Lake City, top team in the Southern Division 2-1. And San Diego got by Denver 7-6 in the league's other contest.

Tight pitching by Bob Flynn and Moe Drabowsky, who let the Rangers have only two hits, accounted for Portland's triumph in the opener. The Beavers proved they had some sluggers in the second game, particularly in the eighth inning when they collected five runs on a walk, two doubles, a single and a home run.

Tacoma's Jerry Thomas held the Islanders to five hits in tallying his fourth win of the season. Hawaii's Fred Newman kept Tacoma under control until the fourth when the Giants scored one run after a pair of singles. Tacoma collected three more runs in the eighth.

Jerry Stephenson pitched a three-hitter for Seattle in winning his first decision of the season. The Rainiers scored all the runs they needed in the first inning when Bobby Gene Smith singled home two runs and scored himself on Jim Rivera's single.

The San Diego Padres blasted Denver with four home runs and 10 other hits in their second straight win over the Bears.

Spokane picked up its winning run in the eighth inning when John Werhas got a double out of a high pop fly that the wind kept out of the reach of two infielders. Werhas came home on Al Ferraria's single.

Chaplains Are Added to Businesses

By BOB HARING

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Fred Renfroe and Charlie Martin are chaplains of business and industry.

The Rev. Mr. Renfroe is part-time chaplain for a supermarket chain. The Rev. Mr. Martin is chaplain for an oil refinery.

Both tend to spiritual and emotional needs of employes and, though both are ordained ministers both tend to be nondenominational in their work.

Martin has been a chaplain at the Sunray DX Oil Co. refinery for 15 years. Renfroe has served employes of Jitney Jungle Stores for three years.

But their jobs are similar.

"Most of our men handle hazardous jobs," Martin says. "If their minds aren't on their work, they can seriously injure themselves and others."

Martin began with Sunray as a safety department worker 38 years ago. He studied for the ministry, then with company permission, began leading devotions during lunch hours and finally moved into a post as chaplain for the 1,350 employes.

"At one time or another, almost all of them have come to me with their problems," he says. Families of employes also take advantage of the chaplain's service. Martin meets with employes on "counsel breaks"—a few minutes away from their jobs—or answers calls at night or on weekends.

"Many employes don't go to church, so our program is a link for them," he says, "the only church they have."

Both men give advice on such temporal matters as loans, marriages and a variety of other matters.

"Modern man must learn to break the tension of daily living or the tension will break him," Martin says.

Renfroe also is concerned about mental health. "Anxiety does not empty tomorrow of its troubles, but it robs today of its strength," he says.

The chaplains, by comforting troubled employes, provide a saving to the employers. Martin noted that a Public Health Service survey showed that industry loses $3 billion a year due to employes' emotional difficulties and another $9 billion as an indirect result of those troubles.

Renfroe, who counsels young stock boys and supermarket checkers on such things as marriage and finance, says his employers "believe their employes should work with them—not for them."

Monday, May 13, has been designated as the day for voting on the bonds to construct a new junior-senior high school. The amount is $395,000.

The 1963 Junior-Senior Banquet and Prom was held Friday night at Trout Haven Cafe and Lodge in Divide. The junior class who hosted the seniors and faculty chose for their theme "Moon River."

A bridge of silver and blue, the senior class colors, greeted the guests as they entered and the decorations were the same colors and theme. Dan Fuqua, junior class president, extended a welcome which was responded to by Ken Radebaugh, senior class president. Juniors and seniors alternately made toasts. For entertainment the juniors did imitations of the seniors and George Foulke gave a humorous reading.

The prom was held in a rustic lodge decorated with contrasting blue streamers. Dance music was provided by a three piece band from the Air Force Academy High School. High school sophomores who served the dinner were Linda Metheny, Karen Imboden, Pat Kauffman, Janeen Fritts, Dick Schupp and Junior Wellborn.

A large crowd turned out Thursday night for the Sports Spectacular sponsored by the band parents to raise funds for the band. Features of the fun were a girls hockey game, womens basketball game, boys volley ball game and a championship badminton match between faculty members. An added attraction of the evening was the Madrical Singers from Colorado State College whose marvelous singing held the audience spell bound.

The freshmen are having a chili dinner Friday, May 10, at 5 p.m. A sock hop is planned after the dinner from 7:30-10:30. Everyone is invited, adults .75, children under 12, .35 cents.

CAPITOL STUFF

By JERRY GREENE

WASHINGTON — A group of United States Military Intelligence officers is quietly boiling over a new British look which protrays Americans as a bunch of boobs swayed into World War II thru operations of the British Secret Intelligence Service.

The officers are pushing for a congressional investigation of the now-it-can-be-told spy story and subsequent developments which, they believe, indicate the super-secret BSIS is still meddling in American foreign policy. They are particularly interested in BSIS and the touchy U.S. De Gaulle relations.

The book is entitled "Room 3603," with the subtitle, "The Story of the British Intelligence Center in New York During World War II." (Farrar, Straus and Co. The Author is H. Montgomery Hyde, a noted British historian with a couple of dozen books to his credit. Hyde reveals himself as one of the intelligence agents during the war.

The title is taken from the wartime headquarters of the "British Security Coordination," American arm of BSIS, which were in Room 3603, at 630 5th Ave., New York. The head man was a Canadian, Sir William Stephenson, a millionaire inventor and industrialist. He was knighted for his services, given the medal of merit by former President Truman and, according to the book, still lives in an expensive apartment building block bordering the East River in New York.

On the surface, "Room 3603" is just another of the gee-whiz what-a-wonderful-job-we-did publications, with dashes of sex and intrigue. It is an excellent tribute to the genius of Sir William. It contains glowing accounts of the cooperation between the U. S. and the British toward winning the war. It is lavish in its praise of J. Edgar Hoover and the FBI.

It also — ever so neatly — knifes Hoover as an overly ambitious power-snatching individual quite willing to bypass legal technicalities.

The FBI declined comment on the book or its disclosures.

Most importantly, it demonstrates with names, dates and places how thoroughly BSIS penetrated the highest levels of the U. S. government to sway policy decisions.

That's the gimmick that has aroused the old-line American intelligence officers. The book was published last year in Britain under another title.

"If De Gaulle or one of his aids saw this," a U. S. intelligence officer said, "and certainly they must have — for it gives details of the theft of french codes from the embassy in Washington — then how could he help wondering about BSIS and the British influence here today? He has been given ample basis for his suspicions."

Author Hyde reveals investigative procedures which have been held sacred by military intelligence officers. He brazenly provides details of policy operations and propaganda maneuvers which are bound to hold the U.S. up to ridicule in international eyes.

In the wake of much blather about "managed news" in Washington in recent months, Hyde recites a tale of news management by BSIS in 1940-41 to curl an editor's hair — if there is any left by the time the reading is done.

If Hyde's statements are not ture, then several leading American journalists have wide-open ground for libel action, for he says that Stephenson's agents not only planted stories, but in several instances actually then wrote the copy which was printed without change under well-known American names. The author boasted of penetrating syndicates with propaganda.

He had only one reference to the New York News, and that was unfriendly, the News was termed "isolationist."

Hyde went into minute detail over planting a particular series of stories, one of which was so phony that BSIS was justified in enjoying the gullibility of the Americans. This was the week of Aug. 31, 1941, and the headlines in a New York paper (and 100 others) cried out "Vichy Agents Sought Plans of Bren Gun — Tried to get Blueprints of Weapon Defending Britain From Invasion."

This was in the midst of an elaborate campaign to discredit Vichy French representatives in Washington.

Now when the press fell for this one, almost any hardware store owner could have told an inquirer that the Bren gun was a British modification of a Czech weapon which had been on the commercial market since 1926. Besides, the Germans had long since taken over the Czech factory, they were making better weapons, and the bren wasn't worth much anyhow.

"It was," Hyde's book relates, "a tremendous scoop for the—"

"While it is possibly true," the book says, "to say that most Americans are intensely suspicious of propaganda, it is certain that a great many of them are remarkably susceptible to it, even in its most patent and blatant form."

The book gives lurid details of how BSIS used a hot bed artiste, intelligence-trained, to grab a secret cipher from an Italian naval officer and then get him booted out of this country. The damsel then moved into the sheets with a French officer to steal the French codes. Hyde reported she and the officer — given the only pseudonyms in the book — are now happily married. That, presumably, was before the Frenchman read "Room 3603" and learned of his Italian predecessor.

Hyde peels off the covers to show how Stephenson moved in on the late Maj. Gen. William (Wild Bill) Donovan, and on J. Edgar Hoover and thru them established a direct contact with the last President Roosevelt for a supply of secret intelligence.

An astounding revelation was that this intelligence link thru and Hoover was established with the explicit understanding that neither the U.S. military chief nor the State Department be allowed to know of the connection.

On Nov. 27, 1941, Hyde reports, Stephenson received a special message from the White House and cabled London: "Japanese negotiations off. Services expect action within two weeks."

In London, there was a great flurry and cables rocketed to the embassy here. The ambassador, Lord Halifax, was summoned from a Virginia fox hunt to report back to Downing Street that he had no such information. So Stephenson was asked by the British Cabinet for the source of his vital warning. He replied, "the President of the U.S.A."

Hyde reports that the late Secretary of State Cordell Hull gave this information to Halifax two days later.

The book did not neglect to include a snide crack at Joseph P. Kennedy, father of President Kennedy and former ambassador to the court of St. James's. Donovan was sent on a red carpet trip to England in 1940, the book recalls, and was received with flourishes by the King and Winston Churchill. Stephenson arranged the trip, and Hyde reports:

"One person Donovan did not see in London was the defeatist Ambassador Joseph Kennedy, who by a calculated snub was not advised by the White House of Donovan's tour."

The author gave Stephenson credit for dreaming up the office of Coordinator of Information and maneuvering Donovan into the top job, over his protests. The COI swelled into the Office of Strategic Services after Pearl Harbor, with Donovan continuing as chief.

A good many Amricans who did not believe that the U. S. should enter World War II will be interested in the boastful details of how the BSIS worked to discredit and wreck the old American First organization.

There are the candid facts about how BSIS printed counterfeit tickets to paper Madison Square Garden to disrupt an American First rally Oct. 30, 1941, when Charles A. Lindbergh was to speak. The scheme fell thru because the crowd was small.

But BSIS indulged lustily in U.S. elections and legislative affairs and, thinly under the sugar-coating, Hyde's book boasts of enormous successes.

It is assumed that all has been forgiven since we have been blood brothers and allies, and such.

A congressional investigation, if there should be one, would obviously get nowhere. But the American intelligence officers, who somehow have absorbed the quaint notion that the U.S. interest should still come first, are wondering why, with all its elaborate detail, this book was published with official British sanction, as it so states.

At best, it is a national insult. At worst, it could be sinister. It won't win American any friends in Paris or Rome.

A completely equipped village for the handicapped is being built near Arnhem, the Netherlands. When completed it will house 300 handicapped persons, with an attendant staff of 300 nurses.

Elimination of State Auditor's Office Sought

DENVER (AP) — A special legislative committee decided today to study a sweeping revision of Colorado's state government including elimination of the state auditor's office as it now exists.

Also included will be a study whether the secretary of state and state treasurer should be whiped out as elected officials and made simply appointees of the governor.

The Legislature's Committee on Organization of State Government, beginning its third year of work, voted shortly afternoon to take up the matters during the next year.

Under a plan outlined to the committee in general terms the auditor's office would be broken up and part of it would be made an arm of the Legislature itself. Some 20 states now work along this line, the committee was advised by Lyle Kyle, director of the Legislative Council and Bob Bronstein of the Management Analysis Office.

The remainder of the auditor's functions would be absorbed into the state controller's office.

Rep. Allen Dines, D-Denver, said he had discussed the idea with State Auditor John Proctor.

Dines said a possibility would be a middle course — appointment of a legislative committee to work with the present auditor's staff.

Elimination of the auditor's office or any change in selection of an auditor, secretary of state or treasurer would require constitutional amendments.

Dines was the prime mover for consideration of making the secretary of state and treasurer appointive posts. He commented that there is now "no need for either to be elected."

The proposals approach the "short ballot" idea which has been suggested several times in Colorado but never has won approval. However, the plans put before the legislative committee would not affect the attorney general, who also is elected.

Constitutional amendments proposed during the last legislative session, but not acted upon, prompted the committee to go into the advisability of changing the system of electing Colorado's executive officers.

Scholar Seeks Clues to Old Maya Secrets

By JERRY CURRY

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill. (AP) — The first word T. Patrick Culbert heard from his infant son was potscherd—an archeological term meaning broken pottery.

Culbert, 32, is a specialist who analyzes bits of broken pottery found in the ancient Mayan city of Tikal, 150 miles north of Guatemala City in the tangled jungles of Central America.

He is a member of a project sponsored by the University of Pennsylvania Museum. The project team has been working at Tikal for the past seven years in an attempt to learn more about the Mayan civilization.

"I was with the program continually for a year and a half last year and early this year. I am finishing up my writing and research and going back to Tikal next summer," Culbert said.

Presently he is an assistant professor of anthropology at Southern Illinois University's Edwardsville campus. He lives with his wife and three sons and a collection of broken Tikal pottery on the outskirts of Edwardsville.

It was Culbert's eldest son, Christopher, 3, whose first word was potscherd.

Culbert said "the main use of the pottery is to determine the chronological sequence of life in Tikal from the beginning, at about 1000 B. C. until its apparent end somewhere between 900 and 1000 A. D."

He said that "by tying the pottery fragments in with other data gathered at the five-square-mile Tikal site, we can see several things."

He said it has been determined the upper class in the Mayan civilization was probably priestly.

Tikal is the largest city of several that made up the Mayan civilization in the northern area of Guatemala and British Honduras. Gulbert said the city might, within 15 or 20 years, yield the answer to the Mayan civilization's abrupt end.

Minister May Face Disciplinary Action

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP)—The Presbyterian minister who married Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Margaretta F. Murphy faces disciplinary action at a meeting of the Hudson River Presbytery May 24.

The action involves the Rev. Marshall L. Smith of the Union Church of Pocantico Hills. It centers around a Presbyterian Church rule that approval of the Presbytery is required for a minister to officiate at the marriage of a person divorced less than a year.

Rockefeller was divorced 14 months ago and his new wife was divorced April 1.

The Rev. Joseph P. Bishop, Rye, N.Y., moderator of the Presbytery, announced the intended disciplinary action against the Rev. Mr. Smith. He said the Rev. Mr. Smith had not consulted the Presbytery before performing the ceremony last Saturday.

It will be shown Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. in the junior high school auditorium.

Steel Rods Are Being Dumped, Probers Told

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Counsel for American producers of American steel wire rods Wednesday wound up their case before the U.S. tariff commission on a complaint that wire rods from Belgium are being "dumped" on the U.S. market.

The last witness for the American producers was Wayne Stoughton of the Pittsburgh Steel Co., who testified his company—which also makes finished products from wire rods— had to lower prices to meet competition caused by U.S. manufacturers who used the imported wire rods.

The rods are a semi-finished product and are used to make wire and other products such as wire fasteners, coat hooks and wire mesh.

The Treasury Department has determined Belgian steel rods are being "dumped" on the U.S. market and that they are being sold in the United States at less than fair value. The commission must make the final determination.

Seymour Graubard, counsel for the American Institute for Imported Steel, Inc.—the group opposing the U.S. producers—told a reporter, however, the U.S. producers also must establish their industry is being injured by the imports. He said they could not.

He said the trouble is that the "integrated" U.S. manufacturers —who produce both wire rods and finished products—keep the prices of U.S. wire rods they sell to independent manufacturers too high and the independents have turned to cheaper imported rods to maintain a profit margin.

On the other hand, a spokesman for the U.S. producers said it was the other way around: That the U.S. producers have been forced to cut prices because some of the independents started using the imported rods, thus causing injury.

Per capita income of farmers rose 14 per cent between 1960 and 1962.

Insurance Issued For U.S. Astronauts

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Aetna Life Insurance Co. Wednesday issued $100,000 life insurance policies to each of America's seven original astronauts, including L. Gordon Cooper who is scheduled to orbit the earth 22 times next week.

The company said it considered boxing and steeplejacking more hazardous occupations.

The policies were the first individual policies issued to America's spacemen. The company said applications for the nine new astronauts are now being processed.

George Hogeman, Aetna vice president, said that there was no way the company could determine the actual risk involved in setting the rate for the policies.

"All of the pilots are military jet pilots, so the normal extra charge for this was added," Hogeman said. "Then we added another extra charge for orbital flights."

Another Gallic Revue Planned in New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Dhery, the Frenchman who created the Broadway hit "La Plume de Ma Tante," is readying another Gallic revue for exhibit here. The show, "La Grosse Valse," currently on display in Paris, is due on the White Way next February after a six-week tour. Still to be decided is whether Dhery and his wife, Colette Brissard, will again head the cast as they did in "La Plume."

Elimination of State Auditor's Office Sought

DENVER (AP) — A special legislative committee decided today to study a sweeping revision of Colorado's state government including elimination of the state auditor's office as it now exists.

Also included will be a study whether the secretary of state and state treasurer should be whiped out as elected officials and made simply appointees of the governor.

The Legislature's Committee on Organization of State Government, beginning its third year of work, voted shortly afternoon to take up the matters during the next year.

Under a plan outlined to the committee in general terms the auditor's office would be broken up and part of it would be made an arm of the Legislature itself. Some 20 states now work along this line, the committee was advised by Lyle Kyle, director of the Legislative Council and Bob Bronstein of the Management Analysis Office.

The remainder of the auditor's functions would be absorbed into the state controller's office.

Rep. Allen Dines, D-Denver, said he had discussed the idea with State Auditor John Proctor.

Dines said a possibility would be a middle course — appointment of a legislative committee to work with the present auditor's staff.

Elimination of the auditor's office or any change in selection of an auditor, secretary of state or treasurer would require constitutional amendments.

Dines was the prime mover for consideration of making the secretary of state and treasurer appointive posts. He commented that there is now "no need for either to be elected."

The proposals approach the "short ballot" idea which has been suggested several times in Colorado but never has won approval. However, the plans put before the legislative committee would not affect the attorney general, who also is elected.

Constitutional amendments proposed during the last legislative session, but not acted upon, prompted the committee to go into the advisability of changing the system of electing Colorado's executive officers.

Scholar Seeks Clues to Old Maya Secrets

By JERRY CURRY

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill. (AP) — The first word T. Patrick Culbert heard from his infant son was potscherd—an archeological term meaning broken pottery.

Culbert, 32, is a specialist who analyzes bits of broken pottery found in the ancient Mayan city of Tikal, 150 miles north of Guatemala City in the tangled jungles of Central America.

He is a member of a project sponsored by the University of Pennsylvania Museum. The project team has been working at Tikal for the past seven years in an attempt to learn more about the Mayan civilization.

"I was with the program continually for a year and a half last year and early this year. I am finishing up my writing and research and going back to Tikal next summer," Culbert said.

Presently he is an assistant professor of anthropology at Southern Illinois University's Edwardsville campus. He lives with his wife and three sons and a collection of broken Tikal pottery on the outskirts of Edwardsville.

It was Culbert's eldest son, Christopher, 3, whose first word was potscherd.

Culbert said "the main use of the pottery is to determine the chronological sequence of life in Tikal from the beginning, at about 1000 B. C. until its apparent end somewhere between 900 and 1000 A. D."

He said that "by tying the pottery fragments in with other data gathered at the five-square-mile Tikal site, we can see several things."

He said it has been determined the upper class in the Mayan civilization was probably priestly.

Tikal is the largest city of several that made up the Mayan civilization in the northern area of Guatemala and British Honduras. Gulbert said the city might, within 15 or 20 years, yield the answer to the Mayan civilization's abrupt end.

Minister May Face Disciplinary Action

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — The Presbyterian minister who married Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Margaretta F. Murphy faces disciplinary action at a meeting of the Hudson River Presbytery May 24.

The action involves the Rev. Marshall L. Smith of the Union Church of Pocantico Hills. It centers around a Presbyterian Church rule that approval of the Presbytery is required for a minister to officiate at the marriage of a person divorced less than a year.

Rockefeller was divorced 14 months ago and his new wife was divorced April 1.

The Rev. Joseph P. Bishop, Rye, N.Y., moderator of the Presbytery, announced the intended disciplinary action against the Rev. Mr. Smith. He said the Rev. Mr. Smith had not consulted the Presbytery before performing the ceremony last Saturday.

PREFER U.S.

BONN, Germany (UPI)—About half of the 80,000 Germans who emigrated since the end of World War II went to the United States, the statistical office here reported Tuesday.

It said 401,000 Germans went to the United States, 239,000 to Canada, 83,000 to Australia, 23,000 to Brazil and 21,000 to other South American countries.

Steel Rods Are Being Dumped, Probers Told

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Counsel for American producers of American steel wire rods Wednesday wound up their case before the U.S. tariff commission on a complaint that wire rods from Belgium are being "dumped" on the U.S. market.

The last witness for the American producers was Wayne Stoughton of the Pittsburgh Steel Co., who testified his company—which also makes finished products from wire rods— had to lower prices to meet competition caused by U.S. manufacturers who used the imported wire rods.

The rods are a semi-finished product and are used to make wire and other products such as wire fasteners, coat hooks and wire mesh.

The Treasury Department has determined Belgian steel rods are being "dumped" on the U.S. market and that they are being sold in the United States at less than fair value. The commission must make the final determination.

Seymour Graubard, counsel for the American Institute for Imported Steel, Inc.—the group opposing the U.S. producers—told a reporter, however, the U.S. producers also must establish their industry is being injured by the imports. He said they could not.

He said the trouble is that the "integrated" U.S. manufacturers —who produce both wire rods and finished products—keep the prices of U.S. wire rods they sell to independent manufacturers too high and the independents have turned to cheaper imported rods to maintain a profit margin.

On the other hand, a spokesman for the U.S. producers said it was the other way around: That the U.S. producers have been forced to cut prices because some of the independents started using the imported rods, thus causing injury.

DISQUALIFIED

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — "It could have been a lot of fun," Sherry Leeright said when notified of selection as a delegage to Wyoming Boy's State, an American Legion course in government for high school boys.

But Sherry was disqualified on a technicality. She is a girl.

America's rural population totaled only 200,000 more in 1960 than in 1930.

Insurance Issued For U.S. Astronauts

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Aetna Life Insurance Co. Wednesday issued $100,000 life insurance policies to each of America's seven original astronauts, including L. Gordon Cooper who is scheduled to orbit the earth 22 times next week.

The company said it considered boxing and steeplejacking more hazardous occupations.

The policies were the first individual policies issued to America's spacemen. The company said applications for the nine new astronauts are now being processed.

George Hogeman, Aetna vice president, said that there was no way the company could determine the actual risk involved in setting the rate for the policies.

"All of the pilots are military jet pilots, so the normal extra charge for this was added," Hogeman said. "Then we added another extra charge for orbital flights."
